End Of Switchmen's Walkout In Sight

Back-To-Work Movement Hits St. Louis Area

Embargo On Bulk Mail Is Relaxed

[By The Associated Press]

Striking switchmen drifted back to work in scattered rail yards in increasing numbers Wednesday amid indications that their numbers would swell Thursday.

At St. Louis, a union official said idle switchmen in the St. Louis area would resume work midnight Wednesday. E. W. Boggs, international vice president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said some 2,000 switchmen would be back at work in the area "within two days."

This was the first back-to-work movement reported in the St. Louis area since the walkout began more than a week ago.

A similar report came from Toledo, where Richard J. Jones, president of union Local 152, said he was confident operations would return to normal in the Toledo area "within two or three days." He said at least 75 per cent of the striking switchmen would report for work at the first trick Thursday.

Mail Embargo Relaxed

The Pennsylvania Railroad said normal freight operations have been restored and the New York Central said it was back to 30 per cent of normal in the Toledo area.

Reports of a back to work trend came after a federal judge in Chicago urged the Army to "get some soldiers" to see that the roads operate. The judge is hearing contempt charges against the striking switchmen.

New mediation efforts were resumed in Washington, meanwhile, and W. P. Kennedy, head of the striking switchmen, said "things look good" for settlement.

The Postoffice Department partially relaxed its tight embargo on the handling of bulk mail. The new order permits normal service within the eastern and western halves of the nation but not between them.

The full emargo remains in force for St. Louis and its nearby postoffices and the states of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan, except for the upper peninsula.

However, the two-pound limit on air parcel post mailings was set

Air View Of Train Wreck Scene

This diagrammed air view shows how a commuter train switched off from the main tracks at Woodbridge, N. J., Tuesday night for a short run over a temporary wooden overpass which ended in disaster and death for at least 83. Switch connecting main and detour tracks has been removed since accident.

Wrecked Train Traveling Twice Authorized Limit

Death Toll Reaches 83; Probes Launched

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., Feb. 7 (AP) — High speed of a death-dealing commuter train was cited by authorities today as they opened a many-armed probe into one of the nation's worst rail disasters.

At least 83 died and 500 were injured in the roaring, steel-rending crackup last night.

An army of federal, state and local officials joined in the sweeping investigation, as emergency workers still toiled to clear the twisted, smashed ruins of the 11-car express train.

Assistant Middlesex County Prosecutor Alex Eber said that the crowded Pennsylvania Railroad train, "The Broker," was traveling twice its authorized speed when it hurtled off the tracks.

No Caution Signals

On the basis of preliminary findings, he said, "there are clear indications that speed was involved in the derailment."

He also said there were no caution signals in the immediate vicinity of a newly-built trestle where the train wobbled dizzily, then plunged off the side of a 20-foot embankment.

Eber's statement came after bedside interviews with the train's shaken, injured engineer, Joseph Fitzsimmons, and its injured conductor, John Bishop.

Fitzsimmons, veteran of 33 accident-free years on the rails, was quoted as saying he was traveling 50 miles an hour, although the railroad had fixed a 25-mile speed limit over the temporary overpass. It was his first run over the new spur, officials said.

Sabotage Possibility Checked

He had slowed the train from 60 miles per hour, his statement said, but had not further retarded his speed because he found no caution signal on the curving approach to the trestle.

The engineer admitted he knew about the special speed limit, Eber said.

"When we have compiled all the facts," the prosecutor added, "we then will determine whether there

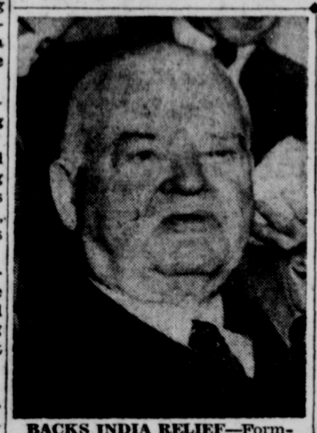
Hoover Agrees To Serve As Advisor In Truman's Food-For-India Campaign

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Herbert Hoover, frequently a sharp critic of administration policy, joined today in President Truman's drive to put through a vast program for feeding famished India.

The Republican former President gave his advice on the proposal at a White House meeting with Mr. Truman and his top aides. Expressing support for at least the fundamental aim of the program, Hoover told a news conference:



BACKS INDIA RELIEF—Former President Herbert Hoover tells reporters at the White House that he has agreed to help the Truman administration provide food relief for famine-threatened India. (AP Wirephoto)

"This has nothing to do with politics, but our fundamental Christian faith. x x x The United States has never in its history failed to be helpful to a famine-stricken people. x x x It will require some sacrifices from all of us."

May Make Grain Available

Hoover indicated he will be available for future advisory work on the relief project.

He refrained from approving specific details of a proposal advanced in some quarters for providing 2,000,000 tons of American grain at a cost of some $200,000,000 to relieve hunger in India resulting from drought, locusts and other troubles.

He made it plain that he expects a large share of the food to come out of this country's stocks but said plans must be worked out also for use of surplus foods from countries much nearer India where the transportation problem will be less.

Nehru Irks Legislators

Cooperation from the former President was sought by the administration in part for its effect on a Congress which does not feel unanmously generous toward India. A good many of the lawmakers disapprove of Prime Minister Nehru's attitude toward Communist China, and are irked over Indian opposition to the United Nations move to brand the Peiping regime as an aggressor in Korea.

The next step, to which today's session appeared to be in part a buildup, will be a conference Friday between Mr. Truman and the chairmen and the ranking Republicans of the Senate and House Foreign Committees.

New Cold Front Moves Into East

[By The Associated Press]

A wave of frigid air swept east from the icy midwest Wednesday. The cold front, reaching from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, moved rapidly toward the Atlantic seaboard.

But forecasters said the weather is not expected to be as severe in the south and east as it was during last week's destructive cold wave.

The Weather Bureau in Chicago predicted temperatures would start to rise in the nation's midsection Thursday.

Wednesday, however, was another wintry day in the Midwest.

Singer Bill Lawrence Enters Army Feb. 14

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP) — Bill Lawrence, popular young radio and television vocalist who got his start through "Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts" program in 1948, is going into the Army.

He is scheduled to report for induction at Mauch Chunk, Pa., Feb. 14.

House Inserts 4 Restrictions Into Trade Bill

Extension Measure Is Sent To Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—With Republicans calling the shots, the House overrode the administration today and wrote four restrictions into the reciprocal trade program. Then it passed, by voice vote, a bill extending the program three years.

Under the program, which dates back to Franklin D. Roosevelt days, the government cuts tariffs in return for trade concessions from foreign nations. The extension bill now goes to the Senate, where administration men are expected to fight to kill the restrictions.

Republicans, backed by some Democrats, succeeded in rewriting the bill to insert these curbs:

"Escape" Clause Inserted

1. An "escape' clause to protect American products. The tariff commission would study the effect of trade agreements. If it found American business is being hurt by imports, the President could, but would not have to, modify the agreement. This was approved by a standing vote of 191 to 89.

2. A "peril point" clause. The Tariff Commission would determine a peril point below which it would be dangerous to reduce a tariff. If the President cut below that point, he would have to explain fully to Congress. Approved 198 to 107 on a standing vote.

3. A provision forbidding tariff cuts on foreign farm goods competing with American products unless the imports sell at a price higher than the U. S. support price. Approved 174 to 110, standing vote.

No Concessions To Russia

4. Bar Russia and its satellites from any tariff concession, directly or indirectly, under future trade agreements. Approved by unanimous voice vote.

An original GOP plan to cut the extension period to two years from June 12, instead of three, was abandoned.

Advocates of the restrictive amendments argued that they were necessary to prevent harm to American business and a lowering of the living standards of American workers.

U. S. Asks Russia To Return Ships

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The United States today formally demanded that Russia immediately return 672 lend-lease naval and merchant ships sent to her aid in World War II.

The State Department disclosed a note demanding this was handed to Soviet Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin at today's stalmated lend-lease talks.

At the same time, the State Department confirmed it is asking the Soviet Union to pay $800,000,000 to settle up Russia's overdue lend-lease account of $10,800,000,000. Russia reportedly has countered with a "final offer" of $240,000,000.

Russia representatives have refused to discuss return of the 672 ships, officials said. The Soviets insist Russia wants to buy the vessels, which include 87 merchant ships.

But the U. S. government flatly refuses to sell them to Moscow unless the Rusians settle up their overall lend-lease account.

Navy Expansion OK'd

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP) — A $2,740,092,000 program for building up the Navy's fighting power won the unanimous approval today of a Senate Armed Services Subcommittee.

Remington Is Found Guilty

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—Former Government economist William W. Remington tonight was convicted of perjury by a federal court jury that ruled he lied when he denied he ever was a Communist.

Remington took the verdict wordlessly, but a heavy frown furrowed his brow. He had shown little emotion during the trial.

WILLIAM REMINGTON—Convicted of perjury.

The jury of seven women and five men deliberated four hours and 32 minutes.

Remington was accused during the trial of using his government post to transmit secrets to Elizabeth Bentley, a self-described former courier for a Communist spy ring.

Faces Prison And Fine

The perjury charge was the same one on which Alger Hiss was convicted. He, too, was accused of betraying government office to aid Soviet spies. Hiss is appealing a five-year prison term.

Remington, blond and handsome 33-year-old economist, formerly held a $10,000 a year post with the Commerce Department.

He faces a maximum term of five years in prison and a $2,000 fine as a result of the jury's verdict.

Witnesses testified Remington was a Communist since his youth. His former wife was one of those who testified against him during his 32-day trial.

After the jury announced its verdict, it was polled at the request of the defense. Each juror was asked:

"Is that your verdict?"

Each juror answered:

"Yes."

Jury Has Case Six Hours

There was a dead silence elsewhere in the courtroom as the muted voices of the jurors answered the clerk's poll.

When they finished, Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan turned toward the jury and told them:

"I want to extend to each member of the jury the thanks of the court for the consideration you have given the testimony in the course of the trial.

"I believe the verdict you have arrived at is a fair one."

The jury got the case at 4:10 p. m. (EST) After a series of interruptions the jury returned to the courtroom with the verdict at 10:10 p. m.

Judge Noonan revoked Remington's $5,000 bail and set sentencing for 2 p. m. tomorrow.

New Steps Loom As Cost Of Living Continues Climb

Johnston Expects Halt By Midsummer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The nation's top economic officials, worried over food prices, today prepared new steps to slow the continuing rise in the cost of living.

Despite the present price "freeze," Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston said the cost of living will probably rise for "a few months." But he said it can be halted by midsummer, after which it can be held level only by stricter credit controls, high taxes and greater production.

Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson was described by an aide as "very concerned" over rises in some food prices. And he was reported planning to suggest some changes in the Defense Production Act — changes that would allow tighter curbs on food prices.

Truman Message Anticipated

There is a growing expectation that President Truman himself will send such a message to Congress about Feb. 15. This could be the signal for a major battle.

Under the Defense Production Act, the Office of Price Stabilization cannot at present put rigid ceiling prices on most farm products—meat being the most important exception.

Leading restaurant men complained to the OPS today that they are being squeezed by the continuing rise in food costs. OPS officials heard the complaint and announced that they are considering a proposal to enable restaurants to boost prices to the extent of their direct cost increases since the Jan. 25 freeze data.

Wool Products Exempted

The OPS postponed for a day or two its expected order regulating slaughterers. This is designated to prevent black markets in meats.

Late today the agency exempted from its price freeze virtually all wool products earmarked for national defense, including woolen and worsted yarns and textiles. The purpose: To make it easier for the government to buy those things.

Members of Congress from farm states were ready to resist any attempt to tighten up on farm prices. And cotton dealers, with powerful backing from southern senators, are seeking to wipe out price controls from raw cotton at the gin level and on the cotton exchanges.

Reds Backed Against River Before Capital

Tank-Tipped U. N. Units Gain 2 Miles

ON WESTERN KOREAN FRONT, Thursday, Feb. 8 (AP)— U. S. tanks shelled Seoul today. Tanks of an American task force thrust within four miles of the Red-held South Korean capital and began firing into the city.

The task force approached Seoul from a position north of Anyang.

TOKYO, Thursday, Feb. 8 (AP)—The Allied offensive today swept close to Seoul and U. S. tanks and artillery hammered at Chinese Red troops backed against the thawing Han River.

Artillery wheeled up within easy firing range of the smashed and almost deserted city, where typhus was reported raging. The Reds rolled ahead along this western front in gains of up to two miles. One column drove to within four miles of the Han, which flows past Seoul.

The Eighth Army announced that the two other armored raider columns struck heavy resistance eight to 10 miles southwest of Seoul. An increasing number of Russian-made mines slowed the advance on this 15th day of the limited United Nations offensive.

Ice On Han Breaking Up

The Chinese Communist 50th Army Corps retreated five and one-half miles over a two-day period to new positions less than six miles south of the Han.

Ice which had formed a hard surface over the river wore thin in an early thaw and began to crack.

Log bridges were being thrown across the Han by Communist engineers who feared a sudden thaw would leave them with no escape route to the north.

As menacing as the thaw were the flashing bayonets of U. S. troops as they fought forward with their Turkish allies.

One spectacular American bayonet charge drove Chinese from a vital hill three miles west of Anyang, a small town eight and one-half miles south of Seoul.

Associated Press War Correspondent Jim Becker reported the advancing soldiers were held up by 100 Chinese Reds, who hurled hand grenades down on them from the summit.

40 Reds Bayoneted To Death

Capt. Lewis Millett of South Dartmouth, Mass., gave his company the order to fix bayonets, then crisply added:

"We're going to drive those bastards off that hill."

The Reds fled in confusion at the sight of gleaming American steel, but 40 Chinese were bayoneted to death before they could escape. Another 50 were shot as they fled down the slopes.

American bayonets flashed a second time Wednesday north of

Laborites Win Commons Test

LONDON, Feb. 7 (AP) — Britain's Labor government turned back by a 10-vote margin tonight an attempt by Conservative Leader Winston Churchill to force a new general election over the government's plans to take control of the steel industry.

The outcome means the 92 major firms in the British iron and steel business will pass into the hands of a government holding company, the British Iron and Steel Corporation, Feb. 15.

The Laborites mustered 308 votes in the House of Commons to 298 for the opposition and rejected a motion by Churchill stating that nationalization of steel "is not in the public interest and should be reversed."

While the motion did not contain the words "no confidence," sources close to Prime Minister Attlee said before the vote they were certain that, if the motion passed, he would ask King George VI to dissolve Parliament and call a new election.

Gasoline Fire Checked

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 7 (AP)—A big storage tank fire destroyed more than 1,000,000 gallons of gasoline and threatened a section along the Houston ship channel before weary firemen controlled it today. Some 20 firemen were injured.

Church Says Reds Can't Push UN Out

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The man who commanded the 24th Division throughout the heaviest fighting so far in Korea says it simply isn't in the Chinese Communists to build up force enough to drive United Nations armies off the peninsula.

The U. N. forces chew up the Red masses too fast for that, Maj. Gen. John H. Church told a news conference today.

He said there is a "possibility" that the U. N. will drive on north of the 38th parallel. However, he was talking only about possible ability to do that if it is desired, explaining that the decision depends on directives from the U. N.

There have been reports the U. N. forces would stop short of the old dividing line between North and South Korea. One idea behind that suggestion is that it might keep the way open for a diplomatic settlement.

9 Die As Marine Transport Plane Crashes In Virginia

EASTVILLE, Va., Feb. 7 (AP)—A Marine transport plane crashed in a rain and windstorm near this Virginia eastern shore community today, killing all nine men aboard.

The two-engined craft, en route from Cherry point, N. C., to Floyd Bennett Field, N. Y., spun out of control in the heavy rain, a witness said, and cracked up on the edge of a creek.

Five bodies had been removed from the wreckage at 9 p. m., said a spokesman at the nearby Chincoteague Naval Air Station, and four bodies remained in the plane.

The Chincoteague spokesman said he was told by a naval officer at the scene of the crash that at least two of the bodies would not be removed until tomorrow. He said officials were uncertain whether they would be able to remove any more of the men tonight.

At the time the plane crashed, a nearby farmer—who could not be identified—said the craft appeared to be "out of control" in very high winds, the Chincoteague spokesman said.

The big ship, an R4Q Fairchild tactical transport, shattered into two large pieces when it hit. The nose came to rest on the bank on Hungar's Creek. The fuselage settled slowly into the waters of the stream.

Legislation To Call State Constitutional Convention Killed

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 7 (AP) — Legislation to call a state constitutional convention was dealt its death blow today.

The House of Delegates voted 64-56 to uphold an unfavorable report on the bill by its Ways and Means Committee.

Even leading backers of the measure to call a convention to revise Maryland's 84-year-old constitution conceded after the decisive vote that it has no chance of revival, and were making no plans to try again.

The bill drew its support from Baltimore City and some of the larger counties. The smaller counties teamed up against it.

It was evident from the 70 minutes of debate preceding the balloting that many small county delegates wanted to make sure that the city, through a convention, would not get a chance to increase its representation in the General Assembly.

Thirty-three of the votes for a convention came from city Democrats. Seven Democrats from the counties voted for it, as did 16 Republicans, including the lone Baltimore Republican.

Speaking for the bill, Delegate Hopkins (R-Balto 3rd) noted that the electorate voted nearly 4 to 1 for a convention call in a referendum last November, and considered it a mandate.

On the other hand, Delegate Reed (R-Allegany) said he felt that, although his county voted in favor of a convention at the referendum, "I feel it my bounden duty x x x to vigorously oppose enactment," of the measure.

"If children of a family want something that a parent conceived to be detrimental to the welfare of the children, it would be a wise parent" who would refuse them that something, he said.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6 (AP)—A House committee has a sweet tooth but looked sourly today on a bill to exempt candy from the sales tax.

Even while it still was eating exhibits by candy manufacturers who supported the bill yesterday, the Ways and Means Committee gave the bill an unfavorable report.

"It showed we can't be bribed," said one committeeman.

Nevada Blasts Shed Light On Atom Missiles Problem

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP) — America's know-how on atomic artillery shells and guided missiles was greatly increased by the five earth-shaking nuclear blasts set off recently in Nevada, a source in position to know said today.

That source has access to atomic data but may not be more closely identified.

There was no word on whether any of the explosions which lighted the mountains and deserts for hundreds of miles were actually those of atomic warheads on shells or guided missiles. It does now appear certain, however, that the tests pushed forward the research on how to make and fire weapons other than atomic bombs.

Development of guided missiles or shells would vastly expand the war usefullness of nuclear blast power.

The bombs of the past are by their nature limited weapons. They must be planted in place as in the first test at Alamogordo, N. M., or dropped from vast heights by big airplanes as was done over Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the two place actually subject to A-blast in war.

"Is that your verdict?"

Each juror answered:

Jury Has Case Six Hours

There was a dead silence elsewhere in the courtroom as the muted voices of the jurors answered the clerk's poll.

When they finished, Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan turned toward the jury and told them:

"I want to extend to each member of the jury the thanks of the court for the consideration you have given the testimony in the course of the trial.

"I believe the verdict you have arrived at is a fair one."

The jury got the case at 4:10 p. m. (EST) After a series of interruptions the jury returned to the courtroom with the verdict at 10:10 p. m.

Judge Noonan revoked Remington's $5,000 bail and set sentencing for 2 p. m. tomorrow.

New Steps Loom As Cost Of Living Continues Climb

Johnston Expects Halt By Midsummer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The nation's top economic officials, worried over food prices, today prepared new steps to slow the continuing rise in the cost of living.

Despite the present price "freeze," Economic Stabiliser Eric Johnston said the cost of living will probably rise for "a few months." But he said it can be halted by midsummer, after which it can be held level only by stricter credit controls, high taxes and greater production.

Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson was described by an aide as "very concerned" over rises in some food prices. And he was reported planning to suggest some changes in the Defense Production Act — changes that would allow tighter curbs on food prices.

Truman Message Anticipated

There is a growing expectation that President Truman himself will send such a message to Congress about Feb. 15. This could be the signal for a major battle.

Under the Defense Production Act, the Office of Price Stabilization cannot at present put rigid ceiling prices on most farm products—meat being the most important exception.

Leading restaurant men complained to the OPS today that they are being squeezed by the continuing rise in food costs. OPS officials heard the complaint and announced that they are considering a proposal to enable restaurants to boost prices to the extent of their direct cost increases since the Jan. 25 freeze data.

Wool Products Exempted

The OPS postponed for a day or two its expected order regulating slaughterers. This is designated to prevent black markets in meats.

Late today the agency exempted from its price freeze virtually all wool products earmarked for national defense, including woolen and worsted yarns and textiles. The purpose: To make it easier for the government to buy those things.

Members of Congress from farm states were ready to resist any attempt to tighten up on farm prices. And cotton dealers, with powerful backing from southern senators, are seeking to wipe out price controls from raw cotton at the gin level and on the cotton exchanges.

Laborites Win Commons Test

LONDON, Feb. 7 (AP) — Britain's Labor government turned back by a 10-vote margin tonight an attempt by Conservative Leader Winston Churchill to force a new general election over the government's plans to take control of the steel industry.

The outcome means the 92 major firms in the British iron and steel business will pass into the hands of a government holding company, the British Iron and Steel Corporation, Feb. 15.

The Laborites mustered 308 votes in the House of Commons to 298 for the opposition and rejected a motion by Churchill stating that nationalization of steel "is not in the public interest and should be reversed."

While the motion did not contain the words "no confidence," sources close to Prime Minister Attlee said before the vote they were certain that, if the motion passed, he would ask King George VI to dissolve Parliament and call a new election.

Gasoline Fire Checked

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 7 (AP)—A big storage tank fire destroyed more than 1,000,000 gallons of gasoline and threatened a section along the Houston ship channel before weary firemen controlled it today. Some 20 firemen were injured.

Reds Backed Against River Before Capital

ON WESTERN KOREAN FRONT, Thursday, Feb. 8 (AP)—U. S. tanks shelled Seoul today.

Tanks of an American task force thrust within four miles of the Red-held South Korean capital and began firing into the city.

TOKYO, Thursday, Feb. 8 (AP)—The Allied offensive today swept close to Seoul and U. S. tanks and artillery hammered at Chinese Red troops backed against the thawing Han River.

Artillery wheeled up within easy firing range of the smashed and almost deserted city, where typhus was reported raging. The Reds rolled ahead along this western front in gains of up to two miles. One column drove to within four miles of the Han, which flows past Seoul.

The Eighth Army announced that the two other armored raider columns struck heavy resistance eight to 10 miles southwest of Seoul. An increasing number of Russian-made mines slowed the advance on this 15th day of the limited United Nations offensive.

Ice On Han Breaking Up

The Chinese Communist 50th Army Corps retreated five and one-half miles over a two-day period to new positions less than six miles south of the Han.

Ice which had formed a hard surface over the river wore thin in an early thaw and began to crack.

Log bridges were being thrown across the Han by Communist engineers who feared a sudden thaw would leave them with no escape route to the north.

As menacing as the thaw were the flashing bayonets of U. S. troops as they fought forward with their Turkish allies.

One spectacular American bayonet charge drove Chinese from a vital hill three miles west of Anyang, a small town eight and one-half miles south of Seoul.

Associated Press War Correspondent Jim Becker reported the advancing soldiers were held up by 100 Chinese Reds, who hurled hand grenades down on them from the summit.

40 Reds Bayoneted To Death

Capt. Lewis Millett of South Dartmouth, Mass., gave his company the order to fix bayonets, then crisply added:

"We're going to drive those bastards off that hill."

The Reds fled in confusion at the sight of gleaming American steel, but 40 Chinese were bayoneted to death before they could escape. Another 50 were shot as they fled down the slopes.

American bayonets flashed a second time Wednesday north of

Church Says Reds Can't Push UN Out

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The man who commanded the 24th Division throughout the heaviest fighting so far in Korea says it simply isn't in the Chinese Communists to build up force enough to drive United Nations armies off the peninsula.

The U. N. forces chew up the Red masses too fast for that, Maj. Gen. John H. Church told a news conference today.

He said there is a "possibility" that the U. N. will drive on north of the 38th parallel. However, he was talking only about possible ability to do that if it is desired, explaining that the decision depends on directives from the U. N.

There have been reports the U. N. forces would stop short of the old dividing line between North and South Korea. One idea behind that suggestion is that it might keep the way open for a diplomatic settlement.

9 Die As Marine Transport Plane Crashes In Virginia

EASTVILLE, Va., Feb. 7 (AP)—A Marine transport plane crashed in a rain and windstorm near this Virginia eastern shore community today, killing all nine men aboard.

The two-engined craft, en route from Cherry point, N. C., to Floyd Bennett Field, N. Y., spun out of control in the heavy rain, a witness said, and cracked up on the edge of a creek.

Five bodies had been removed from the wreckage at 9 p. m., said a spokesman at the nearby Chincoteague Naval Air Station, and four bodies remained in the plane.

The Chincoteague spokesman said he was told by a naval officer at the scene of the crash that at least two of the bodies would not be removed until tomorrow. He said officials were uncertain whether they would be able to remove any more of the men tonight.

At the time the plane crashed, a nearby farmer—who could not be identified—said the craft appeared to be "out of control" in very high winds, the Chincoteague spokesman said.

The big ship, an R4Q Fairchild tactical transport, shattered into two large pieces when it hit. The nose came to rest on the bank on Hungar's Creek. The fuselage settled slowly into the waters of the stream.

Legislation To Call State Constitutional Convention Killed

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 7 (AP) — Legislation to call a state constitutional convention was dealt its death blow today.

The House of Delegates voted 64-56 to uphold an unfavorable report on the bill by its Ways and Means Committee.

Even leading backers of the measure to call a convention to revise Maryland's 84-year-old constitution conceded after the decisive vote that it has no chance of revival, and were making no plans to try again.

The bill drew its support from Baltimore City and some of the larger counties. The smaller counties teamed up against it.

It was evident from the 70 minutes of debate preceding the balloting that many small county delegates wanted to make sure that the city, through a convention, would not get a chance to increase its representation in the General Assembly.

Thirty-three of the votes for a convention came from city Democrats. Seven Democrats from the counties voted for it, as did 16 Republicans, including the lone Baltimore Republican.

Speaking for the bill, Delegate Hopkins (R-Balto 3rd) noted that the electorate voted nearly 4 to 1 for a convention call in a referendum last November, and considered it a mandate.

On the other hand, Delegate Reed (R-Allegany) said he felt that, although his county voted in favor of a convention at the referendum, "I feel it my bounden duty x x x to vigorously oppose enactment," of the measure.

"If children of a family want something that a parent conceived to be detrimental to the welfare of the children, it would be a wise parent" who would refuse them that something, he said.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6 (AP)—A House committee has a sweet tooth but looked sourly today on a bill to exempt candy from the sales tax.

Even while it still was eating exhibits by candy manufacturers who supported the bill yesterday, the Ways and Means Committee gave the bill an unfavorable report.

"It showed we can't be bribed," said one committeeman.

Nevada Blasts Shed Light On Atom Missiles Problem

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP) — America's know-how on atomic artillery shells and guided missiles was greatly increased by the five earth-shaking nuclear blasts set off recently in Nevada, a source in position to know said today.

That source has access to atomic data but may not be more closely identified.

There was no word on whether any of the explosions which lighted the mountains and deserts for hundreds of miles were actually those of atomic warheads on shells or guided missiles. It does now appear certain, however, that the tests pushed forward the research on how to make and fire weapons other than atomic bombs.

Development of guided missiles or shells would vastly expand the war usefulness of nuclear blast power.

The bombs of the past are by their nature limited weapons. They must be planted in place as in the first test at Alamogordo, N. M., or dropped from vast heights by big airplanes as was done over Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the two place actually subject to A-blast in war.

Acheson Blames Tension On Arms Buildup By Reds

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today blamed world tension on the massive buildup of Soviet and satellite armed forces and forecast that the West will insist on talking about this at any Big Four meeting.

He charged Russia with following a familiar Moscow propaganda technique in accusing the West of aggressive intent while pressing for a foreign ministers conference to deal chiefly with the rearming of Western Germany.

The Secretary said Moscow, in its latest note, moved somewhat grudgingly in the direction of an agreement on the issues to be taken up at the proposed conference. He also increased the prospects that the meeting will eventually be arranged by saying that the U. S., Britain and France will respond with an early reply.

Without giving figures, Acheson at this news conference declared Eastern European Soviet bloc countries are building up very great armies. He reaffirmed the western contention that in the case of Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary this was in violation of peace treaty limits.

Two-Year-Old Has Variety Breakfast

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7 (AP)—Janice Murphy, 2, had a different sort of breakfast today. It included:

A half-bottle of aspirin tablets.

Shot In Thigh, Dies With Bullet Near Heart

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 7 (AP)—A high school youth who was accidentally shot in the right thigh died last night with the bullet lodged near his heart.

Doctors said it worked its way there through his veins. They added that the circumstances were rare but that the case was not the first of its kind.

The victim was Joseph Rothman, 17. He died while undergoing surgery for removal of the .22 caliber slug.

The Railway Express Agency also announced a second modification of its embargo, effective at midnight. This permitted express shipments between New York City and these areas—Alabama, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and the cities of Baltimore and Washington.

The agency's Chicago office later announced that it was lifting its embargo on rail express shipments to all states west of the Mississippi River and to Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Wisconsin and Tennessee. The announcement added, however, that such express may be "subject to delay."

Four Children Die After Blast And Fire

EMMITSBURG, Md., Feb. 7 (AP)—Four young children of the Springer family were dead today after a fire and explosion in the kitchen of their mountain home near here.

Three other youngsters of the family and their mother were burned.

Alice Louise, 6; Donald, 10, and John, 7, died of burns last night at Annie Warner Hospital at Gettysburg, Pa. Gary Allen, 3, died today.

Mrs. Charles Springer, who was treated and released along with her other two children, told police how the accident happened.

She said she had started to pour some kerosene on the fire in the kitchen stove when the flames exploded the kerosene can and set the childrens' clothing afire.

Missing Mother, Children Found

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP) — A socially-prominent Michigan mother said today she skipped a $100-a-day hotel suite with her four children and went into hiding "to get away from my husband."

The woman, Mrs. Barbara Mercier Shuell Saunders, 30—missing since Sunday — was found in a Times Square hotel shortly after midnight.

She said she wanted a divorce from her husband, Navy Lt. Frank Saunders, owner of a heavy machinery company in Detroit. However, Mrs. Saunders did not discuss her marital difficulties in any detail.

Saunders told a news conference yesterday that his return to duty with the Navy led his wife to complain and may have had a bearing on her disappearance.

Mrs. Saunders left her maid and luggage in her expensive Hotel Biltmore suite when she disappeared with the four children.

Her husband asked police help in locating her and a search was begun yesterday.

The young matron was traced when a jeweler tipped police she sold him a $2,000 diamond wedding ring — a present from her husband three weeks ago — for $500.

McKeldin Will Ask More Taxes

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 7 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin said tonight he definitely will ask for more taxes.

The Governor said he will have a "revenue" bill to submit to the Legislature, perhaps within two weeks.

His announcement came just one day after Senate Democrats declared it was up to the Governor to ask for any new taxes and they intend to keep "hands off."

Gov. McKeldin said it hadn't been determined yet what the new taxes might be imposed on. It definitely won't include reinstatement of sales taxes removed from some items at a special session late last year, he added.

The Governor discussed the state's need for more revenue at a caucus with Republican members of the House and Senate. It was decided to set up steering committees in both chambers to try to win necessary Democratic support for passage of new revenue requests.

The Governor's tax program will be influenced a great deal, he indicated, by what he learns from the Board of Revenue Estimates at a conference Monday.

It's reported, McKeldin said, "that revenue from present tax rates "may be much higher than expected." If this is found to be true, the Governor's program for necessary funds would be lightened.

The House Republicans already have named two committees to study possible cuts in the budget to be introduced tomorrow and to draw up possible new sources of taxation.

GOP Women Protest High Price Freeze

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Republican women from 35 states today protested the freeze on prices at the highest levels in history and called on President Truman to reduce prices "of every-day necessities of life."

They said the Truman administration "utterly failed to curb inflation. Its most tragic error was its failure, because of procrastination and indecision, to freeze prices until Jan. 25."

The advisory board of the Republican National Federation of Women's Clubs, with about 50 members present, expressed these views in resolutions adopted at the windup of a two-day session.

Car Dives In River; Woman Feared Dead

CLARKSVILLE, Md., Feb. 7 (AP)—State police suspect a woman may have drowned in the rushing, rain-swollen Middle Patuxent River today while trying to escape from a car which plunged into the stream

State Trooper Hugh Hart reported that three persons escaped from the vehicle. He said the driver, identified as Earl S. Seal, 27, Glenwood, was trying to help the woman out of the car when she was swept downstream.

The woman and the two other passengers were not yet identified. Police reported difficulty in checking the accident because many telephone lines were put out of service by the storm.

Liz Taylor Awarded Harvard "Roscoe"

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 7 (AP)—The Harvard Lampoon, undergraduate humor magazine, today awarded Actress Elizabeth Taylor a "Roscoe" as the "most objectionable ingenue" in motion pictures in 1950.

The Lampoon tagged Miss Taylor with the "worst female performance of the year" for her work in "The Conspirators" and hung a similar label around the neck of Clifton Webb among male actors for his performance in "Cheaper By The Dozen."

Central Faculty Wins Comedy Game

LONACONING — Central High School faculty captured a comedy basketball game from the High School Amazons by a 65-21 score at the Lonaconing school.

Highlights of the game included boys dressed as girl cheerleaders, wheel barrows used to carry off supposedly injured players, a dozen balls in play at once, and a picnic lunch held by the faculty during play.

Harry Bowden scored 22 points for the winners while Mary Lou Dawson and Leona Stafford made six each for the Amazons.

In a preliminary tilt the Central JV's tripped Frostburg State Teachers Fraternity Five, 32-21.

Filchock Named Edmonston Coach

EDMONTON, Feb. 7 (AP) — The Edmonton Eskimos have signed Frankie Filchock, former New York Giants backfield star, to a one-year contract as backfield coach.

Filchock was banished by the National Football League in the United States in 1946 after figuring in a reported attempt to "fix" the Chicago Bears-New York Giants championship playoff game. The ban since has been lifted. He played briefly with the Baltimore Colts at the end of last season.

Sales Of Dangerous Sex Hormones Give U. S. Inspectors Headaches

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sales of sex hormones, garbage, diluted fruit juices and dreamed-up medicines gave federal inspectors major headaches last year, the Food and Drug Administration said today.

But the greatest concern, the agency said, has been the sale of dangerous drugs without prescriptions.

In his annual report to Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing, Food and Drug Commissioner Paul B. Dunbar said that in 1950 there was a marked increase in criminal actions against the promiscuous sales of dangerous drugs, despite more strict observance of the law on the part of pharmacists in general.

Dunbar said these violations "are causing more deaths, injuries, broken homes, human derelicts and other tragedies than all the other violations of the Food and Drug Act put together."

Dunbar added that increased action against offenders are having a desirable effect.

"Many addicts deprived of illegal supplies have discontinued the use of barbiturates," he said.

Dunbar added that the National Association of Druggists is seeking a better federal law to meet the problem of unauthorized refilling of prescriptions.

The report told of seizures during the year of potent and potientially dangerous sex hormones, sold directly to consumers, chiefly by mail order.

"Some of these preparations are capable of accelerating malignant tumors," the report said.

Dunbar said inspectors reported numerous attempts by irresponsible persons to salvage condemned foods from garbage.

He told of the owner of a hog farm who received a shipment of rancid fruitcakes with an original retail value of more than $100,000, and offered the cakes to grocers at reduced prices.

"The owner could see no reason for the seizure that followed, since his employes had found the fruit cakes edible," Dunbar said.

"He said he always gave his employes and friends priority above his pigs when pig feed was delivered to his farm."

Dunbar said some firms have been trying to cash in on the popularity of frozen orange juices by selling diluted and artificially colored and flavored frozen products containing only a small percentage of orange juice.

"This is a threat not only to the consumer's pocketbook but to his health," the report said.

"Orangeade is not a vitamin-rich breakfast item, but many mothers have been deceived into serving it for its vitamin C value, thus impairing the health of small children."

Inspectors reported seizing a worthless "cancer cure" shipped by the director of a so-called cancer clinic, and a cancer serum from a Canadian "research foundation." Eight persons who used the serum died of cancer, Dunbar said.

"Among ignorant distributors of nostrums were partners who each claimed to have formulated their drug in a dream, and to have mixed the oil ingredients by interpreting a section of Exodus," he said.

Income Tax Primer

Don't Overlook Local Taxes, Interest As Money-Savers

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP) — Many taxpayers can reduce their income taxes by deducting certain interest and tax payments.

Remember, every taxpayer has a choice of two methods of taking deductions. One is to take a standard deduction allowance amounting to 10 per cent of your income. The other is to itemize your allowable deductions and take the total amount.

If allowable deductions add up to more than 10 per cent of your income, you save by itemizing them.

The law allows deduction of most kinds of local taxes and interest payments.

You can deduct interest payments on a home mortgage, on a personal loan or on installment purchases of an auto, television set, furniture and other articles.

You can deduct state income taxes, most state or local retail sales taxes, most property taxes and auto license taxes or fees. You can deduct state gasoline taxes except in California, Florida, Louisiana, North Dakota, Utah, Wyoming and Hawaii.

You are allowed to deduct state or local retail sales taxes if under the laws of your state they are imposed directly upon the consumer, or if they are imposed upon the retailer and the amount of the tax is separately stated in your bill.

You are not allowed to deduct federal income tax or federal taxes on liquor, cigarets, autos, gasoline, tires, radio, television, jewelry, furs, toilet preparations and the like.

You cannot deduct taxes for local benefits such as assessments for streets, sidewalks and the like which tend to increase the value of your property. Social Security taxes can be deducted by an employer but not by an employe.

You are not allowed to deduct telephone, telegraph and transportation taxes unless they are incurred in carrying on a business. In that case such deductions are listed on separate schedule C, which is filed with form 1040.

In this article, however, we are interested mainly in the so-called non-business deductions. These deductions are listed on page 3 of form 1040 if you choose to itemize them instead of taking the 10 per cent deduction allowance.

You can deduct contributions to religious, charitable and educational organizations if they are nonprofit. You cannot deduct gifts to individuals such as money to a relative or a needy person.

The law allows you to deduct property as well as cash contributions to allowable organizations. You can deduct the fair market value of property contributions, including the cost of gasoline and oil used in performing free services for a charity.

Sanctions Against China?

Although the U. S. delegation to the UN General Assembly at Lake Success is supposed to recommend economic and political punitive measures against Communist China, there is little reason to believe that any large number of the UN member nations would go along with the U. S. in imposing them. Indeed, the Canadian and British delegations are said to have voted, reluctantly, for the resolution branding Communist China as an aggressor in Korea only after private assurances that the U. S. would not really go to bat for sanctions.

The U. S. accepted an amendment to the resolution offered by Lebanon whereby even a report on collective sanctions is postponed until the three-man "Good Offices Committee" exhausts all avenues to peaceful settlement of the war in Korea. The General Assembly's president, Entezam of Iran, has had difficulty in getting two other members to serve with him on that committee.

Once set up, the Good Offices Committee could stall a report by the 14-member Collective Measures Committee indefinitely by reporting "satisfactory progress." Moreover, some nations have asserted unwillingness to serve on the latter committee. This, too, has yet to be appointed.

Failure of the UN to apply sanctions against Communist China would furnish ammunition to those who see UN already going the ineffectual way of the League of Nations. These critics admit that UN was quick to vote for military action against a small aggressor, North Korea, and has provided collective action averting or halting hostilities in Iran, Palestine, Indonesia and Kashmir. But these critics will argue that effective action against big power aggression is paralyzing UN, just as it paralyzed the League of Nations. The League was afraid that any attempt to apply sanctions with teeth in them would break up the League, all the more as the U. S., not a League member, would not be bound by the League's action.

In 1920, the League washed its hands of Polish aggression in Russia and Lithuania. In 1923 the League tried to pass the problem of Lithuanian seizure of Memel over to the Council of Ambassadors, ended by letting the Lithuanians keep the city. When Italy occupied the island of Corfu in the same year, Mussolini denied the jurisdiction of the League, accepted that of the Council of Ambassadors. The League left the issue to the Council, which ordered Italian evacuation but assessed 50,000,000 lire punitive damages against Greece for the murder of four Italians that had precipitated the dispute.

After Japan invaded Manchuria in 1931, the League shelved the question of sanctions on the ground that neither belligerent had declared war. Finally, in 1933, the League adopted recommendations of the Lytton fact-finding commission affirming Chinese sovereignty in Manchuria. A month later Japan gave notice of withdrawal from the League.

For almost nine months in 1935-36 most members of the League and one non-member, Egypt, went along with partial economic sanctions against Italy for Mussolini's invasion of Ethiopia. No League members imposed against Italy the oil embargo that Mussolini said would precipitate war. Great Britain left the Suez Canal open to Italian ships.

The League took no action against Italy for invading and absorbing Albania in April, 1939. In December, 1939, the League did expel Russia for invading Finland, but by that time World War II had started.

Article 41 of the UN Charter gives the Security Council the power to "decide what measures not involving the use of armed force are to be employed to give effect to its decisions." Russia would surely veto any Council move to apply sanctions against Communist China. But recent changes in powers of the General Assembly give it a voice in the question of sanctions.

How can another terrible war be averted? One way would be to reverse history 18 years and decide not to build up Russia.

Scrap Drives Ahead?

As more and more strategic materials are withheld from civilian production to meet military needs, more suggestions can be expected for appeals to the public to turn in unwanted articles containing such materials. Remember the scrap metal drives during World War II?

The public was asked particularly to turn in articles containing aluminum. These often remained for sometime piled up in vacant lots. The sorting took time and experience, because much of the aluminum donated was in the form of alloys that had to be reserved for lower grade uses. Few competent sorters and graders were available.

The scrap metal drives of World War II were conducted among industries as well as private citizens. The search for old steel was so successful that steel scrap remained in fair supply. Old trolley and railroad lines were broken up, as were old bridges, vacant buildings, obsolete ships, unusable cars and trucks from automobile "graveyards." Old tires were collected for use in retreading and in synthetic rubber.

The tin cans and tubes of various metals received from housewives were helpful to the war effort. So were the fats turned in for cash and/or for additional food rationing coupons. Collections of wastepaper and of silk and near-silk stockings did their bit. And some of the standardization of parts that helped to prevent waste during the war was continued after the war; today it is helping in the most effective use of the nation's metal resources.

The seed and garden catalogues in the mail remind us that the calendar on the wall flips its pages at its own pace.

Intent Not Enough

Good intentions, it is well known, are not enough. Dr. Ralph Bunche, former mediator in Palestine for the United Nations, has this to say:

"In this dread atomic age, if we fail to achieve peace, the responsibility must be borne by all of us. The fortunate, or unfortunate survivors of a third world war would gain little solace from being able to point an accusing finger. If the peace is lost through our complacency, our lack of awareness and determined effort, the blame would be shared by all of us, by peoples and governments whose intentions were sincerely peaceful as well as by those whose aggressive actions provoked war."

Monday is always a tough time to go to work. Many of us don't feel like getting up that early.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Flatfoot Correction

PAIN in the feet generally is due to a local disturbance such as flat feet, poor circulation, or infection. This is readily understandable but now and then distress stems from a more distant source such as the rectum, bladder, prostate, or uterus. Pain in such conditions is referred, which explains why the physician may want to do a more thorough examination when a local cause cannot be found.

Flatfoot is a common defect and a study of 3,600 young men in the Canadian army revealed that 8 per cent were disabled on this account. But there are many forms and some cause more incapacity than others. One type is not painful and leads to no difficulty at all. It consists of a simple flattening of the longitudinal arch. All of us have seen such cases on the beach or wherever persons walk barefoot, and have marveled at the ease with which they get about. It happens to be an individual characteristic and is comparable to the shape of the head, the length of the arms, or the size of the ears. It often is an inherited tendency. The arch is not too stiff or relaxed; it is not affected in the least by walking, jumping, or skipping rope.

Relaxed flatfoot probably produces more trouble than any other variety. It is caused by relaxation of the supporting ligaments with shortening of certain muscles and tendons. Fatigue and strain also play a role. This leads to flattening of the arch, with twisting or outward rotation of the foot. The victim walks like Charlie Chaplain, bearing his weight on the inner aspect of the foot.

Pain is caused by excessive strain on the ligaments and is most marked after being up and about for several hours. The distress is felt usually in the sole and is reflected up the limb and occasionally as high as the hip. The longitudinal arch should be supported with pads made of metal, cork, sponge rubber, felt, leather, or other materials. To be effective it must be the right size and placed in the correct position. If the pad is a quarter of an inch off, it may not have the desired result. This is one reason why an individual "fitting" is essential. Meanwhile, proper shoes are obtained. This means straight lasts and sufficient width to prevent constriction of the toes. Stiff shanked soles with felt pads may be needed if the job requires standing for long periods.

Rigid flatfoot differs in that it is a congenital defect produced by a coalition, or union of, two or more of the tarsal bones. The structures either have grown together or are joined by fibrous or cartilaginous tissues. This, too, encourages flattening of the longitudinal arch. X-ray is most helpful in making the diagnosis and surgery often is necessary to obtain relief.

Flatfoot usually is more troublesome in adolescence than in later life. Relief occurs not because the condition improves spontaneously but because many sufferers accept the defect and modify their existence as they go into their 20s and 30s.

STOMACH ACID

B. N. writes: Does no acid in the stomach, as determined by tests, always mean pernicious anemia?

REPLY

No. All patients with pernicious anemia have a deficiency of hydrochloric acid but the reverse is not true. Many elderly persons have a reduced amount and this shortage may lead to indigestion.

•—•—•

TOE JOINTS

K. P. writes: Can arthritis affect the toes?

REPLY

Yes, and it frequently does. In gouty arthritis, for example, a high percentage of sufferers have inflammation of the large toes. In rheumatoid arthritis, the small joints generally are involved, including those of the toes.

•—•—•

LOWERING THE PRESSURE

B. J. writes: What methods are used to keep the blood pressure down?

REPLY

Books have been written on this topic. In general, the solution of this problem boils down to measures that promote rest, calmness, and dilatation of the blood vessels.

•—•—•

FEVER AND PULSE

L. Z. writes: Does fever increase the pulse rate?

REPLY

Yes; with each degree of temperature above normal the pulse becomes 10 beats faster.

TELEVISION POTATIONS

K. L. writes: While watching television at night I always have two or three highballs. Friends tell me that this will make my arthritis worse but I haven't noticed any difference. What do you say?

REPLY

With three drinks every night, you should worry more about your liver than your joints.

Labor Leaders Flare Up Over Manpower Program; Defense Mobilizer Wilson Refuses To Consult With Labor On Policy; Communist Prestige Goes Down

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Five of the nation's top labor spokesmen, led by Phil Murray of the CIO, had it hot and heavy with Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson last week over the government's manpower program.

The ill feeling which flared between them looked like a curtain-raiser for more trouble on the labor front, and raised one of the most difficult problems of any defense or war program.

Purpose of the labor leaders' call on Wilson was to keep the nation's civilian manpower program under the Labor Department. This has been the subject of a bitter backstage battle for some time, with Wilson and Gen. Lucius Clay wanting to take manpower away from Secretary of Labor Tobin and Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna Rosenberg, and with the latter two threatening to resign if the labor problem is taken out of their hands.

Labor leaders have good reason to fear General Clay and any manpower commission which he organized. They recall that during the recent war and before he went to Germany as military governor, Clay demanded of FDR that there be compulsory allocation of labor under a labor draft.

That was one reason why the five leaders went to see Mobilization Czar Charlie Wilson last week to try to keep civilian manpower under the Labor Department. They got nowhere. Wilson's attitude during the bitter meeting was "I'm running things—we'll do it my way," though he didn't put it quite so bluntly.

He didn't have to. On the way to the meeting the labor group had read a news story telling of Wilson's and General Clay's plan to set up their own manpower commission under Civil Service Commissioner Arthur Flemming—with Clay, however, as the real boss. Wilson did not deny the story. Nor did he seem concerned when the labor leaders reminded him that he was setting up a board to control labor without consulting labor.

Ample Authority

When reminded that labor was consulted equally with management during World War II, and that labor had a co-chairman on the Office of Production Management, Wilson made it plain that he did not plan to follow this precedent.

"I have authority from the President," he said, "and I am going to use that authority. I haven't as yet asked Arthur Flemming to head up this manpower commission, but I intend to do so. And if he doesn't accept, I may head it up myself."

"Well, we don't like a proposition like that," spoke up CIO President Phil Murray. "We represent the men and women who are engaged in war production work and we think we should at least have an equal voice in the government's manpower policies."

Murray added that if Wilson became manpower chief in addition to his top job as mobilization boss, it would be the same as a man "taking advice from himself."

NOTE—Other labor leaders attending the meeting were: Dan Tracy, president of the AFL Electrical Workers; Al Hayes, president of the International Association of Machinists; George Leighty, chairman of the Railroad Labor Executives Association; and James Carey, CIO secretary-treasurer.

INSIDE THE COMMUNISTS—There was something funny about the way Farrar, Straus & Co. suddenly junked Hede Massing's new book on life inside the Communist party. She's the ex-wife of Gerhart Eisler, and the book won't do Stalin any good. . . . The manuscript was immediately snapped up by Duell, Sloan and Pearce. . . . Communist party membership has taken a terrific beating in Europe in the wake of the Marshall Plan, the Tide of Toys, the Friendship Train and other friendship projects to Europe. In the Dutch Parliament, Communist seats have dropped from 56 to 27. In the Soviet zone of Austria, Communists lost 10 of their 11 parliamentary seats. In Belgium, they lost five out of 12 seats in the lower house and two out of five in the senate. . . . In Denmark they dropped from 76 elective posts to only 24. . . . The Dutch Communist newspaper is now down from 400,000 circulation to around 100,000, while the Communist press of France has taken similar losses. . . . Most amazing development, however, is in Italy, where two top Communist senators have resigned from the party and are starting an independent party similar to Tito's.

MILITARY SCUTTLEBUTT — The Air Force is probing complaints of kickbacks and shortages at the Bolling Field Officers Club outside Washington. Maj. Dan H. Rogers, officer-in-charge, has resigned. . . . Army Chief of Staff General Collins told the Senate Armed Services Committee behind closed doors that there are now 950,000 Communist troops in Korea. MacArthur's intelligence at the same time reported only 276,000. . . . Here are the results of a check on reports that Col. James Lemarest has been made special consultant to the Quartermaster General at the behest of ex-Assistant Secretary of Defense Paul Griffith. (The Quartermaster, of course, hands out some of the juiciest contracts in government.) Colonel Demarest draws $40 a day whenever consulted, was appointed January 22, and is associated in public relations with Paul Griffith, according to the Quartermaster Corps. It was denied, however, that Griffith recommended Demarest for the job. . . . Griffith, when queried, denied everything — even that he was associated with Demarest in public relations work. But when told that the Quartermaster stated just the opposite, Griffith admitted he had discussed a public relations set-up with Demarest. (Wonder how a public relations man could be worth $40 a day for advising the Army on war contracts?). . . . The Munitions Board's failure to stockpile wool has forced the Army to bid against the Russians on the Australian wool market—with the price going up every day.

UNHAPPY GOOD NEIGHBORS—Latin Americans have a bone to pick with debonair Eric Johnston, the new economic stabilizer. Johnston's name is signed to the Chapultepec Treaty by which the U.S.A. agrees to consult with its good neighbors before freezing prices. However, Johnston didn't consult. Latin-American ambassadors were merely called in at the last minute and told. There was no consultation. . . . The American public doesn't realize it, but the Latinos get hit harder than anyone else by price freezes. They sell us coffee, for instance, at frozen prices, but can't buy back autos, scarce machinery, minerals, etc., because we don't have them to spare. Then, after war, the prices of these scarce articles go up. . . . Look out for trouble in Venezuela. When college students and faculty in Caracas petitioned President Suarez Flamerich to release political prisoners, the Army proceeded to throw students and faculty into jail too. President Flamerich, out of sympathy with the Army, presented his resignation, but the Army refused to accept it. He remains in office with a pistol at his back.

Unfreezing The Asset

WASHINGTON

THE second decisive event of the present grim phase of world affairs seems to be taking shape at last behind the scenes. The first, of course, was the beginning of the all-out effort to re-arm the West, stimulated by the aggression in Korea. And now, in order to deter the Kremlin from forestalling this great but time consuming rearmament effort, consideration is being given to unfreezing the West's only existing military asset, the atomic stockpile.

Here the immediate stimulus is the obvious preparation for an attack on Yugoslavia by the Kremlin's Hungarian, Bulgarian and Romanian satellites. Besides destroying the Yugoslav Army and giving the Kremlin a vital position there, the unopposed conquest of Yugoslavia would neutralize the Turkish Army. It would create conditions for rapid Soviet absorption of the Middle East. And it would probably cause the formation of "neutralist" governments in Italy and France.

In sum, this simple flank attack, which perhaps can be made by the satellites alone, would effectively break the Western alliance. Thus the Kremlin would gain all the fruits of a gigantic victory with none of the trouble of a major war.

The atomic stockpile must be regarded as a frozen asset today, for the very simple reason that on the face of the existing situation, Yugoslavia can in fact be attacked by the surrounding satellites without precipitating a general war. "Unfreezing" the asset in turn simply means convincing the Kremlin that an attack on Yugoslavia is not as safe as it now looks—that the immediate price of this operation or any others like it will be the destruction of Russia's vital centers, and that this will still be true even if satellite forces alone are overtly employed.

Parallels Pre-Korea Situation

In considering so grave a step, there are three other points to weigh besides Yugoslavia's immense political and strategic importance. First, there is the resemblance of the present situation to the situation pre-Korea. Last June, American disarmament, plus the established and proclaimed American policy not to intervene in Korea, actually invited aggression there. Korea was attacked because it looked perfectly safe to do so.

Today, there has been no public change in the earlier American policy decision to limit assistance to Marshal Tito to "aid short of war." London's attitude has been rendered doubtful by recent high-level expressions there. The Kremlin's temptation to take advantage of American disarmament has been replaced by the active compulsion to strike before the West is re-armed, and the whole Soviet imperialist program is thus defeated. In short, the seeming invitation to attack Yugoslavia is even stronger, if anything, than was the seeming invitation to attack Korea.

Second, there is the attitude of the Yugoslavs themselves. Marshal Tito told a recent visitor that he and his colleagues had carefully reviewed the case of Czechoslovakia, and had decided that the great mistake of Benes was not to reject the Munich settlement and resist Hitler single-handed. France and Britain he explained, would then have been drawn into the resulting war. The parallel is exact. If the Yugoslavs resist, as they have firmly informed London and Washington they mean to do if attacked, a war there probably cannot be contained in any case.

Two Problems To Answer

Third, and most important of all, there is the fact that a firm, clear warning to the Kremlin would probably produce the desired result of deterring an attack. In the last six months, all the known data about our power to destroy the Soviet vital centers with atomic weapons, and about the Soviet defenses, have finally been gathered together and carefully re-examined. The conclusion has been reached that, as of today, our power is decisive. If the masters of the Kremlin did not fear this power of ours, they would now be preparing a

Voice Of America Should Be Independent Agency

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—Senator Benton of Connecticut, Democrat, is absolutely right in his attempt to bring about the separation of the "Voice of America" from the Department of State, thus making it an independent agency responsible directly to the President.

That was the way the information branch of the government functioned during World War I and World War II, respectively, and the crisis today on the psychological warfare side is no less important than it was during both those war periods.

The significance of the separation which Senator Benton and many others in Congress are advocating is that the "Voice of America" tends to become a subordinate bureau which cannot function in a large sense on policy questions. It has efficient personnel in its management but their freedom to do a good job is impaired.

Acheson's Conception Narrow

The conception which Secretary of State Acheson has of the "Voice of America" is rather narrow. He thinks of it as merely the mouthpiece of the Department of State and as an instrument of "support to current foreign policy decisions." Any information agency which has that mission is doomed from the start because of the inhibitions upon its freedom of expression.

In a recent exchange of letters betwen Secretary Acheson and Senator Benton, the former insisted that "the expanded information program has in fact become the vital part of our national strategy you and others have always believed it should be." Senator Benton, when he was Assistant Secretary of State, had charge of the "Voice of America" program and spent many a weary hour before congressional committees trying to get appropriations for it, so he has definite ideas about what ought to be done with the whole operation. In his reply to Secretary Acheson, the Connecticut Senator says in part:

"Your letter of January 24th still leaves a chasm between us . . . I earnestly hope that you do not mean that we are now meeting fully the challenge and the opportunity in this field. The tragic fact is that our information program hasn't even begun to be 'the vital part of our national strategy' it should be. Evidence for this abounds everywhere."

The evidence, to be sure, comes from many persons who are experts in the field and who shake their heads in discouragement as they think what a whale of a job could be done by a really inspired organization that has as its main task a daily appeal to the peoples behind the "iron curtain."

The hope of preventing war lies not merely in a cautious diplomacy backed by armament, but in bringing persuasively to the attention of peoples everywhere that peace is really attainable if truth is utilized to the maximum in applying moral force.

Acheson Still Stubborn

Secretary Acheson's letter appears to be that of a technician who has examined a blueprint and finds that the functions are properly classified in a government department. If there were no crisis, it wouldn't matter in what department the "Voice of America" was placed. But there is a crisis, and it takes the imaginative counsel of men who cannot allow themselves to think as bureaucrats if they are really to do an effective piece of psychological warfare.

Senator Benton has this rather significant point in his latest letter to Secretary Acheson, given to the press on February 3rd:

"I hope you will not disapprove of a speech that I am now planning, and may deliver in the next week or two in which I am going to . . . follow a 'counsel of moderation,' and ask for a special investigation by the Senate into this problem."

This can only mean more trouble for Secretary Acheson. One wonders why he stubbornly refuses to take advice on the proper scope of a public relations program and opens the door wide to irrelevant inquires by the Senate into the functioning of the entire Department of State.

The problems of the "Voice of America" are not ones to be determined by a single Cabinet officer. They affect the whole government. Only by a legalistic twist of thought can it be assumed that the program is merely the voice of the State Department designed to defend or argue the merits of its policies. The real mission of the "Voice of America" is to reflect the spirit and the will of the American people—and such a task should be entrusted to an office that can function independently and report only to the President and, through him, to the Congress of the United States.

These Days

More On Red-Baiters

IN A MOMENT of wild adventure, I wrote a piece listing the most active names in anti-communism in this country before 1940. I did not pretend that Dr. J. B. Matthews, Ben Stolberg or I could remember all the names, but we were hopeful that we would surely remember those among our personal friends who were active in Red-baiting, which was then denounced and is now a vogue.

That I forgot Fulton Oursler is astonishing. When other editors of magazines were playing about as great liberals, associating themselves with Communists and giving pro-Russians and fellow travelers preferred space, Oursler kept the pages of "Liberty" open to the truth. Perhaps I forgot him out of a subconscious modesty, unusual among writers, for I should have to say that when these so-called liberal editors closed their publications to me, Oursler purchased articles from me. My face was red, indeed, when I looked at the list and found his name not on it. It so often happens to a writer that when he reads what he has written, it only then occurs to him how it should have been written.

Then there is Patrick Scanlan of the Brooklyn "Tablet," who waged and continues to wage a fiery war against the "Red" brethren. The omission of Scanlan is difficult to explain, as are such names as Ayn Rand and Rose Wilder Lane, novelists, who dared to portray the truth when not to fall in line with Stalin's stooges meant unfavorable book reviews and possible even rejection by publishers.

In the Hollywood group should be Jack Moffitt, who did so much to bring on the investigation of the infiltration in Hollywood and has since been blacklisted.

Most surprising to me is that, while I have received an enormous mail on this particular article, few additional names have been suggested for candidates for the hall of fame of Red baiters prior to 1940. The largest mail demanded to know why I omitted Father Charles Coughlin, Monsignor Fulton Sheen, and Father Edward Lodge Curran.

Although in my original list, I did mention two Catholic priests, it occurred to me that all Catholic priests are anti-Communist by their creed. However, these three certainly should have been given special mention as they devoted themselves extraordinarily to this cause.

Omitted from the original list, and well-deserving of the highest gratitude of the American people, because he sacrificed not only a career but his life in this fight, is Dr. William A. Wirt, educator of Gary, Indiana, who told the story of the infiltration of Communists into government as early as 1934, when the Harold Ware cell was first organized. He was ridiculed and pilloried.

Similarly, John J. O'Connor, representative in Congress, friend of Franklin D. Roosevelt and brother

OUR FELLOWSHIP WITH GOD

Except ye turn, and become as little children, ye shall in no wise enter into the kingdom of heaven. Matthew 18:3. Read Mark 10:13-31.

Francis Thompson, in his essay on Shelley, says: "Know you what it is to be a child? It is to be something very different from the man of today. It is to have a spirit yet streaming from the waters of baptism; it is to believe in love, to believe in loveliness, to believe in belief; it is to be so little that the elves can reach to whisper in your ear; it is to turn pumpkins into coaches, and mice into horses, lowness into loftiness, and nothing into everything; for each child has its fairy godmother in its own soul; it is to live in a nutshell and to count yourself the king of infinite space; it is

'To see a World in a grain of sand,
And a Heaven in a wild flower,
Hold Infinity in the palm of your hand,
And Eternity in an hour.' "

How easy for a child to know God and His glory! He just wonders and adores. But we, when we grow older, lose the sensitiveness, the faith, the wonder of the child mind, and in our folly we deem ourselves wise, forgetting that great things are revealed unto babes.

Let Us Pray: O divine Master, give us a childlike spirit, lest we lose the way to the Father's house and miss the fellowship of his presence. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Sanctions Against China?

Although the U. S. delegation to the UN General Assembly at Lake Success is supposed to recommend economic and political punitive measures against Communist China, there is little reason to believe that any large number of the UN member nations would go along with the U. S. in imposing them. Indeed, the Canadian and British delegations are said to have voted, reluctantly, for the resolution branding Communist China as an aggressor in Korea only after private assurances that the U. S. would not really go to bat for sanctions.

The U. S. accepted an amendment to the resolution offered by Lebanon whereby even a report on collective sanctions is postponed until the three-man "Good Offices Committee" exhausts all avenues to peaceful settlement of the war in Korea. The General Assembly's president, Entezam of Iran, has had difficulty in getting two other members to serve with him on that committee.

Once set up, the Good Offices Committee could stall a report by the 14-member Collective Measures Committee indefinitely by reporting "satisfactory progress." Moreover, some nations have asserted unwillingness to serve on the latter committee. This, too, has yet to be appointed.

Failure of the UN to apply sanctions against Communist China would furnish ammunition to those who see UN already going the ineffectual way of the League of Nations. These critics admit that UN was quick to vote for military action against a small aggressor, North Korea, and has provided collective action averting or halting hostilities in Iran, Palestine, Indonesia and Kashmir. But these critics will argue that effective action against big power aggression is paralyzing UN, just as it paralyzed the League of Nations. The League was afraid that any attempt to apply sanctions with teeth in them would break up the League, all the more as the U. S., not a League member, would not be bound by the League's action.

In 1920, the League washed its hands of Polish aggression in Russia and Lithuania. In 1923 the League tried to pass the problem of Lithuanian seizure of Memel over to the Council of Ambassadors, ended by letting the Lithuanians keep the city. When Italy occupied the island of Corfu in the same year, Mussolini denied the jurisdiction of the League, accepted that of the Council of Ambassadors. The League left the issue to the Council, which ordered Italian evacuation but assessed 50,000,000 lire punitive damages against Greece for the murder of four Italians that had precipitated the dispute.

After Japan invaded Manchuria in 1931, the League shelved the question of sanctions on the ground that neither belligerent had declared war. Finally, in 1933, the League adopted recommendations of the Lytton fact-finding commission affirming Chinese sovereignty in Manchuria. A month later Japan gave notice of withdrawal from the League.

For almost nine months in 1935-36 most members of the League and one non-member, Egypt, went along with partial economic sanctions against Italy for Mussolini's invasion of Ethiopia. No League members imposed against Italy the oil embargo that Mussolini said would precipitate war. Great Britain left the Suez Canal open to Italian ships.

The League took no action against Italy for invading and absorbing Albania in April, 1939. In December, 1939, the League did expel Russia for invading Finland, but by that time World War II had started.

Article 41 of the UN Charter gives the Security Council the power to "decide what measures not involving the use of armed force are to be employed to give effect to its decisions." Russia would surely veto any Council move to apply sanctions against Communist China. But recent changes in powers of the General Assembly give it a voice in the question of sanctions.

How can another terrible war be averted? One way would be to reverse history 18 years and decide not to build up Russia.

Scrap Drives Ahead?

As more and more strategic materials are withheld from civilian production to meet military needs, more suggestions can be expected for appeals to the public to turn in unwanted articles containing such materials. Remember the scrap metal drives during World War II?

The public was asked particularly to turn in articles containing aluminum. These often remained for sometime piled up in vacant lots. The sorting took time and experience, because much of the aluminum donated was in the form of alloys that had to be reserved for lower grade uses. Few competent sorters and graders were available.

The scrap metal drives of World War II were conducted among industries as well as private citizens. The search for old steel was so successful that steel scrap remained in fair supply. Old trolley and railroad lines were broken up, as were old bridges, vacant buildings, obsolete ships, unusable cars and trucks from automobile "graveyards." Old tires were collected for use in retreading and in synthetic rubber.

The tin cans and tubes of various metals received from housewives were helpful to the war effort. So were the fats turned in for cash and/or for additional food rationing coupons. Collections of wastepaper and of silk and near-silk stockings did their bit. And some of the standardization of parts that helped to prevent waste during the war was continued after the war; today it is helping in the most effective use of the nation's metal resources.

The seed and garden catalogues in the mail remind us that the calendar on the wall flips its pages at its own pace.

Intent Not Enough

Good intentions, it is well known, are not enough. Dr. Ralph Bunche, former mediator in Palestine for the United Nations, has this to say:

"In this dread atomic age, if we fail to achieve peace, the responsibility must be borne by all of us. The fortunate, or unfortunate survivors of a third world war would gain little solace from being able to point an accusing finger. If the peace is lost through our complacency, our lack of awareness and determined effort, the blame would be shared by all of us, by peoples and governments whose intentions were sincerely peaceful as well as by those whose aggressive actions provoked war."

Monday is always a tough time to go to work. Many of us don't feel like getting up that early.

Flatfoot Correction

PAIN in the feet generally is due to a local disturbance such as flat feet, poor circulation, or infection. This is readily understandable but now and then distress stems from a more distant source such as the rectum, bladder, prostate, or uterus. Pain in such conditions is referred, which explains why the physician may want to do a more thorough examination when a local cause cannot be found.

Flatfoot is a common defect and a study of 3,600 young men in the Canadian army revealed that 8 per cent were disabled on this account. But there are many forms and some cause more incapacity than others. One type is not painful and leads to no difficulty at all. It consists of a simple flattening of the longitudinal arch. All of us have seen such cases on the beach or wherever persons walk barefoot, and have marveled at the ease with which they get about. It happens to be an individual characteristic and is comparable to the shape of the head, the length of the arms, or the size of the ears. It often is an inherited tendency. The arch is not too stiff or relaxed; it is not affected in the least by walking, jumping, or skipping rope.

Relaxed flatfoot probably produces more trouble than any other variety. It is caused by relaxation of the supporting ligaments with shortening of certain muscles and tendons. Fatigue and strain also play a role. This leads to flattening of the arch, with twisting or outward rotation of the foot. The victim walks like Charlie Chaplain, bearing his weight on the inner aspect of the foot.

Pain is caused by excessive strain on the ligaments and is most marked after being up and about for several hours. The distress is felt usually in the sole and is reflected up the limb and occasionally as high as the hip. The longitudinal arch should be supported with pads made of metal, cork, sponge rubber, felt, leather, or other materials. To be effective it must be the right size and placed in the correct position. If the pad is a quarter of an inch off, it may not have the desired result. This is one reason why an individual "fitting" is essential. Meanwhile, proper shoes are obtained. This means straight lasts and sufficient width to prevent constriction of the toes. Stiff shanked soles with felt pads may be needed if the job requires standing for long periods.

Rigid flatfoot differs in that it is a congenital defect produced by a coalition, or union of, two or more of the tarsal bones. The structures either have grown together or are joined by fibrous or cartilaginous tissues. This, too, encourages flattening of the longitudinal arch. X-ray is most helpful in making the diagnosis and surgery often is necessary to obtain relief.

Flatfoot usually is more troublesome in adolescence than in later life. Relief occurs not because the condition improves spontaneously but because many sufferers accept the defect and modify their existence as they go into their 20s and 30s.

Labor Leaders Flare Up Over Manpower Program; Defense Mobilizer Wilson Refuses To Consult With Labor On Policy; Communist Prestige Goes Down

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Five of the nation's top labor spokesmen, led by Phil Murray of the CIO, had it hot and heavy with Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson last week over the government's manpower program.

The ill feeling which flared between them looked like a curtain-raiser for more trouble on the labor front, and raised one of the most difficult problems of any defense or war program.

Purpose of the labor leaders' call on Wilson was to keep the nation's civilian manpower program under the Labor Department. This has been the subject of a bitter backstage battle for some time, with Wilson and Gen. Lucius Clay wanting to take manpower away from Secretary of Labor Tobin and Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna Rosenberg, and with the latter two threatening to resign if the labor problem is taken out of their hands.

Labor leaders have good reason to fear General Clay and any manpower commission which he organized. They recall that during the recent war and before he went to Germany as military governor, Clay demanded of FDR that there be compulsory allocation of labor under a labor draft.

That was one reason why the five leaders went to see Mobilization Czar Charlie Wilson last week to try to keep civilian manpower under the Labor Department. They got nowhere. Wilson's attitude during the bitter meeting was "I'm running things—we'll do it my way," though he didn't put it quite so bluntly.

He didn't have to. On the way to the meeting the labor group had read a news story telling of Wilson's and General Clay's plan to set up their own manpower commission under Civil Service Commissioner Arthur Flemming—with Clay, however, as the real boss. Wilson did not deny the story. Nor did he seem concerned when the labor leaders reminded him that he was setting up a board to control labor without consulting labor.

Ample Authority

When reminded that labor was consulted equally with management during World War II, and that labor had a co-chairman on the Office of Production Management, Wilson made it plain that he did not plan to follow this precedent.

"I have authority from the President," he said, "and I am going to use that authority. I haven't as yet asked Arthur Flemming to head up this manpower commission, but I intend to do so. And if he doesn't accept, I may head it up myself."

"Well, we don't like a proposition like that," spoke up CIO President Phil Murray. "We represent the men and women who are engaged in war production work and we think we should at least have an equal voice in the government's manpower policies."

Murray added that if Wilson became manpower chief in addition to his top job as mobilization boss, it would be the same as a man "taking advice from himself."

NOTE—Other labor leaders attending the meeting were: Dan Tracy, president of the AFL Electrical Workers; Al Hayes, president of the International Association of Machinists; George Leighty, chairman of the Railroad Labor Executives Association; and James Carey, CIO secretary-treasurer.

INSIDE THE COMMUNISTS—There was something funny about the way Farrar, Straus & Co. suddenly junked Hede Massing's new book on life inside the Communist party. She's the ex-wife of Gerhart Eisler, and the book won't do Stalin any good. . . . The manuscript was immediately snapped up by Duell, Sloan and Pearce. . . . Communist party membership has taken a terrific beating in Europe in the wake of the Marshall Plan, the Tide of Toys, the Friendship Train and other friendship projects to Europe. In the Dutch Parliament, Communist seats have dropped from 56 to 27. In the Soviet zone of Austria, Communists lost 10 of their 11 parliamentary seats. In Belgium, they lost five out of 12 seats in the lower house and two out of five in the senate. . . . In Denmark they dropped from 76 elective posts to only 24. . . . The Dutch Communist newspaper is now down from 400,000 circulation to around 100,000, while the Communist press of France has taken similar losses. . . . Most amazing development, however, is in Italy, where two top Communist senators have resigned from the party and are starting an independent party similar to Tito's.

MILITARY SCUTTLEBUTT — The Air Force is probing complaints of kickbacks and shortages at the Bolling Field Officers Club outside Washington. Maj. Dan H. Rogers, officer-in-charge, has resigned. . . . Army Chief of Staff General Collins told the Senate Armed Services Committee behind closed doors that there are now 950,000 Communist troops in Korea. MacArthur's intelligence at the same time reported only 276,000. . . . Here are the results of a check on reports that Col. James Lemarest has been made special consultant to the Quartermaster General at the behest of ex-Assistant Secretary of Defense Paul Griffith. (The Quartermaster, of course, hands out some of the juiciest contracts in government.) Colonel Demarest draws $40 a day whenever consulted, was appointed January 22, and is associated in public relations with Paul Griffith, according to the Quartermaster Corps. It was denied, however, that Griffith recommended Demarest for the job. . . . Griffith, when queried, denied everything — even that he was associated with Demarest in public relations work. But when told that the Quartermaster stated just the opposite, Griffith admitted he had discussed a public relations set-up with Demarest. (Wonder how a public relations man could be worth $40 a day for advising the Army on war contracts?). . . . The Munitions Board's failure to stockpile wool has forced the Army to bid against the Russians on the Australian wool market—with the price going up every day.

UNHAPPY GOOD NEIGHBORS—Latin Americans have a bone to pick with debonair Eric Johnston, the new economic stabilizer. Johnston's name is signed to the Chapultepec Treaty by which the U.S.A. agrees to consult with its good neighbors before freezing prices. However, Johnston didn't consult. Latin-American ambassadors were merely called in at the last minute and told. There was no consultation. . . . The American public doesn't realize it, but the Latinos get hit harder than anyone else by price freezes. They sell us coffee, for instance, at frozen prices, but can't buy back autos, scarce machinery, minerals, etc., because we don't have them to spare. Then, after war, the prices of these scarce articles go up. . . . Look out for trouble in Venezuela. When college students and faculty in Caracas petitioned President Suarez Flamerich to release political prisoners, the Army proceeded to throw students and faculty into jail too. President Flamerich, out of sympathy with the Army, presented his resignation, but the Army refused to accept it. He remains in office with a pistol at his back.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Unfreezing The Asset

WASHINGTON

THE second decisive event of the present grim phase of world affairs seems to be taking shape at last behind the scenes. The first, of course, was the beginning of the all-out effort to re-arm the West, stimulated by the aggression in Korea. And now, in order to deter the Kremlin from forestalling this great but time consuming rearmament effort, consideration is being given to unfreezing the West's only existing military asset, the atomic stockpile.

Here the immediate stimulus is the obvious preparation for an attack on Yugoslavia by the Kremlin's Hungarian, Bulgarian and Romanian satellites. Besides destroying the Yugoslav Army and giving the Kremlin a vital position there, the unopposed conquest of Yugoslavia would neutralize the Turkish Army. It would create conditions for rapid Soviet absorption of the Middle East. And it would probably cause the formation of "neutralist" governments in Italy and France.

In sum, this simple flank attack, which perhaps can be made by the satellites alone, would effectively break the Western alliance. Thus the Kremlin would gain all the fruits of a gigantic victory with none of the trouble of a major war.

The atomic stockpile must be regarded as a frozen asset today, for the very simple reason that on the face of the existing situation, Yugoslavia can in fact be attacked by the surrounding satellites without precipitating a general war. "Unfreezing" the asset in turn simply means convincing the Kremlin that an attack on Yugoslavia is not as safe as it now looks—that the immediate price of this operation or any others like it will be the destruction of Russia's vital centers, and that this will still be true even if satellite forces alone are overtly employed.

Parallels Pre-Korea Situation

In considering so grave a step, there are three other points to weigh besides Yugoslavia's immense political and strategic importance. First, there is the resemblance of the present situation to the situation pre-Korea. Last June, American disarmament, plus the established and proclaimed American policy not to intervene in Korea, actually invited aggression there. Korea was attacked because it looked perfectly safe to do so.

Today, there has been no public change in the earlier American policy decision to limit assistance to Marshal Tito to "aid short of war." London's attitude has been rendered doubtful by recent high-level expressions there. The Kremlin's temptation to take advantage of American disarmament has been replaced by the active compulsion to strike before the West is re-armed, and the whole Soviet imperialist program is thus defeated. In short, the seeming invitation to attack Yugoslavia is even stronger, if anything, than was the seeming invitation to attack Korea.

Second, there is the attitude of the Yugoslavs themselves. Marshal Tito told a recent visitor that he and his colleagues had carefully reviewed the case of Czechoslovakia, and had decided that the great mistake of Benes was not to reject the Munich settlement and resist Hitler single-handed. France and Britain he explained, would then have been drawn into the resulting war. The parallel is exact. If the Yugoslavs resist, as they have firmly informed London and Washington they mean to do if attacked, a war there probably cannot be contained in any case.

Two Problems To Answer

Third, and most important of all, there is the fact that a firm, clear warning to the Kremlin would probably produce the desired result of deterring an attack. In the last six months, all the known data about our power to destroy the Soviet vital centers with atomic weapons, and about the Soviet defenses, have finally been gathered together and carefully re-examined. The conclusion has been reached that, as of today, our power is decisive. If the masters of the Kremlin did not fear this power of ours, they would now be preparing a

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—Senator Benton of Connecticut, Democrat, is absolutely right in his attempt to bring about the separation of the "Voice of America" from the Department of State, thus making it an independent agency responsible directly to the President.

That was the way the information branch of the government functioned during World War I and World War II, respectively, and the crisis today on the psychological warfare side is no less important than it was during both those war periods.

The significance of the separation which Senator Benton and many others in Congress are advocating is that the "Voice of America" tends to become a subordinate bureau which cannot function in a large sense on policy questions. It has efficient personnel in its management but their freedom to do a good job is impaired.

Acheson's Conception Narrow

The conception which Secretary of State Acheson has of the "Voice of America" is rather narrow. He thinks of it as merely the mouthpiece of the Department of State and as an instrument of "support to current foreign policy decisions." Any information agency which has that mission is doomed from the start because of the inhibitions upon its freedom of expression.

In a recent exchange of letters betwen Secretary Acheson and Senator Benton, the former insisted that "the expanded information program has in fact become the vital part of our national strategy you and others have always believed it should be." Senator Benton, when he was Assistant Secretary of State, had charge of the "Voice of America" program and spent many a weary hour before congressional committees trying to get appropriations for it, so he has definite ideas about what ought to be done with the whole operation. In his reply to Secretary Acheson, the Connecticut Senator says in part:

"Your letter of January 24th still leaves a chasm between us . . . I earnestly hope that you do not mean that we are now meeting fully the challenge and the opportunity in this field. The tragic fact is that our information program hasn't even begun to be 'the vital part of our national strategy' it should be. Evidence for this abounds everywhere."

The evidence, to be sure, comes from many persons who are experts in the field and who shake their heads in discouragement as they think what a whale of a job could be done by a really inspired organization that has as its main task a daily appeal to the peoples behind the "iron curtain."

The hope of preventing war lies not merely in a cautious diplomacy backed by armament, but in bringing persuasively to the attention of peoples everywhere that peace is really attainable if truth is utilized to the maximum in applying moral force.

Acheson Still Stubborn

Secretary Acheson's letter appears to be that of a technician who has examined a blueprint and finds that the functions are properly classified in a government department. If there were no crisis, it wouldn't matter in what department the "Voice of America" was placed. But there is a crisis, and it takes the imaginative counsel of men who cannot allow themselves to think as bureaucrats if they are really to do an effective piece of psychological warfare.

Senator Benton has this rather significant point in his latest letter to Secretary Acheson, given to the press on February 3rd:

"I hope you will not disapprove of a speech that I am now planning, and may deliver in the next week or two in which I am going to . . . follow a 'counsel of moderation,' and ask for a special investigation by the Senate into this problem."

This can only mean more trouble for Secretary Acheson. One wonders why he stubbornly refuses to take advice on the proper scope of a public relations program and opens the door wide to irrelevant inquires by the Senate into the functioning of the entire Department of State.

The problems of the "Voice of America" are not ones to be determined by a single Cabinet officer. They affect the whole government. Only by a legalistic twist of thought can it be assumed that the program is merely the voice of the State Department designed to defend or argue the merits of its policies. The real mission of the "Voice of America" is to reflect the spirit and the will of the American people—and such a task should be entrusted to an office that can function independently and report only to the President and, through him, to the Congress of the United States.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

More On Red-Baiters

IN A MOMENT of wild adventure, I wrote a piece listing the most active names in anti-communism in this country before 1940. I did not pretend that Dr. J. B. Matthews, Ben Stolberg or I could remember all the names, but we were hopeful that we would surely remember those among our personal friends who were active in Red-baiting, which was then denounced and is now a vogue.

That I forgot Fulton Oursler is astonishing. When other editors of magazines were playing about as great liberals, associating themselves with Communists and giving pro-Russians and fellow travelers preferred space, Oursler kept the pages of "Liberty" open to the truth. Perhaps I forgot him out of a subconscious modesty, unusual among writers, for I should have to say that when these so-called liberal editors closed their publications to me, Oursler purchased articles from me. My face was red, indeed, when I looked at the list and found his name not on it. It so often happens to a writer that when he reads what he has written, it only then occurs to him how it should have been written.

Then there is Patrick Scanlan of the Brooklyn "Tablet," who waged and continues to wage a fiery war against the "Red" brethren. The omission of Scanlan is difficult to explain, as are such names as Ayn Rand and Rose Wilder Lane, novelists, who dared to portray the truth when not to fall in line with Stalin's stooges meant unfavorable book reviews and possible even rejection by publishers.

In the Hollywood group should be Jack Moffitt, who did so much to bring on the investigation of the infiltration in Hollywood and has since been blacklisted.

Most surprising to me is that, while I have received an enormous mail on this particular article, few additional names have been suggested for candidates for the hall of fame of Red baiters prior to 1940. The largest mail demanded to know why I omitted Father Charles Coughlin, Monsignor Fulton Sheen, and Father Edward Lodge Curran.

Although in my original list, I did mention two Catholic priests, it occurred to me that all Catholic priests are anti-Communist by their creed. However, these three certainly should have been given special mention as they devoted themselves extraordinarily to this cause.

Omitted from the original list, and well-deserving of the highest gratitude of the American people, because he sacrificed not only a career but his life in this fight, is Dr. William A. Wirt, educator of Gary, Indiana, who told the story of the infiltration of Communists into government as early as 1934, when the Harold Ware cell was first organized. He was ridiculed and pilloried.

Similarly, John J. O'Connor, representative in Congress, friend of Franklin D. Roosevelt and brother

OUR FELLOWSHIP WITH GOD

Except ye turn, and become as little children, ye shall in no wise enter into the kingdom of heaven. Matthew 18:3. Read Mark 10:13-31.

Francis Thompson, in his essay on Shelley, says: "Know you what it is to be a child? It is to be something very different from the man of today. It is to have a spirit yet streaming from the waters of baptism; it is to believe in love, to believe in loveliness, to believe in belief; it is to be so little that the elves can reach to whisper in your ear; it is to turn pumpkins into coaches, and mice into horses, lowness into loftiness, and nothing into everything; for each child has its fairy godmother in its own soul; it is to live in a nutshell and to count yourself the king of infinite space; it is

"To see a World in a grain of sand,
And a Heaven in a wild flower,
Hold Infinity in the palm of your hand,
And Eternity in an hour."

How easy for a child to know God and His glory! He just wonders and adores. But we, when we grow older, lose the sensitiveness, the faith, the wonder of the child mind, and in our folly we deem ourselves wise, forgetting that great things are revealed unto babes.

Let Us Pray: O divine Master, give us a childlike spirit, lest we lose the way to the Father's house and miss the fellowship of his presence. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

National Arts Director Still Seeking Missing Manuscripts

Learns Some Were Stolen By Russians

Russian soldiers came to a Benedictine Monastery in Poland last year and removed some of the world's most famous music manuscripts.

Confirmation of this fact was received by Carleton Smith, music writer and director of the National Arts Foundation, Sunday night while he was spending a short time here in Cumberland prepartory to speaking at a general assembly at Frostburg State Teachers College.

A cablegram was sent to Smith's New York address Sunday from P. Schmidt, who was abbott of a Benedictine Monastery in Grussau, Poland, where the manuscripts had been stored for safekeeping by the Nazis. Now exiled from Poland, Abbott Schmidt lives at Badwimpfer Western Germany. It was from here that he sent the cablegram which was forwarded from New York to the Fort Cumberland Hotel, where Smith spent Sunday night.

Included Ninth Smyphony

"These priceless manuscripts included Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, Mozart's "Magic Flute" opera and Mendelsohn's "Elijah," an oratorio," Smith said when he came to the newsroom of The Cumberland News to report his latest information.

"Last October when I went to the Monastery at Grussau I found that the manuscripts had been taken, but no one seemed to know anything about them," the foundation director asserted. "All the monks had fled from the Monastery Nations, he had tried unsuccessfully and they knew nothing about the works of the great masters. Abbott Schmidt no longer was there."

Smith stated that through Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, he had tried unscuuessfully to learn the whereabouts of the musical masterpieces. Neither Poland nor Russia answered his appeal.

Moved To The East

Finally, the cablegram came with its assurance that the manuscripts had ben stolen from the Monastery. The abbott said in his cablegram only that the Russian soldiers had taken the manuscripts "to the East."

"I hope that the Russians have not harmed those manuscripts," Smith said, "It was the wish of our foundation to make photostatic copies of the manuscripts so that many people could enjoy them. That Beethoven manuscript was most valuable of all. It showed that Beethoven had crossed out more measures than he had allowed to remain in the symphony. There also were marks which indicated that he had jabbed his pencil into the paper in irritation over the imperfection of his work."

Smith had examined the manuscript before World War II when it was displayed in the Prussian National Library in Berlin. When the war came, the Nazis moved these valuable manuscripts to less vulnerable places. That is how they arrived at the Benedictine Monastery.

Visited 17 Countries

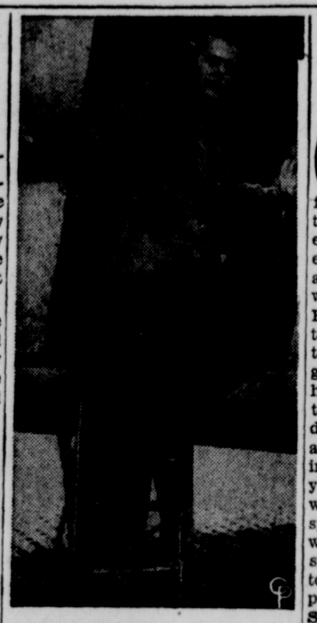
While visiting the newsroom here, Smith also said that over 10,000 displayed music manuscripts from Germany, Austria and Italy never have been recovered.

It was in search of these displaced manuscripts that Smith visited 17 countries in Europe in 1949 and 1950. Among these countries were Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary and East Germany behind Russia's Iron Curtain.

A native of Bement, Ill., Smith has had a colorful and varied career. As an 18-year-old boy he received his masters degree in 1928 from the University of Maryland, where he was a roommate of Galo Plaza Lasso, now president of the Republic of Ecuador.

In pre-World War II days he had interviews with Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini. He also visited such composers as Sibelius, Strauss, Shostakovich, Ravel, Elgar, Delius, deFalla, Vaughan Williams and others.

Since 1946 he has headed the National Arts Foundation, 60 Broadway, New Yory City, a non-profit organization for increasing enjoyment and understanding of the arts.



ANOTHER CHAPTER in the hectic adventures of William J. Newton, Jr., of Temple City, Calif., was written when he boarded a Japan-bound plane near Suwon and was taken off at Pusan as a "stowaway." Recently he staged a 12,000-mile hitch-hike to Korean warfront to prove he was anti-Communist. Failing to pass a physical test, he was ordered home. (International)

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

GENERAL Eisenhower's report to Congress regarding military assistance to the Atlantic Pact nations contained no new information since it was general in tone. It was heartening in that the emphasis was on war material rather than large contingents of men and that he found signs of better will to resist Communist aggression. He recognized that Europe will have to pull its weight. Much consideration should be given to this since gains in West Europe's production has risen from 77 per cent in 1946 to 126 per cent in 1950. As for defense costs, the United States with a population of 152,300,000 is spending at present 25 billion dollars this year for that purpose while England with a 50,600,000 population is spending $2,380,000,000 and France with a population of 41,600,000 is spending $1,640,000,000. According to those figures the expenditures per capital is $164 for the United States; $47 for the United Kingdom; and $39 for France.

President Truman, in a special message to Congress Friday, again demanded taxes be raised to bring in an additional $16½ billion in Federal revenues during the coming year. He asked that approximately $10 billion of this amount be raised through an immediate tax increase, with the additional $6½ billion to come through new taxes to be voted later. To raise the $10 billion he wants immediately, he proposed: (1) A $4 billion boost in individual income taxes through a four-point increase in rates in each tax bracket; with no reduction in the present $600 exemption; (2) an increase in the corporate tax rate from the present 47 per cent to 55 per cent, to produce an additional $3 billion; (3) increasing present excise taxes and levying new ones, to raise another $2 billion, and: (4) closing loop-holes in the present tax laws, taxing mutual savings banks, and levying a withholding tax on dividends, to bring in another $1 billion annually. All of this in addition to the $7.7 billion federal tax increase voted last September, the full effect of which will not hit the average taxpayer until this year.

Many members of Congress, including your humble reporter, agree we should balance the budget if possible, even though tax increases will be necessary, but first want to see all the "fat" cut out of the President's $71.6 billion budget. The budget contains requests for $9.4 billion for the purely civilian activities of Government, exclusive of funds needed to meet the costs of national defense, past wars, care of veterans, interest on the public debt, etc., in comparison to the $3.4 billion asked by Roosevelt for the same purposes in the closing days of World War Two. Senator Byrd of Virginia has presented detailed proposals for cutting Mr. Truman's over-all budget by $9.1 billion. He recommends cuts of $4,817 million in the domestic-civilian portion of the budget; a $3,500 million cut in the inflated foreign aid request section; $500 million in the military section, and $200 million in the veterans' program.

• — • — •

It appears Secretary of National Defense Marshall and his manpower assistant, Anna Rosenberg, have not convinced the Armed Services Committees of the House and Senate of the necessity of drafting 18-year-olds at this time. Instead both committees are expected to demand a re-screening of deferments and a recheck of manpower resources in the 19 to 26 year age brackets.

UNDER THE DOME

Residents of the Town Creek Section contacted me relative to an improvement in their mail service. I have gotten in touch with the Postmaster General asking that an investigation be made with the view of giving these patrons better service.

I am very much interested in the proposed Harpers Ferry Memorial project. Part of this project would be in Washington County—recommendations have been made by the Department of the Interior and the West Virginia State Legislature has introduced the necessary legislation to acquire the land. The Washington County Historical Society is very actively engaged in furthering the project and is now working with the members of the Maryland State Legislature relative to necessary legislation to acquire the land in Maryland. I have assured this group of my wholehearted cooperation in this matter.

There are more physicians in Washington, D.C., in proportion to its area and population, than in any other American city.

Family Night To Be Held March 4

The Woman's Association of the First Presbyterian Church formulated plans for a "Family Night" and for each circle to sponsor a boy in service at the meeting Tuesday evening in the lecture hall. Mrs. Lester Martin presided.

"Family Night" will be held March 4 in the church, at which time Robert Myers, director of McKim Center and McKim Boys Haven, Baltimore, will be the speaker. Mr. Myers is to tell of his work with boys in Baltimore. The Association will be hostess for a covered dish dinner preceding the program, with the Heacox-Pierce Circle in charge.

A special program is being arranged for young children. It will be in the church house simultaneously with the "Family Night."

The prelude was played by Mrs. John R. Conley and prayer offered by Mrs. Martin. Following the group singing of a hymn, routine reports were given, and the 1951 budget accepted. It was decided that the "Family Night" will take the place of the March meeting.

A missionary program was given and Mrs. P. G. Ervin portrayed a Lebanese, introduced a moving picture entitled, "South of the Clouds."

Concluding the evening a social hour was held with the Diuguid-Athey Circle as hostess.

CPL. AND MRS. DEAN McCLUNG

Marlene Bennett Becomes Bride Of Cpl. Dean McClung

Bride Is Senior At Fort Hill High

Miss Marlene Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Enos Bennett, 447 Baltimore Avenue, became the bride of Cpl. Dean McClung, son of Rev. and Mrs. Elmer McClung, Locust Grove, Okla., on February 3.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized at 7:30 p. m., in the Assembly of God Church with Rev. Frank Fratto officiating. Mr. and Mrs. John Hilleary, Corriganville, were their attendants.

Mrs. Donald Horner sang, "Because" and "I Love You Truly," accompanied at the piano by John Markwood, who also played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride was attired in a white suit, with which she wore a large blue hat and accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Her matron of honor wore a lilac colored suit, with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roesbuds.

Mrs. Bennett chose a black costume for her daughter's wedding, with which she wore a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

The bride is a senior at Fort Hill High School, in the Commercial department.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Locust Grove, Ill., High School, class of 1948 and is serving in the Army, at Arlington Hall Station, Arlington, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett entertained with a weding reception in honor of their daughter, at the Bowling Green Fire Hall, following the ceremony. The bridal motif was carried out in the table appointments and the tiered wedding cake adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom. After which Cpl. McClung and his bride left for a wedding trip through Virginia to Luray. For the present Mrs. McClung is residing at the home of her parents.

Marriage Announced

The marriage of Miss Alice Mable Smith to Glenn Burton Louke, Baltimore, has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Smith, 313 Cecelia Street, parents of the bride. The ceremony was performed in the Evangelical UB Church, Ellerslie, January 22 with Rev. C. W. Raley officiating. Sally and Janet Pfeiffer and their father, Charles Pfeiffer, were the attendants.

The bride attended Fort Hill High School and is employed by Montgomery Ward in Baltimore. The bridegroom is employed by the Crown Cork and Seal Company, Baltimore.

NATURALNESS IS THE KEY TO BEING GLAMOROUS—SKIP THE ARTIFICIAL AND SETTLE DOWN TO BE YOURSELF

BY BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

If you want to be a glamor girl in 1951, just skip the glamor, be yourself, and there you have it.

Glamor is a highly overrated word. It conjures different pictures in our mind. To some it means a girl who sparkles with jewels. Others picture a glamorous creature who is perfectly made up—with artificial props, of course. Others see her as a girl who can captivate any male.

Actually, the so-called glamor for which you strive should be more concrete. It should encompass beauty, brains, character and sweetness. The dictionary's version is that it is a sort of magic and charm. If you concentrate on that instead of some artificial veneer, you can achieve it easily. Let's see how you should look in 1951 to please your own vanity:

HAIR . . . Beauty experts advise that you wear your hair as you please, providing the coiffure suits your type. One famous model agent suggests you forget about current hair styles, wear what becomes you most. But don't get any false notions, even if you wear a hair piece. He admonishes that your hair is not becoming if it trails down your back a la Alice in Wonderland or Dancehall Susie. Select a ladylike hairdo, but keep to the length you like best.

FIGURE . . . If you are the voluptuous type, do not strive to be skinny as your favorite fashion model. Perhaps you look better with just a few extra pounds. Let your glamor model starve herself into a skeleton pattern, if she likes. She'll have to pay the piper, eventually. If you are too thin, then be systematic about your weight building program. You'll succeed if you stick to it.

EYES . . . If you come naturally by long, luxurious lashes, you have no problem. The girl who has a fair complexion, fair hair and blonde eyelashes especially needs to wield the mascara brush occasionally. Use a midnight shade of mascara, which is not too overpowering or too deep black, use it sparingly and on special occasions. Mascara doesn't belong in a business office, or for that matter as makeup enhancement for a casual date. The sloe-eyed, doe-eyed look is modified this year and your goal in eye-makeup should not be so oriental or affected.

MAKEUP . . . Use it sparingly and strive for the natural look. More rouge is being worn—and that always is an indication, strangely enough, of a trend away from the made-up look. Whenever you wear rouge it is to achieve a natural outdoorsy complexion.

When there's something you wish to remember, get a double impression. Use both your eyes and ears!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

With obvious awe and admiration, a friend of mine told me about a college professor who could remember the names of every one of a class of fifty, after the introductions on the first day.

A good memory is an asset in every walk of life and important to anyone who seeks to achieve charm. How can you hope to be a success in business or social life if you are always in a hazy, mental fog? With a poor memory you are living in a limbo where you never can be sure of anything, and some speedy training is necessary if you are to get back into the world of people with whom you want to associate.

Keys To Remembering

There are three natural laws of remembering. Practice them and you'll be amazed to discover how great your memory capacity is!

1. Impression. The stronger the impression any object, point or person makes on you, the greater your memory of it will be. You can increase the depth of any impression by concentration. Abraham Lincoln read his newspaper aloud so he could get two impressions, both the visual and the auditory. When you want to remember something, try to see it in your mind. A mental picture leaves a clearer, more lasting impression.

2. Repetition: A frequent reminder is better than one long session of repetition. If you sit down and try in one hour to memorize a list of names or dates by constant repetition, you may succeed. But if you repeat that list three times now, drop it, and then go back to it an hour later, you will retain it more accurately and more easily.

Make Connections

3. Association. Association of ideas is one of the best keys to remembering. Try to associate everything to be remembered with a fact already in your mind. To remember any name, ask questions about it. Most people are flattered by interest in their names. Observe the appearance of the stranger closely; then try to associate the name with the appearance.

Go over three points. Put them to work. They'll save you from many an embarrassing stumble over something you should have remembered. . . and make you feel mighty superior when you hear others resorting to that dull admission of vagueness, "It sounds familiar,—but. . . ."

One of his many irons in various fires: The musical comedy he is preparing for production on Broadway . . . Called "Helen in Memphis," the witty satire tells what happened when Helen of Troy ran off with the shepherd boy Paris and let her husband Menelaus worry about getting her home as best he could . . . In Bromfield's version she's an ageing beauty out for a fling . . . Helen acts a lot like Eva Peron and Menelaus is president of the Rotary Club in Troy.

Sens. Aiken and Flanders of Vermont banding together in righteous indignation against a Virginia grocery store which sold syrup labeled 100 per cent pure maple . . . Flanders said it wasn't 100 per cent pure . . . Had a sample taken to colleague Aiken who agreed with him . . . They are requesting that the Pure Food and Drug Administration and the Federal Trade Commission investigate.

While they are battling for purity in syrup, new Sen. Welker of Idaho and veteran Sen. Brewster of Maine are pressuring government agencies to step up sales of Maine and Idaho potatoes . . . They want industrial alcohol manufacturers to use more potatoes in their production.

Don't be HALF-SAFE
by VALDA SHERMAN

Many mysterious changes take place in your body as you mature. Now, the glands under your arms begin to secrete daily a new type of perspiration containing substances which will—if they reach your dress—cause ugly stains and clinging odor

You'll face this problem throughout womanhood. It's not enough merely to stop the odor of this perspiration. You must now use a deodorant that stops the perspiration itself before it reaches—and ruins—your clothes.

As doctors know, not all deodorants stop both perspiration and odor. But Arrid does! It's been proved that the new cream deodorant Arrid stops underarm perspiration 1 to 3 days safely—keeps underarms dry and sweet.

Remember this, too. Arrid's antiseptic action kills odor on contact—prevents formation of odor up to 48 hours and keeps you "shower-bath" fresh. And it's safe for skin—safe for fabrics.

So, don't be half-safe. Don't risk your happiness with half-safe deodorants. Be Arrid-safe! Use Arrid to be sure. Arrid with Creamogen will not dry out, and it's so pleasant and easy to apply. Get Arrid today—only 39¢ plus tax.

MIRROR·OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Can ideas "make you sick"?

Answer: No, but the emotions they arouse can—very literally. Psychologists now say that a baby begins by dividing everything in the outside world into what should be swallowed and what should be spat out. Nausea thus embodies the most primitive and profound reaction of rejecting something which is repugnant to you. And a similar reaction later comes to follow finding yourself in a situation to which fear or guilt is attached. I have known musicians who were nauseated before a concert and girls who became sick any time that a man tried to kiss them.

Should you let a child know you are angry?

Answer: You may frighten a child dangerously by flying into a rage and losing control of yourself, but to pretend that you are not at least annoyed when you punish him is I think both unwise and unnecessary. It is generally untrue, and in any case the child probably will not believe it since he cannot understand why you should hurt or punish him for any other reason. Finally, the fact that if he does certain kinds of things he will make other people angry is one which a child needs to realize as part of his preparation for life.

Can we measure alcohol's effect on driving?

Answer: Yes, say Drs. Kjell Bjerver and Leonard Goldberg in the Quarterly Journal of Studies in Alcohol. Tests of 37 expert drivers on a specially constructed obstacle course showed a failing off of 25 to 30% in driving ability after 3 or 4 bottles of beer or a corresponding amount of hard liquor. Driving skill begins to deteriorate when there is a concentration of from 0.35 to 0.40 percent of alcohol in the blood stream—which means incidentally that the less you weigh, the less you can safely drink if you are driving.

NEW YORK—(INS) WHAT WORRIES you at the present time? What headline would you like to see in your newspaper tomorrow?

Those two questions were asked on the radio program named "Town Meeting Of The Air" late last month, and the bulk of the mail is in. It came from all 48 states. Cutting through the business of "mass behavior" and "depth psychology," terms used in the announcement of the results, this is what the people wrote:

In the regard to their worries, about 75 per cent of the letter writers indicated that they worried most about the lack of moral and ethical security, lack of leadership in Washington, and lack of a clear definition of national goals.

They were less concerned about their financial status.

Some 42 per cent stressed this worry: Imminence of war. Only 18 per cent of the letters brought in the question of economic security. Five per cent worried about being drafted, or having an 18-year-old son or other member of the family drafted.

Cancer and Communism concerned two per cent of the writers, and a shade under that percentage felt the country was losing its democratic principles.

There were such heads as "Russia Blasted Off The Face Of The World," and "Oppressed Russian People Overthrow The Soviet Regime." Other head-writers liked "Russia Becomes Christian," and some liked "Sanctions Applied Against Red China."

But about half the writers—the program attracted about 4,000 replies—composed headlines having to do with a new understanding among the nations and non-military solutions of world problems. Thirty per cent longed for one word, in very large type. The word was "PEACE!"

Fifteen per cent longed for violent solutions to today's menaces: "Stalin Assassinated"; and a slightly smaller percentage put it on the broader scale of "Russia Wiped Out." Nine per cent hoped for successful negotiations within the U. N., along such lines as "Russia Reconsiders, Drops Iron Curtain."

One guy liked "Stalin And His Aides Crash In Plane On Way To Attend Mao Tse-Tung's Funeral," and more than one wanted to read, "A-Bomb Dropped On Moscow." Another suggestion, along more passive lines: "Stalin Invites Msgr. Sheen To Moscow."

Speaking of polls, I recently printed a letter from Jimmy Young, former INS correspondent in the Far East and now of the Anderson (S. C.) Daily Mail, in which he suggested a poll on how the people feel about dropping some A-bombs on the core of Communism—Russia. C. W. Deininger, a Worcester, Mass., broker who read the letter in the Worcester Telegram, writes:

"I thought you might be interested in the conversation I had recently with a young naturalized Russian who came into this office to open a small account.

"The gist of what he said about Russia was that the U. S. was making a serious mistake in using kind words in respect to it, because Russians just do not understand that sort of thing. He also said that in spite of the fact that he still has relatives and many friends in Russia he believes the only way we can solve the problem of Russia is to use the A-bomb immediately.

"He further stated he didn't like to think what it would do to individuals but that it was the only over-all solution he had thought out as being practicaly.

"I didnt' lead him into these opinion. He volunteered them."

Production Of Soft Coal Shows Increase In 1950

Maryland, Virginias Produced 32 Per Cent

Mines of West Virginia, Virginia and Maryland produced 162.2 million tons of soft coal in 1950.

This was 32 per cent of the nation's total output, and the largest proportion of the national total ever produced by these three states, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported in the February issue of its Monthly Review.

The report also forecast an increase in the use of coal and a rise in employment during 1951.

The bank's publication this month is devoted to a review of the leading industries of the Fifth Federal Reserve District, which includes these three states and North Carolina, South Carolina, and the District of Columbia.

Of the district's total output, the report stated, West Virginia produced 89.1 per cent, Virginia 10.6 per cent, and Maryland 0.3 per cent.

The total national production of bituminous coal was 506.3 million tons, a gain of 68.4 million tons, or 15.6 per cent, over 1950. The Fifth District's 162.2 million tons in 1950 compared favorably with its 1949 output of 138.1 million.

Estimated domestic consumption of soft coal in 1950, the report said, totaled 451.7 million tons, a gain of 1.3 per cent over 1949.

Indications are that consumption will rise during 1951, said the report. Electric power utilities increased their bituminous coal consumption in 1950 by 8.9 per cent over 1949, it pointed out, and "the continued growth in kilowatt hour output will mean a sharply rising trend in use of coal by utilities".

Coal exports, also, the report said, are in a rising trend.

"The competitive situation with other sources of energy is not such an important consideration at the present time for the bituminous coal industry," the report added, "as all sources will probably be called on for greater volume of production.

The shortage in metal supplies, particularly steel, may also have an adverse effect on the construction of new diesel locomotives and thereby further delay diversion of railroads' utilization of coal and make it necessary to continue in operation many of the steam locomotives which have been retired from service".

The report also forecast a rise in employment in the industry.

"Employment," it said, "is moderately below a year ago, but with a rising demand it would seem probable that both hours of work and some increase in employment will 15.6 per cent, over 1950. The Fifth be witnessed during the year."

A POIGNANT scene is caught by an alert news cameraman in Los Angeles as the grief-stricken father of little Carol Ann Balcom, 5, carries his youngster to a waiting ambulance after the tot had been hit by a passing auto in front of her home. Pulpwood Production Book Published By Luke Paper Mill

LUKE, Md. — Tested methods of growing and harvesting pulpwood profitably are among the pointers included in a new West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company manual being distributed this week among landowners, wood producers, farmers, agriculture teachers and students, and others in this area interested in good forest practices.

A 72-page volume prepared by veteran forest experts of the paper company, the booklet tells how pulpwood can best be grown and cut to grow again in areas that supply the Appalachian mills of the company. It is entitled "Growing and Harvesting Tree Crops."

Among the subjects it covers, are an explanation of the markets available for pulpwood, future prospects of the market, cutting and hauling methods that have been found successful by experienced operators, the business side of cutting and selling pulpwood and the main principles to observe in managing woodlands for a long-term profit. The booklet is illustrated with photographs taken in the field and is fully indexed for handy reference.

"We have taken pains to make this booklet modern, clear, and practical," said C. A. Beck, manager of the Wood Department of the Luke Mill, who is supervising the distribution of the booklet in this area. "For people in the pulpwood producing business, we believe it will reveal new ways to handle their wood more expertly and profitably. For the general reader, including young people in the schools, we believe the booklet will shed new light on the growing importance of pulpwood, as a regular business, in the economic life of this region."

Mr. Beck pointed out that pulpwood production provides work opportunities for farmers and farm help between crops and seasons, and opportunities for creating income from land now idle; helps keep the paper industry, one of the area's major industries, healthy and competitive, by providing a steady flow of raw materials; and contributes to the protection and improvement of the woods by removing the right trees at the right time, thus clearing the way for new growth.

A copy of the booklet may be obtained by writing to the Wood Department of the Luke, Md., Mill.

$25,000 Damage Suit Verdict Decided In Hagerstown Court

A Washington County Circuit Court jury deliberated in Hagerstown until midnight Tuesday and awarded a $25,000 verdict in favor of a LaVale widow.

Mrs. Virginia Law and her three minor children had sued on June 26 the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company for $60,000 in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Her husband, Timothy A. Law, 63, died after falling into a hole dug by the construction company while they were building a new bridge over Braddock Run near Cash Valley Road.

Arguments in the case that started Monday morning ended at 6 p. m. and the jury began its four-hour deliberation at 8 p. m.

The jury awarded Mrs. Law $10,000 as administratrix of the estate of her husband; $1,000 to Mrs. Law in the suit docketed through the State of Maryland to the use of the widow, and $4,500 to each of the three children Judith Ann, Carol Virginia and Randall Thomas Law.

Earl E. Manges and William H. Geppert had entered suit in Circuit Court here for $10,000 for the administratrix and $50,000 for Mrs. Law and the three children.

The suit charged that the Hazelwood Company had several deep ditches dug along Route 40 in LaVale during the construction of the Braddock Run bridge.

On October 25, 1949, Law was walking along the highway and fell into the ten-foot ditch.

The attorneys for the plaintiffs charged that injuries sustained in the fall resulted in Law's death three days later. They charged negligence in failing to properly cover the ditches and failing to mark them properly.

Manges and Geppert were assisted by Charles F. Waugaman, of Hagerstown. Representing the construction company were William C. Walsh, of this city, and Edward Cooey, of Hagerstown.

The case had been removed from Allegany county to Hagerstown.

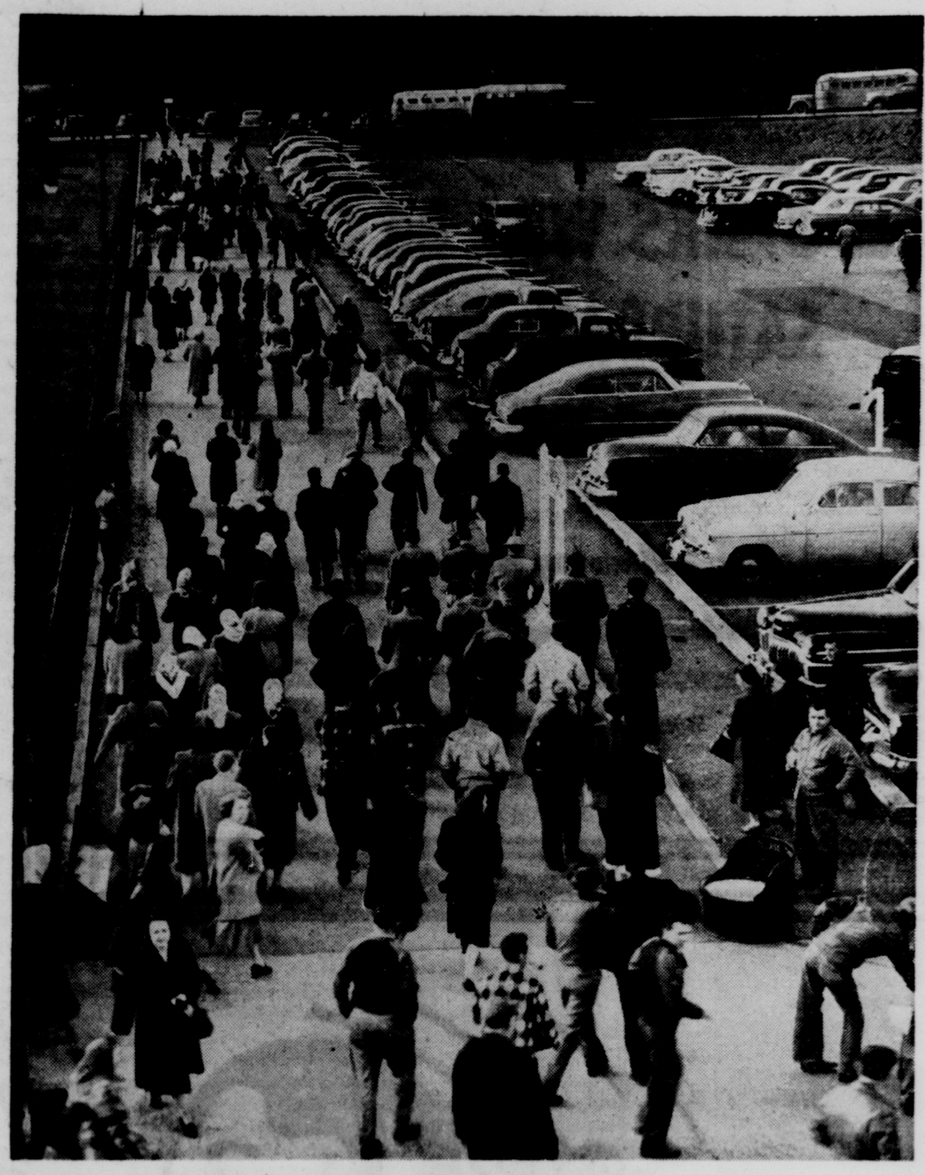
There's no such person as an "average" Amcelle employee



Today there are about 5300 people working at Celanese Corporation's big Amcelle plant.

Of this number some 4700 are in production departments. The rest are concerned with getting materials to the right places at the right time, keeping payroll and production records, seeking further progress through research and engineering, and handling other essential jobs such as quality control, safety, and employee benefit programs.

As producers, most Amcelle employees realize that a product must be made before it can be sold, and that the selling price is how much the customer is willing to pay for it. This means that if the "asking price" is too high, the product cannot be sold and production is soon stopped for lack of orders.

But there's no such person as an "average" Amcelle employee. We could, of course, get together figures about how many employees own their own homes, how many are married or single, the number of children per family, and a lot of other statistics, but the management thinks it's more important to remember that the people who work at Amcelle are individuals with individual ambitions, individual responsibilities and individual opportunities.

Every employee at Amcelle plays at least three roles. In the plant he is a producer, adding value to raw materials and helping bring money to the Tri-State area. When he walks out of the gate he becomes a consumer of other producers' goods. He's also an investor, for 95 out of 100 Amcelle employees have money in insurance, in homes and automobiles, in stocks or in bonds.

And every Amcelle employee is a member of the community in which he makes his home, with all the opportunities and responsibilities of citizenship.

The Amcelle organization is a group of individuals working together toward a common objective, for we Americans have proved that this is the way to multiply the effectiveness of individual effort. There's no such person as an "average" Amcelle employee.

Amcelle employees use buildings, machines and equipment bought and paid for by people who own "shares" in Celanese Corporation of America, but there's no such person as an "average" shareholder, either. It is interesting to note that the shareholder group numbers some 35,000 investors, twice as many as the total number of employees in all plants of the Company.

Most of these owners of the business have bought their shares with money saved from their earnings. Among them are storekeepers, mechanics, doctors, nurses, salesmen, factory workers, farmers and teachers. Some are men, some are women. In America anyone can become a shareholder of nearly any company if he's willing to forego the present use of his money for a future return.

An increasing number of Cumberland area people, including Amcelle employees, have been investing their savings in Celanese stock. Teamwork between people who save their money and invest it in production machines and people with the skill to use these machines has helped American employees earn more and have more than any other people in history.

Production Of Soft Coal Shows Increase In 1950

Maryland, Virginias Produced 32 Per Cent

Mines of West Virginia, Virginia and Maryland produced 162.2 million tons of soft coal in 1950.

This was 32 per cent of the nation's total output, and the largest proportion of the national total ever produced by these three states, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported in the February issue of its Monthly Review.

The report also forecast an increase in the use of coal and a rise in employment during 1951.

The bank's publication this month is devoted to a review of the leading industries of the Fifth Federal Reserve District, which includes these three states and North Carolina, South Carolina, and the District of Columbia.

Of the district's total output, the report stated, West Virginia produced 89.1 per cent, Virginia 10.6 per cent, and Maryland 0.3 per cent.

The total national production of bituminous coal was 506.3 million tons, a gain of 68.4 million tons, or 15.6 per cent, over 1950. The Fifth District's 162.2 million tons in 1950 compared favorably with its 1949 output of 138.1 million.

Estimated domestic consumption of soft coal in 1950, the report said, totaled 451.7 million tons, a gain of 1.3 per cent over 1949.

Indications are that consumption will rise during 1951, said the report. Electric power utilities increased their bituminous coal consumption in 1950 by 8.9 per cent over 1949, it pointed out, and "the continued growth in kilowatt hour output will mean a sharply rising trend in use of coal by utilities".

Coal exports, also, the report said, are in a rising trend.

"The competitive situation with other sources of energy is not such an important consideration at the present time for the bituminous coal industry," the report added, "as all sources will probably be called on for greater volume of production.

The shortage in metal supplies, particularly steel, may also have an adverse effect on the construction of new diesel locomotives and thereby further delay diversion of railroads' utilization of coal and make it necessary to continue in operation many of the steam locomotives which have been retired from service".

The report also forecast a rise in employment in the industry.

"Employment," it said, "is moderately below a year ago, but with a rising demand it would seem probable that both hours of work and some increase in employment will 15.6 per cent, over 1950. The Fifth be witnessed during the year."

Pulpwood Production Book Published By Luke Paper Mill

LUKE, Md. — Tested methods of growing and harvesting pulpwood profitably are among the pointers included in a new West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company manual being distributed this week among landowners, wood producers, farmers, agriculture teachers and students, and others in this area interested in good forest practices.

A 72-page volume prepared by veteran forest experts of the paper company, the booklet tells how pulpwood can best be grown and cut to grow again in areas that supply the Appalachian mills of the company. It is entitled "Growing and Harvesting Tree Crops."

Among the subjects it covers, are an explanation of the markets available for pulpwood, future prospects of the market, cutting and hauling methods that have been found successful by experienced operators, the business side of cutting and selling pulpwood and the main principles to observe in managing woodlands for a long-term profit. The booklet is illustrated with photographs taken in the field and is fully indexed for handy reference.

"We have taken pains to make this booklet modern, clear, and practical," said C. A. Beck, manager of the Wood Department of the Luke Mill, who is supervising the distribution of the booklet in this area. "For people in the pulpwood producing business, we believe it will reveal new ways to handle their wood more expertly and profitably. For the general reader, including young people in the schools, we believe the booklet will shed new light on the growing importance of pulpwood, as a regular business, in the economic life of this region."

Mr. Beck pointed out that pulpwood production provides work opportunities for farmers and farm help between crops and seasons, and opportunities for creating income from land now idle; helps keep the paper industry, one of the area's major industries, healthy and competitive, by providing a steady flow of raw materials; and contributes to the protection and improvement of the woods by removing the right trees at the right time, thus clearing the way for new growth.

A copy of the booklet may be obtained by writing to the Wood Department of the Luke, Md., Mill.

$25,000 Damage Suit Verdict Decided In Hagerstown Court

A Washington County Circuit Court jury deliberated in Hagerstown until midnight Tuesday and awarded a $25,000 verdict in favor of a LaVale widow.

Mrs. Virginia Law and her three minor children had sued on June 26 the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company for $60,000 in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Her husband, Timothy A. Law, 63, died after falling into a hole dug by the construction company while they were building a new bridge over Braddock Run near Cash Valley Road.

Arguments in the case that started Monday morning ended at 6 p. m. and the jury began its four-hour deliberation at 8 p. m.

The jury awarded Mrs. Law $10,000 as administratrix of the estate of her husband; $1,000 to Mrs. Law in the suit docketed through the State of Maryland to the use of the widow, and $4,500 to each of the three children Judith Ann, Carol Virginia and Randall Thomas Law.

Earl E. Manges and William H. Geppert had entered suit in Circuit Court here for $10,000 for the administratrix and $50,000 for Mrs. Law and the three children.

The suit charged that the Hazelwood Company had several deep ditches dug along Route 40 in LaVale during the construction of the Braddock Run bridge.

On October 25, 1949, Law was walking along the highway and fell into the ten-foot ditch.

The attorneys for the plaintiffs charged that injuries sustained in the fall resulted in Law's death three days later. They charged negligence in failing to properly cover the ditches and failing to mark them properly.

Manges and Geppert were assisted by Charles F. Waugaman, of Hagerstown. Representing the construction company were William C. Walsh, of this city, and Edward Cooey, of Hagerstown.

The case had been removed from Allegany county to Hagerstown.

Pure Water Was Hinge That Turned Door For Big Hydrogen Bomb Plant

.. By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE ..

AUGUSTA, Ga.—(AP)—Lester S. Moody, secretary of the Augusta Chamber of Commerce, has a favorite proverb—heavy doors turn on small hinges.

For 25 years he has been working on this basis bringing enterprises to Augusta. And now the smallest and oddest hinges ever, some tiny particles in the Savannah River, have turned the biggest "door" of all time.

The door is the $600,000,000 hydrogen bomb plant starting construction across the river in an area 20 miles away in South Carolina. Here in Augusta the United States Atomic Energy Commission has established H-bomb area headquarters.

The little hinge starts with the duPont Company 20 years ago, in Moody's promotion to interest them in the Savannah River. The chemical firm then was planning a rayon and cellophane plant, and at Moody's suggestion sent men here to investigate water and other conditions.

The rayon market went weak and the Augusta idea was dropped. Moody, however, called at Wilmington, Del., nearly every time he went to New York. He often talked to the duPonts there about water. He was active in the Savannah River power project, now building the first of 11 power dams upriver from Augusta. The Savannah's main point, besides power, is purity.

Just before World War II, the duPonts again sent men here, looking for cold water—not over 45 degrees. Deep wells around Augusta did not produce this and they returned to Wilmington by auto. While passing through Waynesboro, Va., they noticed a bubbling spring. They took the water's temperature—42. The accidental stop located the rayon plant at Waynesboro.

Moody kept talking to them about the pure Savannah water. At that time he knew nothing about atomic reactors. DuPont men made more analyses, the last a little more than a year ago.

The analysis is on record here, a dozen minerals in the Savannah and their percentages. Those chemical elements are the hinge. Which are important and exactly why is not on record, and the duPonts have said nothing, not even whether the last analysis was made with the idea of the H-bomb reactor which they are to engineer, construct and operate here.

But the major explanations are in the official records that tell why the Columbia River area in the State of Washington was chosen for the reactors there which make plutonium for A-bombs. Pure water is used in a honeycomb of small pipes to keep the atomic reactors from getting hot enough to melt.

A few impurities in the cooling water will absorb the most precious stuff in the world, which is worth far more than its weight in diamonds. This substance is neutrons, the particles which make plutonium by transmutation.

The same neutrons will make the heavy H-bomb hydrogen, tritium, and Savannah River water will do the cooling. There are unofficial reports in Washington that the Savannah is the purest in the nation, from the point of view of neutrons. The Red River in Texas was considered. The Savannah won over all others, in part possibly because of the duPonts' numerous studies.

How big is the hinge in this river? Just a few molecules less of impurities in each million molecules of water swung the door for the Augusta Chamber of Commerce.

Operation Halves Woman's Weight—From 600 To 300

BURNIPS, Mich.—(AP)—A 58-year-old Allegan County widow was recovering today at her farm home near here from an operation that reduced her weight by half—from 600 to 300 pounds.

Physicians said that Mrs. Gertrude Levandowski had been suffering for 10 years from an abdominal tumor which caused a secretion of liquid in her body tissue, thus creating the excess weight.

Although the illness is not considered rare, few persons have been able to survive its effects for so long a period, the physicians said.

Hopeful that she can eventually reduce to a mere 200 pounds, Mrs. Levandowski explained that until two weeks ago she had refused to permit the operation on the ground that she feared her heart would not be able to stand the shock.

"But I decided I couldn't go on much longer, and if I didn't make it, perhaps doctors would learn something that might help others in my condition," Mrs. Levandowski said.

Her weight had always been normal for her height of five feet eight inches, Mrs. Levandowski said, until about 10 years ago. Although she underwent treatment continuously, doctors had warned her that surgery was the only possible cure, she added.

Physicians, and attendants at Allegan Hospital where the operation was performed attested to the 600 pound weight.

The operation involved removal of the tumor and draining excess liquids from the tissue.

Mrs. Levandowski returned Saturday to her home where she lives with a 17-year-old son.

She said physicians have pronounced the operation a success, and hold out hope that diet may enable her to reach her 200 pound goal.

Operation Halves Woman's Weight—From 600 To 300

BURNIPS, Mich.—(AP)—A 58-year-old Allegan County widow was recovering today at her farm home near here from an operation that reduced her weight by half—from 600 to 300 pounds.

Physicians said that Mrs. Gertrude Levandowski had been suffering for 10 years from an abdominal tumor which caused a secretion of liquid in her body tissue, thus creating the excess weight.

Although the illness is not considered rare, few persons have been able to survive its effects for so long a period, the physicians said.

Hopeful that she can eventually reduce to a mere 200 pounds, Mrs. Levandowski explained that until two weeks ago she had refused to permit the operation on the ground that she feared her heart would not be able to stand the shock.

"But I decided I couldn't go on much longer, and if I didn't make it, perhaps doctors would learn something that might help others in my condition," Mrs. Levandowski said.

Her weight had always been normal for her height of five feet eight inches, Mrs. Levandowski said, until about 10 years ago. Although she underwent treatment continuously, doctors had warned her that surgery was the only possible cure, she added.

Physicians, and attendants at Allegan Hospital where the operation was performed attested to the 600 pound weight.

The operation involved removal of the tumor and draining excess liquids from the tissue.

Mrs. Levandowski returned Saturday to her home where she lives with a 17-year-old son.

She said physicians have pronounced the operation a success, and hold out hope that diet may enable her to reach her 200 pound goal.

Parrots and woodpeckers have four toes on each foot, two of which point forward, and two backward.

AHS Trips Hawks; Neale Fired As Eagles Coach

Losers' Rally Falls Short In 57-55 Thriller

Hartman High Man With 28 Points; 7th Win For Allegany

A last ditch rally by Ridgeley's Blackhawks just fell short and Coach Walter L. "Bill" Bowers' Allegany High Campers scored a thrilling 57-55 victory over the visitors last night at Campobello.

The battle was nip and tuck throughout with never more than four or five points separating the two teams until the final period began.

Allegany led 39-36 opening the fourth quarter but the Hawks knotted the count at 45-45 with five minutes to play.

Ronnie Sisk broke the deadlock with a pair of fouls and added a fielder moments later to hike Allegany's advantage to 49-45. John Eversole connected with a twin-pointer and Carl Hartman and Ronnie Lease traded goals to make it 53-47. Don Decker potted a foul before Eversole and Lease again scored from the floor to give the Campers their largest margin at 57-48 with less than two minutes remaining.

Hartman then connected with a fielder and converted a free throw when fouled. Abe then scored to make it 57-53 with 20 seconds to play. Hartman then stole the ball and dropped home a set shot to round out the scoring as the Campers froze the ball the final seconds of the contest.

Sisk was the only player ejected on personals, leaving with two minutes remaining in the fourth period.

Sisk, Lease, Eversole and Frank Phares tallied 49 points among them for the winners while Hartman was the big gun once again for Ridgeley with 10 goals and 8 of 10 fouls for 28 markers.

The AHS Reserves turned back Ridgeley 56-24 in the preliminary game with Billy Cook pacing the victors with 14 points. The lineups:

How would you like to win a game after playing two overtime periods then be informed you were the loser when the first extra period ended?

It happened in Martinsburg (W. Va.) last Friday.

Martinsburg High's Jayvees were playing Fort Hill High's junior varsity quint and the regulation game ended in a 35-35 deadlock.

After a three-minute overtime period was completed the home team led by a single point, 37-36.

But the officials decided a two-point margin was necessary and then launched a sudden-death overtime period in which Coach Ray (Waynesburg) Hull's team came out on top, 39-37.

A hasty perusal of the rule book in the dressing room revealed the illogic of the referees' decision and the score reverted to 37-36 in favor of Martinsburg.

Robert "Red" Howard, the Washingtonian who was punched silly by Lew Kozarek and "Skeets" Starkey and waltzed to a win over Joe Niland in bouts here, was belted out in 1:22 of the first round by Aubrey Greenhow in the Washington tourney.

An oddity of the tourney came on opening night when Greenhow fouled Howard with a low punch and the latter was hurt so badly it was decided to give him a week's rest and another chance. Then Greenhow iced "Red" in 1:22.

Will Finish 3-Year Pact With Team

To Hold Another Job, Club Says After Announcement

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7 (AP) — Earle (Greasy) Neale was dismissed today as head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles the Philadelphia Inquirer reported.

The Inquirer said the 59-year-old Neale confirmed he had been notified that he has been relieved of his coaching duties by James P. Clark, Eagles president in a telephone conversation with Neale at his Lakeland, Fla., home. Clark is one of a syndicate of Philadelphians who purchased the Eagles in 1949.

Neale led the Eagles to two National Football League championships, in 1948 and 1949.

The Inquirer quoted Neale as saying he had been advised he was relieved of his job as head coach and field director of the team, effective immediately. His contract with the club, Neale was quoted was adding, will be honored by the Eagles in another capacity.

Neale signed a three-year contract when the Clark group took over from Alexis Thompson. The contract runs through the 1951 season. Reportedly, it calls for $15,000 annually.

Neale said that he had every intention of serving out his contract in a capacity mutually agreeable to Clark and him, the Inquirer reported.

Clark was not available for comment immediately, but the Inquirer said "it was believed" Neale might be slated for a scouting job with the Eagles.

Louis Pounds Out Decision Over Agramonte

Ex-Champ Continues Comeback Attempt

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7 —(AP)— Joe Louis pounded out a unanimous ten-round decision over Omelio Agramonte of Cuba here tonight to clear another roadblock on the comeback trail toward another heavyweight championship fight.

The Brown bomber, favored to win in four rounds or less, failed to catch the dancing Cuban with a knockout blow, but Agramonte, bleeding from the mouth and left eye, was hanging on desperately as the bell ended the tenth round.

Agramonte's retreating tactics kept him out of trouble for seven rounds, but Joe opened a gash over the Cuban's eye in the eighth, pounded him hard in the ninth, and had him on the verge of a knockout all through the tenth.

Louis weighed 209 pounds, the lightest since he reigned as heavyweight king. Agramonte weighed 187.

Majors Call Meeting To Select Head

Confab Set Mar. 12 To Settle Squabble

NEW YORK, Feb—(INS) Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler said today that a "showdown meeting" with major league club owners will be held at Miami Beach, Fla., March 12.

The meeting, called by league presidents Ford Frick and Will Harridge, on behalf of the club owners, was set up for the "primary purpose of electing a new commissioner."

"This will be a showdown meeting to settle my status once and for all," the commissioner declared.

Chandler said Miami Beach was chosen as the site of the meeting because most of the clubs will be going through spring training program in that area.

It was at the St. Petersburg, Fla., winter baseball meetings last December that the club owners voted not to renew Chandler's $65,000-a-year contract after it expires in April, 1952.

Since then an anti-Chandler faction, led by owners Fred Saigh of the St. Louis Cardinals and Del Webb of the New York Yankees, has sought to get the commissioner out of office before that time.

A four-man committee of club owners was appointed to screen possible candidates for the office.

AHS Trips Hawks; Neale Fired As Eagles Coach

Hartman High Man With 28 Points; 7th Win For Allegany

A last ditch rally by Ridgeley's Blackhawks just fell short and Coach Walter L. "Bill" Bowers' Allegany High Campers scored a thrilling 57-55 victory over the visitors last night at Campobello.

The battle was nip and tuck throughout with never more than four or five points separating the two teams until the final period began.

Allegany led 39-36 opening the fourth quarter but the Hawks knotted the count at 45-45 with five minutes to play.

Ronnie Sisk broke the deadlock with a pair of fouls and added a fielder moments later to hike Allegany's advantage to 49-45. John Eversole connected with a twin-pointer and Carl Hartman and Ronnie Lease traded goals to make it 53-47. Don Decker potted a foul before Eversole and Lease again scored from the floor to give the Campers their largest margin at 57-48 with less than two minutes remaining.

Hartman then connected with a fielder and converted a free throw when fouled. Abe then scored to make it 57-53 with 20 seconds to play. Hartman then stole the ball and dropped home a set shot to round out the scoring as the Campers froze the ball the final seconds of the contest.

Sisk was the only player ejected on personals, leaving with two minutes remaining in the fourth period.

Sisk, Lease, Eversole and Frank Phares tallied 49 points among them for the winners while Hartman was the big gun once again for Ridgeley with 10 goals and 8 of 10 fouls for 28 markers.

The AHS Reserves turned back Ridgeley 56-24 in the preliminary game with Billy Cook pacing the victors with 14 points. The lineups:

How would you like to win a game after playing two overtime periods then be informed you were the loser when the first extra period ended?

It happened in Martinsburg (W. Va.) last Friday.

Martinsburg High's Jayvees were playing Fort Hill High's junior varsity quint and the regulation game ended in a 35-35 deadlock.

After a three-minute overtime period was completed the home team led by a single point, 37-36.

But the officials decided a two-point margin was necessary and then launched a sudden-death overtime period in which Coach Ray (Waynesburg) Hull's team came out on top, 39-37.

A hasty perusal of the rule book in the dressing room revealed the illogic of the referees' decision and the score reverted to 37-36 in favor of Martinsburg.

Presley W. "Red" Mauk who promoted amateur and professional boxing and wrestling shows here before tossing in the sponge last year is now employed by a Pittsburgh home insulation firm but manages to spend his week-ends here.

From Oct. 28, 1946 through May 22, 1950, Mauk staged 13 amateur shows, two pro fistic shows and two programs featuring the grapplers.

"Red" also managed Jim Folk, the Meyersdale, Pa., lightweight, who has been out of circulation since he was knocked out by Jesse Keeler in seven rounds last May.

Robert "Red" Howard, the Washingtonian who was punched silly by Lew Kozarek and "Skeets" Starkey and waltzed to a win over Joe Niland in bouts here, was belted out in 1:22 of the first round by Aubrey Greenhow in the Washington tourney.

An oddity of the tourney came on opening night when Greenhow fouled Howard with a low punch and the latter was hurt so badly it was decided to give him a week's rest and another chance. Then Greenhow iced "Red" in 1:22.

Where is Biertown?

This question has been asked quite often since a basketball team with that name has appeared in print.

The mystery was solved the other night when the manager of the Biertown team told us that the place is located near Rawlings and is a community with about 20 dwellings.

Will Finish 3-Year Pact With Team

To Hold Another Job, Club Says After Announcement

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7 (AP) — Earle (Greasy) Neale was dismissed today as head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles the Philadelphia Inquirer reported.

The Inquirer said the 59-year-old Neale confirmed he had been notified that he has been relieved of his coaching duties by James P. Clark, Eagles president in a telephone conversation with Neale at his Lakeland, Fla., home. Clark is one of a syndicate of Philadelphians who purchased the Eagles in 1949.

Neale led the Eagles to two National Football League championships, in 1948 and 1949.

The Inquirer quoted Neale as saying he had been advised he was relieved of his job as head coach and field director of the team, effective immediately. His contract with the club, Neale was quoted was adding, will be honored by the Eagles in another capacity.

Neale signed a three-year contract when the Clark group took over from Alexis Thompson. The contract runs through the 1951 season. Reportedly, it calls for $15,000 annually.

Neale said that he had every intention of serving out his contract in a capacity mutually agreeable to Clark and him, the Inquirer reported.

Clark was not available for comment immediately, but the Inquirer said "it was believed" Neale might be slated for a scouting job with the Eagles.

Louis Pounds Out Decision Over Agramonte

Ex-Champ Continues Comeback Attempt

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7 —(AP)— Joe Louis pounded out a unanimous ten-round decision over Omelio Agramonte of Cuba here tonight to clear another roadblock on the comeback trail toward another heavyweight championship fight.

The Brown bomber, favored to win in four rounds or less, failed to catch the dancing Cuban with a knockout blow, but Agramonte, bleeding from the mouth and left eye, was hanging on desperately as the bell ended the tenth round.

Agramonte's retreating tactics kept him out of trouble for seven rounds, but Joe opened a gash over the Cuban's eye in the eighth, pounded him hard in the ninth, and had him on the verge of a knockout all through the tenth.

Louis weighed 209 pounds, the lightest since he reigned as heavyweight king. Agramonte weighed 187.

Majors Call Meeting To Select Head

Confab Set Mar. 12 To Settle Squabble

NEW YORK, Feb—(INS) Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler said today that a "showdown meeting" with major league club owners will be held at Miami Beach, Fla., March 12.

The meeting, called by league presidents Ford Frick and Will Harridge, on behalf of the club owners, was set up for the "primary purpose of electing a new commissioner."

"This will be a showdown meeting to settle my status once and for all," the commissioner declared.

Chandler said Miami Beach was chosen as the site of the meeting because most of the clubs will be going through spring training program in that area.

It was at the St. Petersburg, Fla., winter baseball meetings last December that the club owners voted not to renew Chandler's $65,000-a-year contract after it expires in April, 1952.

Since then an anti-Chandler faction, led by owners Fred Saigh of the St. Louis Cardinals and Del Webb of the New York Yankees, has sought to get the commissioner out of office before that time.

A four-man committee of club owners was appointed to screen possible candidates for the office.

Moorefield And Keyser To Clash In Crucial Game Tonight

Top Contenders In PVC Race To Clash In Keyser Tonight

Both Boast Lengthy Win Streaks; Potomac State On Road Trip

It's Moorefield High School vs. Keyser High School tonight at Keyser in the game that might decide the championship of the Potomac Valley Conference for the 1950-51 season.

Moorefield, coached by Jonathan (Johnny) Paugh, leads the 17-team race with a record of 14 wins and no losses, including a 53-37 decision over KHS at Moorefield. The Hardy countains have an overall record of 16 wins and one loss and have racked up 14 consecutive victories since their lone defeat at the hands of Fort Hill in Moorefield on December 19.

Keyser Wins Nine In Row

Keyser's conference record is nine wins and one loss and John Shelton's boys have bagged 13 wins while losing a pair to Moorefield and the Alumni. The Mineral Countains boast a winning streak of nine games since they lost to MHS on January 5.

Moorefield will practically sew up the championship if it wins tonight's game as it should take its last two from Petersburg and Mathias. The Jackets play a schedule of 17 PVC games. If Keyser wins it will be a battle down to the wire as the Sheltonites will have five games left to to play—Davis, Ridgeley and Parsons, away, and Piedmont and Davis at home. Keyser's schedule lists 16 PVC tilts.

Fisher Has 276 Points

Tonight's contest brings together two of leading scorers in the circuit in George Fisher, Yellow Jackets' center, who is the leader with 276 points in 14 games, or 43 ahead of Carl Hartman of Ridgeley with 233 to his credit, while Neil Porter of KHS has amassed 165 tallies in 10 contests.

The game billed for the Keyser High gym will get under way at 8 o'clock and should attract one of the season's largest crowds.

Potomac State embarks on a three-day jaunt within the State of West Virginia by playing Salem College tonight, Fairmont State's Falcons on Friday and West Virginia Wesleyan's Bobcats on Saturday night at Buckhannon. These are all conference games.

Coach Dana Lough's Catamounts are playing .500 ball in the conference, having won five games and lost five. The Keyserites hold an 80-63 decision over Salem but are playing Wesleyan and Fairmont only once this season. To date Potomac has engaged in 18 games, winning 10 and losing eight.

In another game billed for tonight, the Wardensville High Warriors play at Strasburg, Va.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By WALTER L. JOHNS

SUGAR RAY ROBINSON, probably the best fighting man in the ring today, any weight considered, finally gets his chance at that middleweight crown on Valentine's Day in Chicago when he meets the Bull, Jacob LaMotta, the only guy to hold a decision over Sugar in his long fighting career.

Few fistic observers will be betting on LaMotta, you can be sure, for Sugar Ray is the best and he's already beaten the Bronx Bull four out of five times.

Ray, outgrowing the welter division, has been seeking a shot at the middleweight crown for years, but only now has he been given the chance.

Actually, the Sugar one already holds one middleweight crown, that being the Pennsylvania version, won last year in a fight with Robert Villemain.

And, it could be possible for Sugar to win the crown from LaMotta BEFORE he enters the ring in Chicago the night of Feb. 14.

Here's the setup, according to word from the Chicago boxing front. LaMotta must make the 160-pound limit by noon the day of the fight. If he doesn't make it, he forfeits the crown although the bout will go on.

LaMotta has been give an "extra" chance by the Illinois commission, that being permission to weigh in at 10 a. m. the day of the fight. If he doesn't make it then, he will be given the second chance at noon.

• • • •

ROBINSON'S career is the more spectacular of the two fighters. He was undefeated as an amateur in New York and won both the feather and lightweight titles before he turned pro at the age of 20 in 1940.

He has fought more than 100 bouts and suffered only that one loss, a 10-round decision LaMotta won over him in Detroit on February 3, 1943.

Sugar has been active in the ring, fighting six times in the U. S. last year and then making a European tour where he won five straight bouts.

• • • •

LaMOTTA came by his middleweight crown by accident, you might say. He was rated ninth among the contenders for the title held by Marcel Cerdan of France when he was given a shot at it.

The bout was fought in Detroit June 16, 1949, and Jake won it by a 10-round K. O. after Cerdan injured his shoulder early and fought most of the bout with one arm.

Cerdan was given a return shot at the Bull but on his way to New York for the fight, in October, 1949, he was killed in an airplane crash in the Azores.

LaMotta's record is a spotty one. He started fighting as a pro in 1941 and has been beaten by such ringmen as Jimmy Reeves, Nate Bolden, Jose Basora, Fritzie Zivic, Lloyd Marshall, Cecil Hudson, Robert Villemain and Laurent Dauthuille. He was kayoed by Billy Fox in four rounds.

The Bull's story is an unusual one. He began as a shoe shine boy on New York's lower east side, became a neighborhood hero because of his street fighting ability and then entered the amateurs where he knocked out 21 straight opponents.

Adding the unusual twist to his story is the matter of weight. He originally was a 185-pound heavyweight and trained down to light heavyweight and finally the middleweight class.

Jolisam Cops Nursery Stake At Hialeah

Daily Double Pays 82 Backers $771.20

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7 (AP) — In a mad scramble through the nursery course A. B. Christopher's Jolisam was returned the winner of the fourth running of the $7,500 Florida Breeders Stakes at Hialeah Park, today.

Running straight along the inner rail, the son of Sammie led home 16 other juveniles foaled in the Sunshine State and earned a purse of $7,875. Ridden by Jimmy Stout, he finished three lengths in front of Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's Brother March, which in turn was a length clear of J. J. Starling's Jones Brook, the even money favorite.

The race was roughly ran due to the unweildiness of the field, and the one that appeared to impede the chances of several horses was G. E. Woollward's Mama Na Wawae, which ducked in and out leaving the gate.

Jolisam, unplaced in his two previous races at the meeting, paid $11.30, $6.20 end $3.50. Brother March returned $14.70 and $6.50, Jones Brook, coupled with Game Lady, was $2.50 show.

This was the second year in a row that A. B. Christopher, of Miami, won the stake, having taken it last year with Mr. A. B. It was won by Mrs. J. G. Smith's Werwold in 1949 and by Mrs. T. Christopher's Rablim in 1948. The time today was 35 3-5, not bad considering the slow condition of the track.

The weather was clear and sunny, and a crowd of 16,489 watched the program.

General Staff, owned by Larry S. MacPhail, former executive of the New York Yankees, sharply boosted his status for the impending $50,000 Flamingo Stakes as he toyed with five other three-year-olds in the fourth race at Hialeah Park today. It was his second straight win over the track, and those who backed the big, good-looking son of Mahmoud got back only $2.70 for $2, shortest priced winner of the meeting.

Under topweight at 122, and ridden by Ira Hanford, General Staff led all the way in this seven-furlong race, covered in 1.28 4-5 in the slow footing. Rare Knave and Sun Tan Gal finished in a deadheat for the place, beaten 2½ lengths by MacPhail's ace. Fourth was Grass Fire.

MacPhail scratched General Staff from the Bahamas Handicap last Saturday because he had been assigned 122 pounds by racing Secretary Charles J. McLennan. However, the colt had no trouble handling that impost today.

The daily double paid $771.20, largest of the meeting. It was form ed by Main Chance Farm's Graphic, $7.60, which won the opener for maiden three-year-olds, by a dozen lengths, and Al-Ja Stable's Jack Heather, which annexed the second, paying $192.80, $62.40 and $25.80. There were 82 tickets sold on this luscious combination.

Moorefield And Keyser To Clash In Crucial Game Tonight

Top Contenders In PVC Race To Clash In Keyser Tonight

Both Boast Lengthy Win Streaks; Potomac State On Road Trip

It's Moorefield High School vs. Keyser High School tonight at Keyser in the game that might decide the championship of the Potomac Valley Conference for the 1950-51 season.

Moorefield, coached by Jonathan (Johnny) Paugh, leads the 17-team race with a record of 14 wins and no losses, including a 53-37 decision over KHS at Moorefield. The Hardy countains have an overall record of 16 wins and one loss and have racked up 14 consecutive victories since their lone defeat at the hands of Fort Hill in Moorefield on December 19.

Keyser Wins Nine In Row

Keyser's conference record is nine wins and one loss and John Shelton's boys have bagged 13 wins while losing a pair to Moorefield and the Alumni. The Mineral Countains boast a winning streak of nine games since they lost to MHS on January 5.

Moorefield will practically sew up the championship if it wins tonight's game as it should take its last two from Petersburg and Mathias. The Jackets play a schedule of 17 PVC games. If Keyser wins it will be a battle down to the wire as the Sheltonites will have five games left to to play—Davis, Ridgeley and Parsons, away, and Piedmont and Davis at home. Keyser's schedule lists 16 PVC tilts.

Fisher Has 276 Points

Tonight's contest brings together two of leading scorers in the circuit in George Fisher, Yellow Jackets' center, who is the leader with 276 points in 14 games, or 43 ahead of Carl Hartman of Ridgeley with 233 to his credit, while Neil Porter of KHS has amassed 165 tallies in 10 contests.

The game billed for the Keyser High gym will get under way at 8 o'clock and should attract one of the season's largest crowds.

Potomac State embarks on a three-day jaunt within the State of West Virginia by playing Salem College tonight, Fairmont State's Falcons on Friday and West Virginia Wesleyan's Bobcats on Saturday night at Buckhannon. These are all conference games.

Coach Dana Lough's Catamounts are playing .500 ball in the conference, having won five games and lost five. The Keyserites hold an 80-63 decision over Salem but are playing Wesleyan and Fairmont only once this season. To date Potomac has engaged in 18 games, winning 10 and losing eight.

In another game billed for tonight, the Wardensville High Warriors play at Strasburg, Va.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By WALTER L. JOHNS

SUGAR RAY ROBINSON, probably the best fighting man in the ring today, any weight considered, finally gets his chance at that middleweight crown on Valentine's Day in Chicago when he meets the Bull, Jacob LaMotta, the only guy to hold a decision over Sugar in his long fighting career.

Few fistic observers will be betting on LaMotta, you can be sure, for Sugar Ray is the best and he's already beaten the Bronx Bull four out of five times.

Ray, outgrowing the welter division, has been seeking a shot at the middleweight crown for years, but only now has he been given the chance.

Actually, the Sugar one already holds one middleweight crown, that being the Pennsylvania version, won last year in a fight with Robert Villemain.

And, it could be possible for Sugar to win the crown from LaMotta BEFORE he enters the ring in Chicago the night of Feb. 14.

Here's the setup, according to word from the Chicago boxing front. LaMotta must make the 160-pound limit by noon the day of the fight. If he doesn't make it, he forfeits the crown although the bout will go on.

LaMotta has been give an "extra" chance by the Illinois commission, that being permission to weigh in at 10 a. m. the day of the fight. If he doesn't make it then, he will be given the second chance at noon.

• • • •

ROBINSON'S career is the more spectacular of the two fighters. He was undefeated as an amateur in New York and won both the feather and lightweight titles before he turned pro at the age of 20 in 1940.

He has fought more than 100 bouts and suffered only that one loss, a 10-round decision LaMotta won over him in Detroit on February 3, 1943.

Sugar has been active in the ring, fighting six times in the U. S. last year and then making a European tour where he won five straight bouts.

• • • •

LaMOTTA came by his middleweight crown by accident, you might say. He was rated ninth among the contenders for the title held by Marcel Cerdan of France when he was given a shot at it.

The bout was fought in Detroit June 16, 1949, and Jake won it by a 10-round K. O. after Cerdan injured his shoulder early and fought most of the bout with one arm.

Cerdan was given a return shot at the Bull but on his way to New York for the fight, in October, 1949, he was killed in an airplane crash in the Azores.

LaMotta's record is a spotty one. He started fighting as a pro in 1941 and has been beaten by such ringmen as Jimmy Reeves, Nate Bolden, Jose Basora, Fritzie Zivic, Lloyd Marshall, Cecil Hudson, Robert Villemain and Laurent Dauthuille. He was kayoed by Billy Fox in four rounds.

The Bull's story is an unusual one. He began as a shoe shine boy on New York's lower east side, became a neighborhood hero because of his street fighting ability and then entered the amateurs where he knocked out 21 straight opponents.

Adding the unusual twist to his story is the matter of weight. He originally was a 185-pound heavyweight and trained down to light heavyweight and finally the middleweight class.

Jolisam Cops Nursery Stake At Hialeah

Daily Double Pays 82 Backers $771.20

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7 (AP) — In a mad scramble through the nursery course A. B. Christopher's Jolisam was returned the winner of the fourth running of the $7,500 Florida Breeders Stakes at Hialeah Park, today.

Running straight along the inner rail, the son of Sammie led home 16 other juveniles foaled in the Sunshine State and earned a purse of $7,875. Ridden by Jimmy Stout, he finished three lengths in front of Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's Brother March, which in turn was a length clear of J. J. Starling's Jones Brook, the even money favorite.

The race was roughly ran due to the unweildiness of the field, and the one that appeared to impede the chances of several horses was G. E. Woollward's Mama Na Wawae, which ducked in and out leaving the gate.

Jolisam, unplaced in his two previous races at the meeting, paid $11.30, $6.20 end $3.50. Brother March returned $14.70 and $6.50. Jones Brook, coupled with Game Lady, was $2.50 show.

This was the second year in a row that A. B. Christopher, of Miami, won the stake, having taken it last year with Mr. A. B. It was won by Mrs. J. G. Smith's Werwold in 1949 and by Mrs. T. Christopher's Rablim in 1948. The time today was 35 3-5, not bad considering the slow condition of the track.

The weather was clear and sunny, and a crowd of 16,489 watched the program.

General Staff, owned by Larry S. MacPhail, former executive of the New York Yankees, sharply boosted his status for the impending $50,000 Flamingo Stakes as he toyed with five other three-year-olds in the fourth race at Hialeah Park today. It was his second straight win over the track, and those who backed the big, good-looking son of Mahmoud got back only $2.70 for $2, shortest priced winner of the meeting.

Under topweight at 122, and ridden by Ira Hanford, General Staff led all the way in this seven-furlong race, covered in 1.28 4-5 in the slow footing. Rare Knave and Sun Tan Gal finished in a deadheat for the place, beaten 2½ lengths by MacPhail's ace. Fourth was Grass Fire.

MacPhail scratched General Staff from the Bahamas Handicap last Saturday because he had been assigned 122 pounds by racing Secretary Charles J. McLennan. However, the colt had no trouble handling that impost today.

The daily double paid $771.20, largest of the meeting. It was formed by Main Chance Farm's Graphic, $7.60, which won the opener for maiden three-year-olds, by a dozen lengths, and Al-Ja Stable's Jack Heather, which annexed the second, paying $192.80, $62.40 and $25.80. There were 82 tickets sold on this luscious combination.

Frostburg Will Up Water Rates Effective June 1

Three Bond Issues Also Planned

FROSTBURG—The Mayor and City Commissioners have decided to raise the water rates to local consumers for additional funds to meet the growing expenses of the city government.

City Attorney Edward J. Ryan was instructed Monday evening to prepare an ordinance providing for an increase in rates to become effective with the quarter beginning June 1. Council approved an advance in minimum meter rates from 40 cents to 50 cents per thousand gallons, and the minimum flat rate will be advances from $3 to $4.50 per quarter. There will be an additional 25 percent advance for home facilities and a minimum meter charge from $3 to $4.50 per quarter.

The city attorney was also instructed to prepare bills to be sent to the Maryland General Assembly as soon as possible.

The bills will provide for three bond issues, $50,000 and $25,000 for street improvement and $25,000 for sewer improvement.

The city's total bonded indebtedness at present totals $381,000. If the present new issues are authorized, the total bonded indebtedness will be $481,000.

The city total assessable basis is $6,708,246, according to record's in the office of the city clerk.

Coketon Man Faces Charge In Shooting

Hill Being Held In Tucker Jail

PARSONS, W. Va.—Havin Hill, 44, Coketon, is being held in the Tucker county jail in Parsons on default of a $1,000 bond on a charge of attempted murder of William Cussins, 60, Bunker Hill, in Thomas.

Hill is charged with going to the home of Henry Green in Coketon Sunday with a .38 calibre pistol and there firing three times at Cussins, wounding him only once in the left hand. Following the shooting he returned to his home where he was arrested by Sheriff D. E. Crosten, Trooper G. H. Phillips and Constables Thomas Coleman and Luke Close. Sheriff Crosten said that Hill had been drinking at the time of the shooting and it was a result of a feud that had existed between the two men for some time. Hill was given a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace, O. B. Collins in Thomas Monday afternoon and is being held for the action of the grand jury.

Hoye White, about 45, Bunker Hill, posted a $500 bond for his appearance before the grand jury on a charge of brandishing a dangerous weapon with criminal intent. White is charged with threatening Jonas Nazelrod, about 65, also of Bunker Hill, with an ax. White is charged with chasing Nazelrod from the White home and knocking him down and threatening him but Nazelrod escaped unhurt. White was arrested by Sheriff Crosten and Trooper Phillips and was also given a preliminary hearing before Justice Collins Monday.

The officers also apprehended three juvenilles from Pierce Monday and the boys confessed to the theft of $85 from the Pierce Grade school. Part of the money was returned. The boys are being taken by the officers to Keyser today where they will be given a hearing before Judge Ernest A. See.

Firemen Are Called To Mt. Savage

MT. SAVAGE—The Mt. Savage and Frostburg Volunteer Fire Companies were summoned early last night to the home of Irvin Geiger, near Mt. Savage.

No damage was reported from the flue fire.

Mrs. Geiger, unable to get on the party line, asked a neighbor to turn in an alarm after sparks flying from the chimney were being fanned by a high wind.

Apple Growers Receive Awards For 1950 Crops

West Virginia Producers Feted

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 7 (AP)—Six apple growers from West Virginia's Eastern Panhandle received special awards tonight at the annual convention of the State Horticulture Society for the excellence of their 1950 crops.

Silver goblets were presented to Edward Miller of the Romney Orchards; Henry Miller, Consolidated Orchard, Inc., Paw Paw; Mrs. Morris Cather, for the Bett-Morr Orchard at Charles Town; E. C. McFadden of Martinsburg, Fred Matson of Martinsburg for the Sunrise Orchards at Romney, and Tom Byrd, operator of the orchards near Charles Town owned by his brother, the Virginia senator.

Along with the cups went a year's membership in the Appalachian Quality Apple Club.

The awards were presented by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and are based on quality points assigned by federal and state inspectors. Each entrant was judged on a carload lot of apples—500 bushels in baskets or boxes.

The apple growers received their prizes at a dinner session of the Horticulture Society's 58th convention, attended by about 40 orchardists from the apple belt which covers the Panhandle and nearby sections of Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Dr. Arthur H. Thompson, horticulturist at the West Virginia Fruit Experiment Farm near here, enlivened the opening session this morning with his report on a new spray with a name a yard long.

It is 2, 4, 5-trichlorophcnoxypropionic acid.

It is the first substance found anywhere, he said, that gives really satisfactory results as a spray to keep apples from dropping off the trees before they can be harvested. It can be used within one to three weeks before the apples mature.

Dr. Thompson said that unfortunately it is not being made in large enough quantities to be generally available for the 1951 crop.

Keyser Council Studies Dispute

KEYSER, W. Va.—Keyser City Council has instructed City Attorney James H. Swadley, Jr. to suspend further action on the injunction suit against Horace Lewis to compel him to remove or permit the removal of a fence that is said to be obstructing Lincoln Street.

The suit was brought at the insistance of Frank Snider, of Keyser, and based on a surveyor's report that Lewis, as the owner of two lots on Lincoln Street, had fenced and enclosed a portion of Lincoln Street thus obstructing access to Snider's lot lying to the west of the Lewis property.

The city attorney advised council at that time that he had determined that the surveyor's report was in error as to the location of the fence and that the fence is located 30 feet from the Lewis property.

Lewis appeared before the mayor and council Tuesday and advised them that he has never refused to provide Snider access to his real estate. He believes council should not attempt to put a street through his property to accommodate Snider inasmuch as the city has never maintained a street at that point.

The mayor and members of council decided to view the area and take the matter under advisement.

Garbage Fees Are Increased In Piedmont

Vandalism Reported At Filtration Plant

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—The rate for the collection of garbage for three months will be increased, effective April 1.

The change was ordered at the regular meeting of Mayor Harold Fredlock and the City Council recently making the price for the family card $1 for three months instead of 75 cents, the present rate. For business places, rates will be raised from $1.50 to $2.

Mayor Fredlock read a report submitted by Joseph Eger, operator of the filtration plant, for damage suffered by boys shooting air rifles around the filtration plant. Damage included 39 window panes, 5-100 watt globes and one light guard.

The council instructed James Harrison, chief of police, to round up as many of the boys as possible and notify their parents as to the cost of replacing the items damaged.

Miss Mazie Kitzmiller and Mrs. Carroll Patterson appeared relative to disorderly conduct and violations of the beer laws allegedly occuring at the place of business operated by Alvin Barnard and known as Park Place on Ashfield Street.

Miss Kitzmiller stated she had written the Commissioners in Charleston, W. Va. about it but had not received an answer and requested the city officials to take some action.

Mayor Fredlock advised that action will be taken and that a letter would be forwarded to the Beer Commissioner at once.

MT. SAVAGE—The Mt. Savage and Frostburg Volunteer Fire Companies were summoned early last night to the home of Irvin Geiger, near Mt. Savage.

No damage was reported from the flue fire.

Mrs. Geiger, unable to get on the party line, asked a neighbor to turn in an alarm after sparks flying from the chimney were being fanned by a high wind.

Apple Growers Receive Awards For 1950 Crops

West Virginia Producers Feted

Silver goblets were presented to Edward Miller of the Romney Orchards; Henry Miller, Consolidated Orchard, Inc., Paw Paw; Mrs. Morris Cather, for the Bett-Morr Orchard at Charles Town; E. C. McFadden of Martinsburg, Fred Matson of Martinsburg for the Sunrise Orchards at Romney, and Tom Byrd, operator of the orchards near Charles Town owned by his brother, the Virginia senator.

Along with the cups went a year's membership in the Appalachian Quality Apple Club.

The awards were presented by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and are based on quality points assigned by federal and state inspectors. Each entrant was judged on a carload lot of apples—500 bushels in baskets or boxes.

The apple growers received their prizes at a dinner session of the Horticulture Society's 58th convention, attended by about 40 orchardists from the apple belt which covers the Panhandle and nearby sections of Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Dr. Arthur H. Thompson, horticulturist at the West Virginia Fruit Experiment Farm near here, enlivened the opening session this morning with his report on a new spray with a name a yard long.

It is 2, 4, 5-trichlorophcnoxypropionic acid.

It is the first substance found anywhere, he said, that gives really satisfactory results as a spray to keep apples from dropping off the trees before they can be harvested. It can be used within one to three weeks before the apples mature.

Dr. Thompson said that unfortunately it is not being made in large enough quantities to be generally available for the 1951 crop.

Keyser Council Studies Dispute

KEYSER, W. Va.—Keyser City Council has instructed City Attorney James H. Swadley, Jr. to suspend further action on the injunction suit against Horace Lewis to compel him to remove or permit the removal of a fence that is said to be obstructing Lincoln Street.

The suit was brought at the insistance of Frank Snider, of Keyser, and based on a surveyor's report that Lewis, as the owner of two lots on Lincoln Street, had fenced and enclosed a portion of Lincoln Street thus obstructing access to Snider's lot lying to the west of the Lewis property.

The city attorney advised council at that time that he had determined that the surveyor's report was in error as to the location of the fence and that the fence is located 30 feet from the Lewis property.

Lewis appeared before the mayor and council Tuesday and advised them that he has never refused to provide Snider access to his real estate. He believes council should not attempt to put a street through his property to accommodate Snider inasmuch as the city has never maintained a street at that point.

The mayor and members of council decided to view the area and take the matter under advisement.

Garbage Fees Are Increased In Piedmont

Vandalism Reported At Filtration Plant

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—The rate for the collection of garbage for three months will be increased, effective April 1.

The change was ordered at the regular meeting of Mayor Harold Fredlock and the City Council recently making the price for the family card $1 for three months instead of 75 cents, the present rate. For business places, rates will be raised from $1.50 to $2.

Mayor Fredlock read a report submitted by Joseph Eger, operator of the filtration plant, for damage suffered by boys shooting air rifles around the filtration plant. Damage included 39 window panes, 5-100 watt globes and one light guard.

The council instructed James Harrison, chief of police, to round up as many of the boys as possible and notify their parents as to the cost of replacing the items damaged.

Miss Mazie Kitzmiller and Mrs. Carroll Patterson appeared relative to disorderly conduct and violations of the beer laws allegedly occuring at the place of business operated by Alvin Barnard and known as Park Place on Ashfield Street.

Miss Kitzmiller stated she had written the Commissioners in Charleston, W. Va. about it but had not received an answer and requested the city officials to take some action.

Mayor Fredlock advised that action will be taken and that a letter would be forwarded to the Beer Commissioner at once.

Keyser Girl Is Feted On Birthday

KEYSER, W. Va.—Mary Marjorie Chapman recently entertained at a party marking her seventh birthday recently. Refreshments were served. The table was decorated in keeping with the Valentine season. Each child received a valentine as a favor.

Guests were Rose Ann Temple, Susie McDowell, Joann Showalter, Renee Johnston, Judy Custer, Jackie Johnston, Ralph Michael Bailey, Charles Briley and Mrs. Peter Johnston.

Christian Movie Planned At Church

WESTERNPORT — "For Good or Evil," a dramatic and true-to-life motion picture on the Christian use of money will bes hown at Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church Sunday at 7 p. m. Rev. Robert E. Cassell, pastor, states.

This is the first religious film made with dialogue sound completely on location. Rather than in a Hollywood studio, it was produced in an eastern rural town to give the story every possible bit of authentic flavor.

Nurse Addresses Moorefield Club

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — Miss Ruth Kessel, chairman of Public Welfare in the Moorefield Women's Club and public health nurse in Hardy county, told of the work done in this county in combatting disease as she presented the club's program this week.

Among other facts she reported that since she started to work in Hardy county in September, 1946, the Moorefield Lions Club has purchased glasses for 75 children.

Mrs. Francis Baker, president, called for reports on the Friendship Project and appointed Miss Ella Bergdoll captain in the place of Mrs. H. M. Maxwell, who is unable to attend meetings the rest of this year. The scrap book on American homes had been completed by Mrs. S. L. Dodd and her committee and sent to the state chairman.

Mrs. M. A. Bean, Miss Kessel and Mrs. E. G. Hamrick were appointed a committee to plan for the Moorefield club's participation in the new national contest, building freedom with youth.

Mrs. W. J. Teets and Mrs. Donald Baker were asked to meet with the president to plan a money making project.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. J. B. Dryfield were Mrs. C. R. Powers and Mrs. E. G. Hamrick.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 7—(INS)—At last the movies have snagged Frank Fay. Twentieth has signed the original star of "Harvey" to play Bill Lundigan's superior officer in "A WAC In His Life." I want to say right here that if Frank gets over on the screen one half the warmth and comedy he gets over on the stage, we've got another star on the rise in Hollywood.

There was a time when Frank was a little snarly about pictures. He made cracks about them in his night club and vaudeville routines which use to hurt Barbara Stanwyck, his wife at the time.

And there'ss more news about this film: Marilyn Monroe, who has been almost in retirement since the death of her agent and friend, Johnny Hyde, joins Jeanne Crain in the glamour lineup for the Jules Buck production.

Paulette Goddard and Burgess Meredith haven't yet signed that final property settlement—but if you think there's any hard feeling on either side, listen to this:

Paulette Goddard

Burgess may direct Paulette on the stage in "Let Me Hear The Melody" with Franchot Tone as her co-star! I'm not joking—that's the setup S. N. Behrman proposed to Paulette when he sent her his new play to read. With this setup of names an situations, I'd say Behrman is as good a publicity man as he is a playwright. And, Paulette, who also has an eye out for publicity values is a gal who would relish the attention sure to be caused by her emoting under the direction of her ex-husband.

I am greatly interested to hear that John Hodiak, whose speaking voice is one of the best on the screen, is making records of Shakespeare and other classics for children.

John is simplifying the texts so that the youngsters can understand, and I can say from my own experience that when I was a child I read Charles and Mary Lamb's "Tales of Shakespeare" so that by the time I was old enough to read Shakespeare I was already familiar with his plays.

I am heartily in favor of letting our children know the classics and to tell them to them in a way to stimulate their interest.

Chatter in Hollywood: Scotty Beckett, who yesterday was a child actor, is today old enough to be classified 1A. So it looks as if it's the Army for Scotty, who is under contract at Columbia.

Not only is Scotty's screen career to be postponed, but his marriage to Sunny Vickers, Columbia actress, will not take place until Scotty is out of the service.

While playing golf at the Riviera links John Agar was hit on the leg with a golf ball and was given first aid.

'Tis rumored that Errol Flynn plans to reopen his fight against Lili Damita and ask again that her allmony be reduced.

Something new in woo—Jackie Coogan and Lisa Ferraday at the Tallyho.

Stanley Donen flies to Palm Springs about three times a week to see Elizabeth Taylor, who is at the Palm Springs Biltmore Hotel.

Red Skelton, who hasn't hoofed since his old vaudeville days, does a tap routine with Ann Miller in "Texas Carnival" that's good enough to lift Fred Astaire's eyebrows.

Gloria Pinza, infant daughter of Doris and Ezio Pinza, who was born with two teeth, is being christened Sunday at All Saints Church. Her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leake, are the godparents.

The most surprising twosome of the week, Linda Darnell and Eddie Norris at a Valley restaurant.

Rita Quigley (Mrs. Arthur Goehner) has lost her sixth expected child. It was a little girl born prematurely, as were the other babies. Sympathy goes to her—she so wanted that baby and planned to name it after her sister, Juanita, who has entered a convent as a novice to become a nun.

Lou Nova in the King's with a beauty from Canada named Beverly White, telling everyone, "This is it!"

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Area Students May Vie For Scholarships

High school seniors of the Cumberland area are eligible to compete for scholarships of $400 to $2,500 which will be awarded to girls entering Wilson College next September, President Paul Swain Havens announced today.

Five Sarah Wilson scholarships of $2,500 each for the four college years will be assigned to the applicants with the highest standing in entrance examinations. A Wilson music scholarship with a maximum four-year value of $1,600 will go to a girl of marked musical talent and superior academic record.

To aid the daughters of educators and ministers eight special scholarships have been established. Yearly grants from this fund will range up to $500 each.

A number of general scholarships will be given. They will carry an annual stipend of $100 and $300 and a four-year value of $400 and $1,200 depending on the need of the student.

Financial need, character, general promise, and scholastic merit will be the chief factors in choosing recipients of the awards. Information and application forms may be obtained from the Director of Admissions, Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa.

Price Freeze Rules Available

Regulations covering the government's price freeze are available at the Chamber of Commerce and soon will be sent to banks for distribution to businessmen.

The Office of Price Stabilization in Baltimore yesterday urged the cooperation of the press in presenting the price program to the public.

Lou Zekial, information officer for the Baltimore OPS office, urged that any requests for information be channeled to his office. The address is: Lou Zekial, Information Officer, Office Of Price Stabilization, 103 South Gay Street, Room 210, Baltimore, 2, Md. His phone number is Plaza 8460, Extension 465.

Meanwhile, the Mayor and Council has pledged cooperation in setting up a volunteer committee to assist in stabilizing prices in Cumberland.

The proposal met the full approval of the council last night after Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz asserted: "We want no black market here."

Mayor Thomas S. Post said Tuesday that the city would be glad to cooperate in the program. Earlier, Michael V. DiSalle, price director, said he would ask mayors of cities of 10,000 population or more to set up these volunteer committees to encourage "general public knowledge and observance of regulations adopted in the interest of sound national economy."

Liquor Appeal Case Has Been Postponed

The appeal case of Edward J. Belfoure and the Hi-Dee Club, 36 North Mechanic Street, from a conviction on a sale of intoxicants to minors charge in Police Court, scheduled yesterday morning in Circuit Court, has been postponed.

Associate Judge George Henderson said the trial was delayed after Edward J. Ryan, Belfoure's counsel, was called to try a case in the Court of Appeals in Annapolis.

Belfoure was fined $150 in Police Court on the charge.

Typewriter Purchased By Parent-Teachers

Violin numbers played by Wilton H. Syckes, accompanied by Mrs. Samuel T. Weatherholt, were "Schon," Kreisler; "Romance," Wieniawski; "Csardas," Monti; and "Perpetuo Mobile," Bohm.

Mrs. A. J. Mirkin was commentator during the showing of a movie, "Preface to a Life," and was chairman for a discussion period which followed.

Mrs. George Stein and Mrs. Richard Cook were in charge of home room mothers serving refreshments. Assisting were Mesdames Lydia Burke, Bertrum Lazarus, Cantrill Campbell, Arnold Ballard, William Brown, Henry Christman, Charles Long, and Harold Kirk.

IN A MEDITATIVE POSE, James Hatwig, 6, is back at his lessons after he ran away from his Chicago home in rebellion against school and an early-to-bed routine. Jimmy packed a bundle of clothes, took 94 cents from his piggy bank and headed for "Missouri." He was going the wrong way when he confided in a policewoman. She returned the young adventurer to his worried parents. (International)

Tickets For Fort Hill Play Available Saturday Feb. 10

Misses Doris Brown, Lois Davis, and Elva Jean Taylor will be in charge of the booth at Dailey's.

Tickets may also be obtained from Fort Hill High School students.

The cast for the light opera, sponsored by the Choir and Glee Clubs consists of: the Right Honorable Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., first Lord of the Admiralty, played by Bruce Ambrose; Captain Corcoran, Commander of H. M. S. Pinafore, Warfield Wilson; Ralph Rackstraw, Able Seaman, Bill Burkhart; Dick Deadeye, Able Seaman, Mike Smith; Bill Bobstay, Boatswain's Mate, Eddie Smith and Carl Robertson (this role has been divided between the two boys.)

Bob Becket, Carpenter's Mate, Kermit Combs; Josephine, the captain's daughter, Adalee Brant; Cousin Hebe, Sir Joseph's first cousin, Shirley Brinkman; Little Buttercup, a Portsmouth bumboat woman, Betty Clapp, and a chorus of the First Lord of the Admiralty's sisters, his cousins, his aunts, sailors, marines, etc., made up of members of the A Capella Choir and Glee Clubs.

The proceeds of this project will be used to help pay for the organ which has been purchased by the school.

Burglary In Local Tavern Cleared Up

Charles Edward Swandol, 20, this city, signed a statement Tuesday in the State's Attorney's office admitting that he burglarized Virgie's Tavern, 1614 Ford Avenue.

Detective Thomas J. See said Swandol confessed to stealing a small radio, three pen and pencil sets, six cartons of cigarets and about $4 in cash January 25.

Swandol told authorities he gained entrance through a side door. However, evidence showed the tavern was entered through a window. He is being held in Allegany County Jail pending disposition of the case.

Miss Blonskey Honored By Penn Ave. PTA

The Parent Teacher Association of Pennsylvania Avenue School Tuesday night paid honor to Miss Lula Blonskey who has completed 30 years as an educator in Allegany county schools, all but one of them at the South End institution.

More than 200 persons joined in the celebration and the PTA presented Miss Blonskey with a life membership in the Parent Teachers Association of Maryland.

Miss Blonskey came to Pennsylvania Avenue School in 1920 as teacher.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 7—(INS)—At last the movies have snagged Frank Fay. Twentieth has signed the original star of "Harvey" to play Bill Lundigan's superior officer in "A WAC In His Life." I want to say right here that if Frank gets over on the screen one half the warmth and comedy he gets over on the stage, we've got another star on the rise in Hollywood.

There was a time when Frank was a little snarly about pictures. He made cracks about them in his night club and vaudeville routines which use to hurt Barbara Stanwyck, his wife at the time.

And there'ss more news about this film: Marilyn Monroe, who has been almost in retirement since the death of her agent and friend, Johnny Hyde, joins Jeanne Crain in the glamour lineup for the Jules Buck production.

Paulette Goddard and Burgess Meredith haven't yet signed that final property settlement—but if you think there's any hard feeling on either side, listen to this:

Paulette Goddard

Burgess may direct Paulette on the stage in "Let Me Hear The Melody" with Franchot Tone as her co-star! I'm not joking—that's the setup S. N. Behrman proposed to Paulette when he sent her his new play to read. With this setup of names an situations, I'd say Behrman is as good a publicity man as he is a playwright. And, Paulette, who also has an eye out for publicity values is a gal who would relish the attention sure to be caused by her emoting under the direction of her ex-husband.

I am greatly interested to hear that John Hodiak, whose speaking voice is one of the best on the screen, is making records of Shakespeare and other classics for children.

John is simplifying the texts so that the youngsters can understand, and I can say from my own experience that when I was a child I read Charles and Mary Lamb's "Tales of Shakespeare" so that by the time I was old enough to read Shakespeare I was already familiar with his plays.

I am heartily in favor of letting our children know the classics and to tell them to them in a way to stimulate their interest.

Chatter in Hollywood: Scotty Beckett, who yesterday was a child actor, is today old enough to be classified 1A. So it looks as if its's the Army for Scotty, who is under contract at Columbia.

Not only is Scotty's screen career to be postponed, but his marriage to Sunny Vickers, Columbia actress, will not take place until Scotty is out of the service.

While playing golf at the Riviera links John Agar was hit on the leg with a golf ball and was given first aid.

'Tis rumored that Errol Flynn plans to reopen his fight against Lili Damita and ask again that her alimony be reduced.

Something new in woo—Jackie Coogan and Lisa Ferraday at the Tallyho.

Stanley Donen flies to Palm Springs about three times a week to see Elizabeth Taylor, who is at the Palm Springs Biltmore Hotel.

Red Skelton, who hasn't hoofed since his old vaudeville days, does a tap routine with Ann Miller in "Texas Carnival" that's good enough to lift Fred Astaire's eyebrows.

Gloria Pinza, infant daughter of Doris and Ezio Pinza, who was born with two teeth, is being christened Sunday at All Saints Church. Her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leake, are the godparents.

The most surprising twosome of the week, Linda Darnell and Eddie Norris at a Valley restaurant.

Rita Quigley (Mrs. Arthur Goehner) has lost her sixth expected child. It was a little girl born prematurely, as were the other babies. Sympathy goes to her—she so wanted that baby and planned to name it after her sister, Juanita, who has entered a convent as a novice to become a nun.

Lou Nova in the King's with a beauty from Canada named Beverly White, telling everyone, "This is it!"

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Area Students May Vie For Scholarships

High school seniors of the Cumberland area are eligible to compete for scholarships of $400 to $2,500 which will be awarded to girls entering Wilson College next September, President Paul Swain Havens announced today.

Five Sarah Wilson scholarships of $2,500 each for the four college years will be assigned to the applicants with the highest standing in entrance examinations. A Wilson music scholarship with a maximum four-year value of $1,600 will go to a girl of marked musical talent and superior academic record.

To aid the daughters of educators and ministers eight special scholarships have been established. Yearly grants from this fund will range up to $500 each.

A number of general scholarships will be given. They will carry an annual stipend of $100 and $300 and a four-year value of $400 and $1,200 depending on the need of the student.

Financial need, character, general promise, and scholastic merit will be the chief factors in choosing recipients of the awards. Information and application forms may be obtained from the Director of Admissions, Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa.

Price Freeze Rules Available

Regulations covering the government's price freeze are available at the Chamber of Commerce and soon will be sent to banks for distribution to businessmen.

The Office of Price Stabilization in Baltimore yesterday urged the cooperation of the press in presenting the price program to the public.

Lou Zekial, information officer for the Baltimore OPS office, urged that any requests for information be channeled to his office. The address is: Lou Zekial, Information Officer, Office Of Price Stabilization, 103 South Gay Street, Room 210, Baltimore, 2, Md. His phone number is Plaza 8460, Extension 465.

Meanwhile, the Mayor and Council has pledged cooperation in setting up a volunteer committee to assist in stabilizing prices in Cumberland.

The proposal met the full approval of the council last night after Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz asserted: "We want no black market here."

Mayor Thomas S. Post said Tuesday that the city would be glad to cooperate in the program. Earlier, Michael V. DiSalle, price director, said he would ask mayors of cities of 10,000 population or more to set up these volunteer committees to encourage "general public knowledge and observance of regulations adopted in the interest of sound national economy."

Liquor Appeal Case Has Been Postponed

The appeal case of Edward J. Belfoure and the Hi-Dee Club, 38 North Mechanic Street, from a conviction on a sale of intoxicants to minors charge in Police Court, scheduled yesterday morning in Circuit Court, has been postponed.

Associate Judge George Henderson said the trial was delayed after Edward J. Ryan, Belfoure's counsel, was called to try a case in the Court of Appeals in Annapolis.

Belfoure was fined $150 in Police Court on the charge.

Typewriter Purchased By Parent-Teachers

Violin numbers played by Wilton H. Syckes, accompanied by Mrs. Samuel T. Weatherholt, were "Schon," Kreisler; "Romance," Wieniawski; "Csardas," Monti; and "Perpetuo Mobile," Bohm.

Mrs. A. J. Mirkin was commentator during the showing of a movie, "Preface to a Life," and was chairman for a discussion period which followed.

Mrs. George Stein and Mrs. Richard Cook were in charge of home room mothers serving refreshments. Assisting were Mesdames Lydia Burke, Bertrum Lazarus, Cantrill Campbell, Arnold Ballard, William Brown, Henry Christman, Charles Long, and Harold Kirk.

IN A MEDITATIVE POSE, James Hatwig, 6, is back at his lessons after he ran away from his Chicago home in rebellion against school and an early-to-bed routine. Jimmy packed a bundle of clothes, took 94 cents from his piggy bank and headed for "Missouri." He was going the wrong way when he confided in a policewoman. She returned the young adventurer to his worried parents. (International)

Tickets For Fort Hill Play Available Saturday Feb. 10

Tickets for the Fort Hill High School production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "H.M.S. Pinafore" will be available to the public on Saturday at Rosenbaum's and Dailey's Cumberland Electric Company.

The price of tickets for this light opera, which will be presented Thursday, February 15, at 8 p. m., is seventy-five cents.

These ticket booths are being sponsored by members of the Penn. Ave.-Fort Hill Alumni Association. Misses Dorothy McCoy and Jean McCoy will be in charge of the Rosenbaum booth.

Misses Doris Brown, Lois Davis, and Elva Jean Taylor will be in charge of the booth at Dailey's.

Tickets may also be obtained from Fort Hill High School students.

The cast for the light opera, sponsored by the Choir and Glee Clubs consists of: the Right Honorable Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., first Lord of the Admiralty, played by Bruce Ambrose; Captain Corcoran, Commander of H. M. S. Pinafore, Warfield Wilson; Ralph Rackstraw, Able Seaman, Bill Burkhart; Dick Deadeye, Able Seaman, Mike Smith; Bill Bobstay, Boatswain's Mate, Eddie Smith and Carl Robertson (this role has been divided between the two boys.)

Bob Becket, Carpenter's Mate, Kermit Combs; Josephine, the captain's daughter, Adalee Brant; Cousin Hebe, Sir Joseph's first cousin, Shirley Brinkman; Little Buttercup, a Portsmouth bumboat woman, Betty Clapp, and a chorus of the First Lord of the Admiralty's sisters, his cousins, his aunts, sailors, marines, etc., made up of members of the A Capella Choir and Glee Clubs.

The proceeds of this project will be used to help pay for the organ which has been purchased by the school.

Burglary In Local Tavern Cleared Up

Charles Edward Swandol, 20, this city, signed a statement Tuesday in the State's Attorney's office admitting that he burglarized Virgie's Tavern, 1614 Ford Avenue.

Detective Thomas J. See said Swandol confessed to stealing a small radio, three pen and pencil sets, six cartons of cigarets and about $4 in cash January 25.

Swandol told authorities he gained entrance through a side door. However, evidence showed the tavern was entered through a window. He is being held in Allegany County Jail pending disposition of the case.

A Column for Men

STAG LINES

By BERT BACHARACH

Autry Sets Style

Western Sportswear

FASHION: More and more men are adopting western apparel for leisure and sportswear, even though they do not get within hundreds of miles of a ranch. Gene Autry's cattleman outfit (at left) is an example of modified western garb.

Gadgets: There's a new dial-type thermometer that registers lowest, highest, and present temperature for any given period. . . . An 11½-inch bacon fork that lets you keep out of spattering range while puttering around the stove. . . . Have you a dust allergy? Take precautions around the house—spray rugs, draperies, etc., with Dust-Seal.

Dress Tip: If a dusty streak encircles your wrist or shirt cuff each night, it's time to wash your watch strap. If it's of leather or plastic, use a cloth dampened with warm soapsuds—then rinse and dry. If it's metal, it can be dipped in warm suds, scrubbed and dried.

Advice on Ties: John Cameron Swayze, who qualifies as an expert on them, says: "The shape of a man's face should dictate the choice of pattern. Polka dots and circular patterns complement the long, thin face—while diagonal or vertical stripes lengthen the round face."

Wrong

Right

Fit of Socks: It isn't only the foot-size that matters, it's the length of the tops as well. A too-short anklet, or elastic-top sock, shows an expanse of leg when trousers are hiked up. For good grooming, you should select hose with high-enough tops.

Handyman: You can get that last penny's worth from tubes of toothpaste, shaving cream, etc., by rolling them around a wooden clothespin. Slip pin over tube and use like a key. . . . Allow aluminum pans to cool before washing. Cool water on a hot pan may cause warping.

Odd Items: Jackie (Homer) Kelk never wore a hat till his sinusitis forced him into one—and now he likes 'em! . . . A few department stores made signs of this column's suggestion that men keep hats on in elevators—for everybody's convenience—and displayed the notices in all their lifts. . . . Wallachs stores for men, N. Y., spend money advertising for you to come in and have spots removed, buttons sewed on, etc.—without feeling obligated to buy anything! . . . This week it's "Pass the Perfume"—instead of our usual custom of passing cigars—to Margaret Truman who, whether she's a good singer or not, has proved herself a fine trouper and a great sport.

Hear Annual Report

Fire losses and the number of alarms answered during 1950 were reported at a meeting of the Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Department Monday.

In his annual report, Chief Robert Adams said 45 volunteers were called out to five property fires, including two in Bedford Valley. Eighty-nine firemen responded to seven grass and forest fires.

One truck fire was reported and ten volunteers answered the call. Fifty-four firemen participated in five fire drills. Damage was minor in all cases.

A Column for Men

STAG LINES

By BERT BACHARACH

Autry Sets Style

Western Sportswear

FASHION: More and more men are adopting western apparel for leisure and sportswear, even though they do not get within hundreds of miles of a ranch. Gene Autry's cattleman outfit (at left) is an example of modified western garb.

Gadgets: There's a new dial-type thermometer that registers lowest, highest, and present temperature for any given period. . . . An 11½-inch bacon fork that lets you keep out of spattering range while puttering around the stove. . . . Have you a dust allergy? Take precautions around the house—spray rugs, draperies, etc., with Dust-Seal.

Dress Tip: If a dusty streak encircles your wrist or shirt cuff each night, it's time to wash your watch strap. If it's of leather or plastic, use a cloth dampened with warm soapsuds—then rinse and dry. If it's metal, it can be dipped in warm suds, scrubbed and dried.

Advice on Ties: John Cameron Swayze, who qualifies as an expert on them, says: "The shape of a man's face should dictate the choice of pattern. Polka dots and circular patterns complement the long, thin face—while diagonal or vertical stripes lengthen the round face."

Wrong

Right

Fit of Socks: It isn't only the foot-size that matters, it's the length of the tops as well. A too-short anklet, or elastic-top sock, shows an expanse of leg when trousers are hiked up. For good grooming, you should select hose with high-enough tops.

Handyman: You can get that last penny's worth from tubes of toothpaste, shaving cream, etc., by rolling them around a wooden clothespin. Slip pin over tube and use like a key. . . . Allow aluminum pans to cool before washing. Cool water on a hot pan may cause warping.

Odd Items: Jackie (Homer) Kelk never wore a hat till his sinusitis forced him into one—and now he likes 'em! . . . A few department stores made signs of this column's suggestion that men keep hats on in elevators—for everybody's convenience—and displayed the notices in all their lifts. . . . Wallachs stores for men, N. Y., spend money advertising for you to come in and have spots removed, buttons sewed on, etc.—without feeling obligated to buy anything! . . . This week it's "Pass the Perfume"—instead of our usual custom of passing cigars—to Margaret Truman who, whether she's a good singer or not, has proved herself a fine trouper and a great sport.

Hear Annual Report

Fire losses and the number of alarms answered during 1950 were reported at a meeting of the Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Department Monday.

In his annual report, Chief Robert Adams said 45 volunteers were called out to five property fires, including two in Bedford Valley. Eighty-nine firemen responded to seven grass and forest fires.

One truck fire was reported and ten volunteers answered the call. Fifty-four firemen participated in five fire drills. Damage was minor in all cases.

In Memoriam

In memory of our husband and father, Herman Carroll, who passed away February 8, 1947.
YOUR MEMORY IS AS FRESH TODAY AS IN THE HOUR YOU PASSED AWAY.
Sadly missed by his Family.

In loving memory of our Father, Henry A. Schad, Sr., who passed away twelve years ago today, February 8, 1939.
Father, though the world forgets,
We hold you ever dear,
As long as life and memory
Go on year after year.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy extended us in the death of our beloved father, Mr. Julian Laurent. We especially want to thank the ministers, Rev. C. N. Hutchenson and Rev. C. R. Welsh, pallbearers, those who donated the use of their cars and sent flowers.
The Laurent Family

In Memoriam

In memory of our husband and father, Herman Carroll, who passed away February 8, 1947.
YOUR MEMORY IS AS FRESH TODAY AS IN THE HOUR YOU PASSED AWAY.
Sadly missed by his Family.

In loving memory of our Father, Henry A. Schad, Sr., who passed away twelve years ago today, February 8, 1939.
Father, though the world forgets,
We hold you ever dear,
As long as life and memory
Go on year after year.
Mrs. Dora Pittman, Mrs. Clara Fehlman, Henry A. Schad, Jr.

YOU CAN SURVIVE THE ATOM BOMB

KNOW THE BOMB'S TRUE DANGERS. KNOW STEPS YOU CAN TAKE TO ESCAPE THEM.

SIX SURVIVAL SECRETS FOR ATOMIC ATTACKS

ALWAYS Put First Things First

1. Try to Get Shielded

If you have time, get down in a basement or subway. Should you unexpectedly be caught out-of-doors, seek shelter alongside a building, or jump in any handy ditch or gutter.

2. Drop Flat On the Ground or Floor

To keep from being tossed about and to lessen the chances of being struck by falling and flying objects, flatten out at the base of a wall, or at the bottom of a bank.

3. Bury Your Face in Your Arms

When you drop flat, hide your eyes in the crook of your elbow. That will protect your face from flash burns, prevent temporary blindness and keep flying objects out of your eyes.

NEVER Lose Your Head

4. Don't Rush Outside Right After a Bombing

After an air burst, wait a few minutes then go help to fight fires. After other kinds of bursts wait a least 1 hour to give lingering radiation some chance to die down.

5. Don't Take Chances With Food or Water in Open Containers

To prevent radioactive poisoning or disease, select your food and water with care. When there is reason to believe they may be contaminated, stick to canned and bottled things if possible.

6. Don't Start Rumors

In the confusion that follows a bombing, a single rumor might touch off a panic that could cost your life.

REMOVE THIS SHEET AND KEEP IT WITH YOU UNTIL YOU HAVE MEMORIZED IT.

KILL THE MYTHS

Atomic Weapons Will Not Destroy the Earth

ATOMIC BOMBS hold more death and destruction than man ever before has wrapped up in a single package, but their over-all power still has very definite limits. Not even hydrogen bombs will blow the earth apart or kill us all by radioactivity.

Doubling Bomb Power Does Not Double Destruction

Modern A-bombs can cause heavy damage 2 miles away, but doubling their power would extend that range only to 2½ miles. To stretch the damage range from 2 to 4 miles would require a weapon more than 8 TIMES the rated power of present models.

Radioactivity is Not the Bomb's Greatest Threat

In most atom raids, blast and heat are by far the greatest dangers that people must face. Radioactivity alone would account for only a small percentage of all human deaths and injuries, except in underground or underwater explosions.

Radiation Sickness is Not Always Fatal

In small amounts, radioactivity seldom is harmful. Even when serious radiation sickness follows a heavy dosage, there is still a good chance for recovery.

Reprinted from the official U. S. government report.

Five Keys to Household Safety

1. Strive for "Fireproof Housekeeping"

Don't let trash pile up, and keep waste paper in covered containers. When an alert sounds, do all you can to eliminate sparks by shutting off the oil burner and covering all open flames.

2. Know Your Own Home

Know which is the safest part of your cellar, learn how to turn off your oil burner and what to do about utilities.

3. Have Emergency Equipment and Supplies Handy

Always have a good flashlight, a radio, first-aid equipment and a supply of canned goods in the house.

4. Close All Windows and Doors and Draw the Blinds

If you have time when an alert sounds, close the house up tight in order to keep out fire sparks and radioactive dusts and to lessen the chances of being cut by flying glass. Keep the house closed until all danger is past.

5. Use the Telephone Only for True Emergencies

Do not use the phone unless absolutely necessary. Leave the lines open for real emergency traffic.

Minus Signs Predominate As Market Trading Shrinks

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—There was a cautious marking down of prices today in the stock market together with a display of strength in selected individual issues.

Almost every major group was irregular, but the minus signs predominated in the list as a whole.

Chicago Corp. was the most active issue of the day up ⅛ at 15⅞, and American Power & Light was second up ¾ at 20 ⅛.

General Motors, the third most active, was off ¼ at 51, and Anaconda was fourth with a gain of 1 ⅛ at 42 ⅜.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 40 cents at $96.30. The industrial component of the average was off 70 cents, and rails and utilities each fell 10 cents.

The volume of trading contracted 2,020,000 shares, the smallest in two weeks. Yesterday volume game to 2,360,000 shares.

RKO Theatre was fifth most active issue of the day up ⅛ at 5 ⅛. Loew's sank to the losing side and closed off ⅛ at 18 ⅛. Paramount, however, ended ahead 1 ⅛ at 24 ⅜.

Other stocks moving up included Seaboard Air Line up 2 at 57, Chesapeake & Ohio 1 ¼ at 38, Nickel Plate preferred 1 ⅞ at 153, American Woolen ¾ at 46 ⅛, Philip Morris 1 ⅝ at 54 ½, U. S. Rubber 1 ¾ at 57 ⅞, Boeing ¾ at 45 ¼, and Hiram Walker 2 at 55 ½.

of his law partner, Basil O'Connor, was purged and his political career wrecked because he told the truth. To his name should be added that of John McNaboe, New York State legislator, and of Judge Clare Gerald Fenerty, both of whom joined the fight so early that their names somehow passed me by.

No one could write a complete list, no matter how much he tried or whatever definitions he set up. However, as I read my mail, I was astonished at the repetition of the names I am noting, and how few others were offered.

Also, I must note that John Maass, advertising designer of Los Angeles, comments concerning my list that I have selected persons with criminal records. He says: "Most others in the list are fools or knaves, a few honest people are also included." He adds:

"Here is a piquant sidelight: I believe you are a Jew or at least of Jewish descent. Your list includes a number of professional anti-Semites who advocate the extermination of all Jews. If they were in power, you would be dispatched to the nearest gas chamber. Not even your record as an 'anti-Communist since 1917' would help you."

His letter is indeed a sad commentary on the continuance of a vile propaganda against many who love America and despise Stalin. Besides, the matter under discussion is Red-baiting before 1940 to show that some Americans recognized and understood a malignant disease. Mr. Maass's strictures are therefore irrelevant.

frontal assault on Western Germany, rather than a flank attack in Yugoslavia. Let them know that the certainty of reprisal is as absolute in both cases, so the argument runs, and they will quickly alter their plans.

Two problems must be solved before the needed warning can be conveyed to Moscow. It must be decided what form the warning is to take. And we must somehow be assured of the cooperation of our allies, and especially of the British, who would have to join us in the ensuing war if our warning were ignored.

It is terrible, indeed, to be discussing such problems in this cold-blooded manner. Yet it is much more terrible—it is the quickest way to betray the future—to be weak, to muddle along, to blunder toward Munich-like situations, to let war just happen because our intentions are unclear. The bad time has now come which was foretold last year to one of these reporters by a very great Englishman, who said, "We'll just have to get through it on nerve and the atomic bomb." He added, "We'll get through it nicely, in my judgment, if our nerves do not fail."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

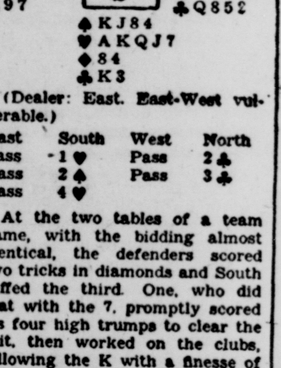
"The Authority on Authorities"

MINIMIZE YOUR HAZARD

IN THE PLAY for a large percentage of all contracts, bid to the limit of sound height, there is some possibility of defeat regardless of the plan followed. But, among several principles to be considered by a thorough declarer, an important one is how much he risks. If either of two alternate courses promises about as good a chance of success as the other, then he must weigh what will occur if the chosen method fails. In that case, if one could cost him a set of two or more tricks and the other only a set of one trick, it should not be hard for him to make his decision.



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	2 ♠	Pass	3 ♣
Pass	4 ♥

At the two tables of a team game, with the bidding almost identical, the defenders scored two tricks in diamonds and South ruffed the third. One, who did that with the 7, promptly scored his four high trumps to clear the suit, then worked on the clubs, following the K with a finesse of the J. When East won that with the Q, his return to the spade A enabled West to beat the contract three tricks with two more diamonds, as South had no more trumps.

The other declarer used his heart A to ruff the third diamond so as to have the 7 for a lead to the dummy's 10. Not bothering with clubs, he led the spade 10 and, when East played low, sent it through to the A. West saw that the dummy could now ruff a diamond while South discarded, so chose the heart 3 for his return. South won this with the K, removed hostile trumps with the Q and J, then led to the club A.

He brought the spade 9 through, underplaying the 8 when East played low, next finessed the spade J and finished the hand with the two black kings.

If you will analyze the situation, this method took a reasonable risk of defeat only in case West happened to hold the spade Q. If that had been so, the contract stood to be beaten one trick, not three. South was fortunate to find the Q with East as one more example of the saying that "the better players seem to be luckier."

How should South play for his 3-No Trumps after the spade 8 lead?

YOU CAN SURVIVE THE ATOM BOMB

SIX SURVIVAL SECRETS FOR ATOMIC ATTACKS

ALWAYS Put First Things First

1. Try to Get Shielded

If you have time, get down in a basement or subway. Should you unexpectedly be caught out-of-doors, seek shelter alongside a building, or jump in any handy ditch or gutter.

2. Drop Flat On the Ground or Floor

To keep from being tossed about and to lessen the chances of being struck by falling and flying objects, flatten out at the base of a wall, or at the bottom of a bank.

3. Bury Your Face in Your Arms

When you drop flat, hide your eyes in the crook of your elbow. That will protect your face from flash burns, prevent temporary blindness and keep flying objects out of your eyes.

NEVER Lose Your Head

4. Don't Rush Outside Right After a Bombing

After an air burst, wait a few minutes then go help to fight fires. After other kinds of bursts wait a least 1 hour to give lingering radiation some chance to die down.

5. Don't Take Chances With Food or Water in Open Containers

To prevent radioactive poisoning or disease, select your food and water with care. When there is reason to believe they may be contaminated, stick to canned and bottled things if possible.

6. Don't Start Rumors

In the confusion that follows a bombing, a single rumor might touch off a panic that could cost your life.

REMOVE THIS SHEET AND KEEP IT WITH YOU UNTIL YOU HAVE MEMORIZED IT.

KILL THE MYTHS

Atomic Weapons Will Not Destroy the Earth

ATOMIC BOMBS hold more death and destruction than man ever before has wrapped up in a single package, but their over-all power still has very definite limits. Not even hydrogen bombs will blow the earth apart or kill us all by radioactivity.

Doubling Bomb Power Does Not Double Destruction

Modern A-bombs can cause heavy damage 2 miles away, but doubling their power would extend that range only to 2½ miles. To stretch the damage range from 2 to 4 miles would require a weapon more than 8 TIMES the rated power of present models.

Radioactivity is Not the Bomb's Greatest Threat

In most atom raids, blast and heat are by far the greatest dangers that people must face. Radioactivity alone would account for only a small percentage of all human deaths and injuries, except in underground or underwater explosions.

Radiation Sickness is Not Always Fatal

In small amounts, radioactivity seldom is harmful. Even when serious radiation sickness follows a heavy dosage, there is still a good chance for recovery.

Reprinted from the official U. S. government report.

Five Keys to Household Safety

1. Strive for "Fireproof Housekeeping"

Don't let trash pile up, and keep waste paper in covered containers. When an alert sounds, do all you can to eliminate sparks by shutting off the oil burner and covering all open flames.

2. Know Your Own Home

Know which is the safest part of your cellar, learn how to turn off your oil burner and what to do about utilities.

3. Have Emergency Equipment and Supplies Handy

4. Close All Windows and Doors and Draw the Blinds

If you have time when an alert sounds, close the house up tight in order to keep out fire sparks and radioactive dusts and to lessen the chances of being cut by flying glass. Keep the house closed until all danger is past.

5. Use the Telephone Only for True Emergencies

Do not use the phone unless absolutely necessary. Leave the lines open for real emergency traffic.

Minus Signs Predominate As Market Trading Shrinks

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—There was a cautious marking down of prices today in the stock market together with a display of strength in selected individual issues.

Almost every major group was irregular, but the minus signs predominated in the list as a whole.

Chicago Corp. was the most active issue of the day up ⅛ at 15⅞, and American Power & Light was second up ¾ at 20 ⅛.

General Motors, the third most active, was off ¼ at 51, and Anaconda was fourth with a gain of 1 ⅛ at 42 ⅜.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 40 cents at $96.30. The industrial component of the average was off 70 cents, and rails and utilities each fell 10 cents.

The volume of trading contracted 2,020,000 shares, the smallest in two weeks. Yesterday volume game to 2,360,000 shares.

RKO Theatre was fifth most active issue of the day up ⅛ at 5 ⅛. Loew's sank to the losing side and closed off ⅛ at 18 ⅛. Paramount, however, ended ahead 1 ⅛ at 24 ⅜.

Other stocks moving up included Seaboard Air Line up 2 at 57, Chesapeake & Ohio 1 ¼ at 38, Nickel Plate preferred 1 ⅞ at 153, American Woolen ¾ at 46 ⅛, Philip Morris 1 ⅝ at 54 ½, U. S. Rubber 1 ¾ at 57 ⅞, Boeing ¾ at 45 ¼, and Hiram Walker 2 at 55 ½.

of his law partner, Basil O'Connor, was purged and his political career wrecked because he told the truth. To his name should be added that of John McNaboe, New York State legislator, and of Judge Clare Gerald Fenerty, both of whom joined the fight so early that their names somehow passed me by.

No one could write a complete list, no matter how much he tried or whatever definitions he set up. However, as I read my mail, I was astonished at the repetition of the names I am noting, and how few others were offered.

Also, I must note that John Maass, advertising designer of Los Angeles, comments concerning my list that I have selected persons with criminal records. He says: "Most others in the list are fools or knaves, a few honest people are also included." He adds:

"Here is a piquant sidelight: I believe you are a Jew or at least of Jewish descent. Your list includes a number of professional anti-Semites who advocate the extermination of all Jews. If they were in power, you would be dispatched to the nearest gas chamber. Not even your record as an 'anti-Communist since 1917' would help you."

His letter is indeed a sad commentary on the continuance of a vile propaganda against many who love America and despise Stalin. Besides, the matter under discussion is Red-baiting before 1940 to show that some Americans recognized and understood a malignant disease. Mr. Maass's strictures are therefore irrelevant.

frontal assault on Western Germany, rather than a flank attack in Yugoslavia. Let them know that the certainty of reprisal is as absolute in both cases, so the argument runs, and they will quickly alter their plans.

Two problems must be solved before the needed warning can be conveyed to Moscow. It must be decided what form the warning is to take. And we must somehow be assured of the cooperation of our allies, and especially of the British, who would have to join us in the ensuing war if our warning were ignored.

It is terrible, indeed, to be discussing such problems in this cold-blooded manner. Yet it is much more terrible—it is the quickest way to betray the future—to be weak, to muddle along, to blunder toward Munich-like situations, to let war just happen because our intentions are unclear. The bad time has now come which was foretold last year to one of these reporters by a very great Englishman, who said, "We'll just have to get through it on nerve and the atomic bomb." He added, "We'll get through it nicely, in my judgment, if our nerves do not fail."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

MINIMIZE YOUR HAZARD

IN THE PLAY for a large percentage of all contracts, bid to the limit of sound height, there is some possibility of defeat regardless of the plan followed. But, among several principles to be considered by a thorough declarer, an important one is how much he risks. If either of two alternate courses promises about as good a chance of success as the other, then he must weigh what will occur if the chosen method fails. In that case, if one could cost him a set of two or more tricks and the other only a set of one trick, it should not be hard for him to make his decision.

	♠ 10 9 6 ♥ 10 9 ♦ 7 5 3 ♣ A J 10 6 4
♠ A 5 ♥ 6 4 3 2 ♦ K Q J 9 2 ♣ 9 7	N W E S	♠ Q 7 3 2 ♥ 8 5 ♦ A 10 6 ♣ Q 8 5 2

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	-1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	2 ♠	Pass	3 ♣
Pass	4 ♥

At the two tables of a team game, with the bidding almost identical, the defenders scored two tricks in diamonds and South ruffed the third. One, who did that with the 7, promptly scored his four high trumps to clear the suit, then worked on the clubs, following the K with a finesse of the J. When East won that with the Q, his return to the spade A enabled West to beat the contract three tricks with two more diamonds, as South had no more trumps.

The other declarer used his heart A to ruff the third diamond so as to have the 7 for a lead to the dummy's 10. Not bothering with clubs, he led the spade 10 and, when East played low, sent it through to the A. West saw that the dummy could now ruff a diamond while South discarded, so chose the heart 3 for his return. South won this with the K, removed hostile trumps with the Q and J, then led to the club A.

He brought the spade 9 through, underplaying the 8 when East played low, next finessed the spade J and finished the hand with the two black kings.

If you will analyze the situation, this method took a reasonable risk of defeat only in case West happened to hold the spade Q. If that had been so, the contract stood to be beaten one trick, not three. South was fortunate to find the Q with East as one more example of the saying that "the better players seem to be luckier."

How should South play for his 3-No Trumps after the spade 8 lead?

Zero Weather, High Wind, Snow Hit Tri-State

Stadium Poles Blown Over At Fort Hill

Winter-weary residents of the Tri-State area got another jolt late yesterday when temperatures plunged from above freezing to around the zero level as high winds up to 60-miles-an-hour and snow in some portions added to the discomfort and danger.

One of the most spectacular events locally was the collapse of two 60-foot poles, each carrying 24 lights, at the Fort Hill High School Stadium.

In Ridgeley, W. Va., the top and hood of a 1934-model automobile parked at Morgan's Trade School blew off.

Snow Blowing

State Police at the LaVale barracks reported that Garrett county was blanketed with about three inches of snow by about 10:30 o'clock last night and it still was falling. The high winds blew the snow so that motorists had virtually no visability. Throughout that county drivers were advised to stay off the roads.

In Allegany county the snow was concentrated in the area around Frostburg and just east of Cumberland. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad reported snow along Orleans Road near Little Orleans, east of Cumberland.

In the West Virginia area southwest of Cumberland snow and below zero thermometer readings were given. At Thomas, W. Va., the Western Maryland Railroad reported about four inches of snow and a temperature of two degrees below zero at 10:30 o'clock. The B & O said snow was falling in the Hardman, W. Va. area, not far from Grafton.

Zero Temperatures

Other low temperatures in the area by 10:30 o'clock last night were at Deal, Pa., zero and three inches of snow; Altamont, four degrees and high winds; Terra Alta, W. Va., zero and high winds.

At Constitution Park here in Cumberland yesterday's high reading was 39 degrees and at 10 p. m., it was 12 degrees, the day's low to that point, but still falling.

Frostburg had its coldest evening so far this year yesterday as the thermometer plunged down to five above zero at 8:50 p. m.

Amer Suder, official weather observer, said the thermometer has been down as far as five below this winter, but in the early morning hours.

Travel Hazardous

The Weather Bureau in Baltimore issued this special bulletin at 8:30 o'clock last night:

"Most roads and highways in Maryland tonight are dangerous and slippery. Travel should be avoided where possible during tonight and early Thursday. Where travel is necessary extreme caution should be exercised. Temperatures by early Thursday are expected to lower to zero to eight degrees in extreme Western Maryland and 10 to 15 elsewhere across northern Maryland. Continued high winds will prevail through tonight and Thursday."

Turnpike Bus Crash Takes Two Lives

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Feb. 7 (AP) — Two persons were killed and at least four others were critically injured tonight when a Greyhound bus crashed on the Pennsylvania Turnpike near Willow Hill.

Cpl. Joseph Vent, State Police, said original estimates of at least four persons dead were revised after a check.

He said State Police were unable to identify the two dead persons and there was no accurate estimate of the injured because they were taken to three various hospitals.

Vent said the bus, driven by Donald MacDock, 27, of Pittsburgh, was traveling east from Pittsburgh to Harrisburg. It skidded on the icy highway, Vent added, and struck a guard rail.

The bus then careened across the medial strip of the highway and crashed into two tractor trailers.

Vent said MacDock was seriously injured.

Mechanic Burned When Gas Ignites

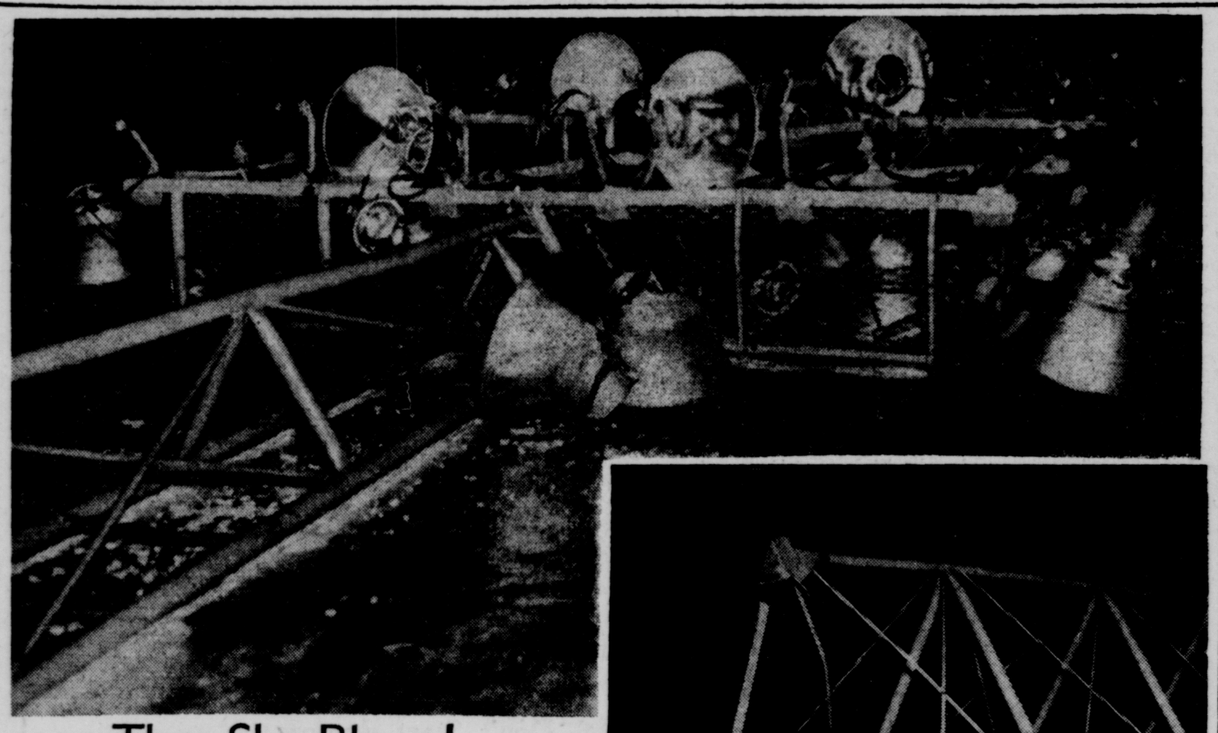
A local man was slightly injured yesterday afternoon when gasoline he was using to clean parts of an electric mangle ignited.

Central Fire Company said George Vannoy, Spring Gap, mechanic for the Stein Funeral Home, 117 Frederick Street, suffered minor burns on the hand when a defective electric cord ignited the gasoline.

Slight damage was caused in the basement of the funeral home, firemen said.

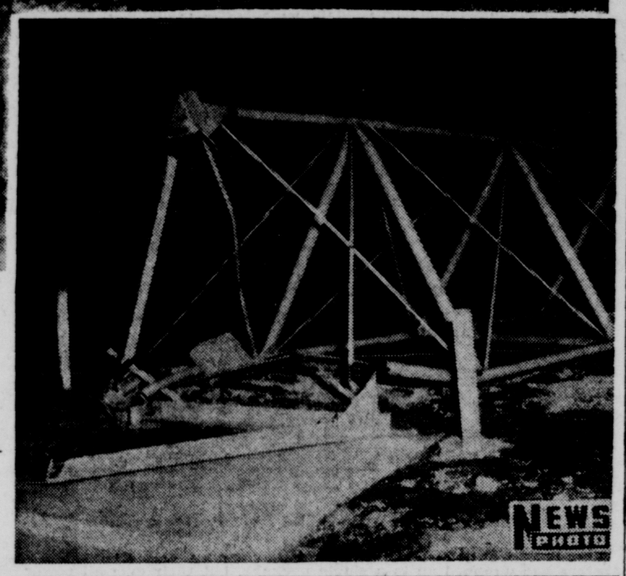
Central firemen were called twice to the Central Lunch, 71 Centre Street, early last evening after a wooden grill near a hot plate became overheated and ignited.

West Side Fire Company was called to the home of D. W. Johnson, 647 Sedgwick Street, yesterday at 4:55 p. m. after a flue became overheated.



Thar She Blows!

Two light towers, each 60 feet high and carrying 24 candles or flood lights, were blown down in Fort Hill High School stadium last evening as the worst gale and coldest weather of this winter struck the area. The flood lights are used as part of a system to floodlight the field for night games. The lights had been erected less than six months ago.



Three Injured When Cars Crash On Icy Highway

Frostburg Celanese Workers Are Hurt

Three Celanese workers were injured, one of them seriously, late yesterday afternoon in a three-car collision on Route 40 at the west end of Eckhart.

Most seriously injured was James Bennett, 62, of 65 East Main Street, Frostburg, who was taken to Memorial Hospital in a State Police ambulance.

He was suffering from possible broken back but was reported in good condition. X-rays will be taken today to determine the extent of injuries.

Treated at Miners Hospital, Frostburg, were:

Bernard Wade, 42, of 68 Bowery Street, Frostburg, for lacerations and possible fractures.

John Blake, 62, of Bowery Street, Frostburg, for shock and possible fractured ribs.

Trooper Donald Wade, who investigated, said all of the injured men, including his brother, were riding in a car driven by Irwin P. Kyle, 58, of 164 East College Avenue, Frostburg, who was examined at Miners Hospital for possible injuries.

Kyle's car, State Police said, skidded on the ice covered highway about 4:50 p. m., and turned completely around, colliding with an eastbound car driven by William Kerr, Frostburg. Just as the two cars collided, a third car, driven by Matthew Adams, Brooklyn, N. Y., hit the rear of Kerr's car.

Constitutional Convention Is Urged By JC

Send Telegrams To County Delegation

The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce voted last night at its meeting at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club to send a telegram to the Allegany county delegation in Annapolis requesting that this county's representatives stand by the "mandate" to hold a Constituional Convention in Maryland.

In another action, the membership voted to accept the Miss Cumberland contract and sponsor a Miss Cumberland pageant again this year. This occurred after Donald Coomber reported that the Maryland Junior Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the state contest and the Baltimore Jaycees will sponsor the contest in that city.

Edwin Rinner informed the Jaycees that Governor McKeldin has proclaimed the week beginning Monday as Americanism Week in cooperation with the Jaycees "Voice of Democracy" program in which Rinner is state chairman.

Principal speaker last night was L. Leslie Helmer, superintendent of personnel at the Celanese plant here, who talked on "A Peek Behind the Iron Curtain." Some time ago Helmer was among a group of business men who met in New York City and heard a group of fugitives from Soviet Russia contrast conditions there with those in the United States.

Miss Susan Strong, representative of the Barter Theatre of Virginia, informed the Jaycees about "Glass Menagerie," the Barter production which will be presented at the Allegany High School next Wednesday.

The Jaycee telegram to the Allegany county delegation:

"We respectfully request the implimentation of the Constitutional Convention. Both party platforms backed it and its passage by a four-to-one vote in the State and by a two-to-one vote in this county constitute a mandate to the representatives to stand behind it."

Women Protest Youth's Spitting Activities Here

Residents of the Decatur Street area have registered bitter complaints against the activities of a man who has spit into the faces of about a dozen women in that section.

Police, contacted last night, said that complaints have been received and orders have been issued to put a halt to the man's depredations.

Some 10 women, three of them wives of city and state policemen, are among the victims who have reported the "spitting" attacks.

An Allegany Hospital nurse and several housewives are included in the victims who live on Decatur and Bedford Streets and Baltimore Avenue.

The women said the man walked up to them as if about to speak and then spat full in their faces.

One of the victims said the spitting occurred by daylight but most reported the action during early night.

The man was described as about five feet, seven inches tall, about 18 years old and was wearing crepe soled shoes and a jacket.

Local Mail Shipments To Increase

Local postal authorities expect the movement of mail throughout the eastern part of the country to be nearly normal this week according to Thomas B. Cummisky, Jr., assistant postmaster here.

Notification has been received that the partial lifting of the embargo against bulk mail will result in Cumberland offices being able to accept air mail up to 70 pounds. The original order limited air mail packages to two pounds.

The Post Office Department order, issued late yesterday, partially relaxed the tight embargo on handling bulk mail, and reestablished normal service over wide areas as a result of the partial restoration of train service. However, several midwestern states, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan were continued under a full embargo against everything except first class mail under eight ounces, daily newspapers, medical and surgical supplies, and money shipments from banks.

William R. Thayer, superintendent of mails, reported an increase in third class mail yesterday and said that incoming parcel post was almost back to normal. He declined to say whether this was the result of the order or not.

Reject Wage Offer

Drivers and Warehousemen of area wholesale grocery firms have rejected a $2 a week wage offer, C. E. Stutzman, business manager of Local 453, Teamsters Union, said. Negotations will continue, he added.

Railroads Get Good Marks On Smoke Control

Partial Violations Held To 9 Per Cent

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Western Maryland Railway received good marks Tuesday at a Cumberland Terminal Meeting.

Reports presented at the meeting showed both railroads had partial violations in about nine per cent of the observations made.

Less than 10 per cent is a good record, George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, reported.

Joseph M. Miller, superintendent of the Elkins division of the Western Maryland Railway, officiated at the meeting held in City Hall.

The B. and O. escaped with two bad violations during January out of 246 observations. Another 26 checks resulted in partial violations.

No Bad Violations

The Western Maryland Railway's 34 observations showed three partial violations but no bad.

Officials pointed out that both of the "bad" violations noted for B. and O. locomotives were on engines based at other terminals.

In one case, the fireman responsible was furloughed shortly after the violation. In the second case, which showed only one clear stack in four observations, mechanical trouble is suspected, as it was operated by three different crews when the observations were made.

Officials credited crews on B. and O. engines 623, 1159, 1160 and 696 with a fine job during the month. Nine observations showed nine clear stacks.

On the Western Maryland, two engines are still giving trouble, Nos. 209 and 1107, and officials promised steps would be taken to remedy the situation.

Attend Meeting

Representing the B. and O. were F. A. Murphy, road foreman of engines; Robert Raikes, fuel conservationist; C. E. Gaiser, fuel conservationist, and A. E. Beckman, master mechanic.

The Western Maryland representatives were Miller; Harry Dixon, road foreman of engines; H. W. Holsberry, assistant road foreman of engines, and G. R. Lyming, master mechanic.

City Smoke Abatement officials were Hitchcock; Charles F. Owens, deputy smoke inspector, and Ruth Morgan, secretary.

Equity Case Filed

An equity case filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday was titled Ramona Ocheltree vs. Denzil E. Ocheltree.

Weather

Cumberlanders' hope for a respite from the subfreezing temperatures dropped with the mercury yesterday afternoon as they braced themselves for another cold snap. The weatherman predicts mostly fair and very cold for today. High for the 24 hour period at Constitution Park weather station was 39; low was 12. Precipitation was .40 inches for the day.

City Officials To Ask SRC Aid On Flood Phase

Seek Approval On Bridge Plan Here

City officials will go to Baltimore this morning to request State Roads Commission cooperation in the third phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control Project.

Mayor Thomas S. Post, City Attorney W. Earle Cobey and Albert S. Paye, coordinator for the project, will represent the city at the conference set for 11 a. m. in the SRC offices.

Mayor Post said the third phase of the project will chiefly consist of the construction of bridges.

A part of the work will consist of the relocation of the present dam near the Ridgeley-Cumberland bridge.

Tentative plans call for the relocation of the dam, with that structure providing the foundation of a new bridge to replace the Blue Bridge.

William Darr Begins 90-Day Jail Sentence

William R. Darr, 43-year-old Rawlings lumber mill operator, walked into the county sheriff's office about 4:15 p. m. yesterday to begin his 90-day jail sentence for manslaughter.

The Rawlings man was convicted January 17 in Allegany County Circuit Court by a jury in the traffic death December 20 of his wife, Mrs. Mary Catherine Darr, 40. Associate Judge George Henderson sentenced him January 31, but gave his seven days to settle his business affairs.

Ridgeley Man Struck By Mace Remains In Daze

Arrested Last Week On Disorderly Charge

Herman Brant, 43, Ridgeley, remains in a dazed condition in Memorial Hospital following his arrest Tuesday evening January 30, by Officer George Pfeiffer on Virginia Avenue. An eyewitness and members of the family state that Brant was struck over the left eye with a mace.

Brant was arrested about 11:45 p. m. after he boarded a bus on Virginia Avenue near Laing. According to police, Brant was booked at 12:40 a. m. Wednesday on drunk and disorderly charges and for resisting an officer. He remained in jail in a dazed condition until medical authorities were called in to examine him after he was unable to appear for his hearing, Wednesday morning, police said.

An attending physician last night said he examined Brant and had him removed to the Memorial Hospital for observation. An X-ray proved that no fracture was caused by the blow. Since Brant remained in a semi-conscious condition throughout the week and did not respond to treatment a spinal puncture will be done today.

The physician said that Brant's condition was due to a combination of things.

Taken To Jail on Stretcher

The eye witness to the incident claims that Brant was standing in front of Reinhart Furniture Store awaiting a bus when the officer approached him and told him to move along. Brant is said to have caused no commotion but merely commented he was leaving for Ridgeley when the next bus arrived. As the bus pulled in, Brant got aboard, sat down in the front seat and leaned his head on his arm next to the window.

Officer Pfeiffer is said by the witness to have boarded the bus, hit Brant over the left temple and due to the blow was compelled to get the assistance of the driver and remove him to a nearby restaurant until the patrol wagon arrived. Later Brant was taken to the jail on a stretcher in a semi-conscious condition. His condition the following morning necessitated his being removed to Memorial Hospital.

The driver of the bus, Roscoe L. Snoeberger, was not available for questioning last night due to his being in Baltimore, for a medical checkup.

Injured At Work

Brant has been living with his mother, Mrs. Daisy McKenzie, in Ridgeley for the past two months. He was employed in Baltimore but was injured in the hand when an automobile fell on him in an auto body repair shop. He had returned to this area until his injury cleared up sufficiently for him to return to work. He was un-employed at the time of the arrest.

It was determined that Brant had spent most of Tuesday in a club on Virginia Avenue. The bartender said he had had a few drinks while playing cards during the afternoon. About 7 p. m. he laid down on a bench and slept until 11:15 p. m. when he got up and said "I have to catch a bus to Ridgeley."

He immediately left and the bartender said he was not intoxicated upon departing from the club.

Brant's family said that he was subject to epileptic attacks on various occasions.

Beall Parents To Boost Band

Plans for organization of a parents group to boost the Beall High School band in Frostburg are being advanced by some of the parents and interested townspeople, Jack Platt, supervisor of music in Allegany county schools, said yesterday.

Formative arrangements were made Monday night at the Frostburg school at a covered dish supper attended by some 125 students, parents and townspeople, Platt said.

Darrell Zeller, director of the Arion band in Frostburg, suggested that the band parents organize. A committee, appointed Monday night, will meet next Monday to advance the plans.

Platt said that Fort Hill High School is the only one in the county which now has such a parents' group.

DIES IN KOREA — Mr. and Mrs. John B. Shannon, 170 McCulloh Street, Frostburg, have just received word that their son, Pfc. Joseph Michael Shannon, above, has been officially listed as dead. Previously, the Shannons had been informed August 10 that their son had been missing in action in the Korean War since July 25. Another son, Corp. Robert E. Shannon, has been reported missing in action since December 6.

School Conducts Choral Reading Demonstrations

Centre Street Scene Of Two Programs

A choral reading demonstration, similar to one presented yesterday afternoon at Centre Street School, will be offered again this afternoon at the Cumberland school.

About 50 teachers from Cumberland, LaVale, Frostburg, Corriganville, Eckhart and Ellerslie watched the demonstration yesterday by pupils in the second, fourth, fifth and sixth grades at Centre Street School.

Miss Agnes Lauder, school principal, and her teachers conducted the demonstration from about 2:15 until 3:30 p. m. Choral reading is reading in unison in which meaning, mood and rhythm are emphasized.

Miss Winifred Green, elementary school supervisor, officiated at the discussion which followed the demonstration. A leader in the discussion was Miss Loretta McGeady, former principal at Centre Street School and now principal at Johnson Heights School, who was a pioneer in the choral reading program. Among others who attended were School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp, Miss Mildred Willison and Miss Jane Botsford, elementary supervisors, and Miss Mary Walsh, librarian of the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Another group of teachers will attend this afternoon's demonstration and Miss Willison will lead this discussion.

Progress Noted In Sanitation

Corrective measures are being taken in connection with 186 sanitation complaints made in January, Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, said yesterday.

Highlights of the month were the razing of five condemned dwellings, improvement in sewage nuisance conditions and the opening of a drive to curb roadside dumping.

J. B. Dowling, state sanitarian, said a complicated sewage condition on several highways, where raw sewage was seeping upon the highway and freezing, is being corrected.

Plans for water and sewage disposal disposal systems in the county are going forward satisfactorily, Dowling said.

Members of the department made some 344 field trips during the month, including a number of conferences with home owners on septic tank installations.

Classes of student nurses from Memorial Hopital were conducted on tours by the sanitation department as part of their training.

Continuing efforts are being made, in cooperation with the State Roads Commission, to correct unsanitary and unsightly nuisances caused by roadside dumping.

Deadline Is Today

Area artists were reminded yesterday that today is the deadline for submitting entries in the Tri-State Art Exhibit, which will begin Monday in the auditorium of the Cumberland Free Public Library and will run until March 16.

Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, said that many artists have submitted entries. Two are permitted for each entrant.

Births Announced

Memorial Hospital announces the following bitrhs:

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Somerville, 209 Fayette Street a son yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Vincent, Dawson, a daughter yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Shoemaker, RFD No. 1, Oldtown, a daughter yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Walburn, 212 Elder Street, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Miller, Hyndman, Pa., a son Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Culbertson, Plainfield, N. J. a son February 2 in Muhlenberg Hospital there. Mrs. Culbertson is the former Betty Love Macfarlane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Grant Macfarlane, 328 Fayette Street.

Delegation Gives Approval For Local Measures

Poetry Day Bill Revived In Senate

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday issued favorable reports on five bills, including one which would set up fees for candidates in Cumberland elections.

The first, HB64, requires that candidates for mayor of Cumberland pay a $40 filing fee with $25 fees for council candidates, and abolishes present petition requirements. It was passed by the Delegation and will receive its third hearing in the House soon.

HB 163, by the Delegation, received a favorable report yesterday and is slated for its third reading soon.

The measure would allow the Board of Allegany County Commissioners to spend amounts up to $3,500 without a bidding but requires advertising and bidding on expenditures greater than that amount.

Approve Lonaconing Bill

HB 149, introduced by Delegate Noel Speir Cook, providing slight increases in pay for the mayor and council of Lonaconing, received a favorable report.

HB 182, by Cook, to speed up revision of land plats of this county, was reported out favorably. It authorized the county to spend $2,000 yearly, instead of $1,000, but does not increase allocations for the work.

HB 12, sponsored by Delegate See, (Allegany), and Delegate Virts (Frederick) requesting the Employment Commission to set up an examination and create the job of dictaphone typist, received a favorable delegation report.

The work is now classed as stenographic. With the change in classification, and a new type of examination, blind people could qualify for the work.

Poetry Day Revived

A legal "Poetry Day" in Maryland got a new lease on life yesterday.

A bill to designate Oct. 15 as annual Poetry Day had been given an unfavorable report by the Senate Judiciary Committee recently. But the committee and the Senate was prevailed to take it back for more consideration.

After listening to its sponsor, Delegate See (R-Allegany), the Senate committee changed its attitude and voted approval today. Senator Crothers (D-Cecil), committee Chairman, said 40 other states now have a statutory "Poetry Day" and there is no reason Maryland shouldn't.

The reconsideration of the bill yesterday came after Senator Robert B. Kimble, Senate minority leader, asked that the former action be reconsidered.

Both Delegate See and Mrs. See appeared before the committee, urging the passage of the measure.

Seek QM Laboratory

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday introduced a House resolution requesting General Marshall to locate a proposed Army Quartermaster Corps laboratory in Cumberland.

The resolution was referred to the House Ways and Means committee and is expected to receive a favorable report today.

Heads House Group

Delegate Fred B. Driscoll, Cumberland, yesterday was appointed chairman of a House Minority committee named to re-distribute Maryland in order to name a seventh congressman.

The state is entitled to name one additional congressman as the result of the 1950 census figures.

Safety Department Proposed

Delegates See and Reed yesterday introduced a bill to set up a separate state Department of Safety.

The department is now part of the Workmen's Compensation Department.

The measure would divorce the unit from its present department but would not increase the cost to the taxpayers since present personnel, a director, five inspectors and one stenographer would comprise the staff.

4-H Adult Leaders To Attend Meeting

About 100 adult 4-H Club leaders from Allegany and Garrett counties will atend a district leaders meeting at LaVale Fire Hall from 10 a. m. until 3:30 p. m. Saturday.

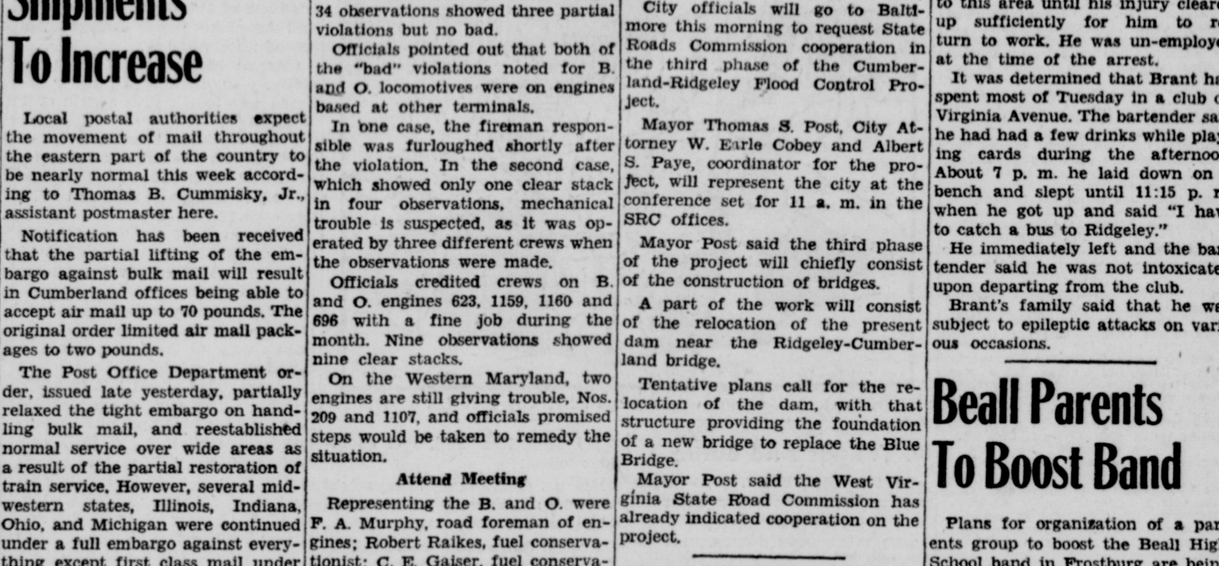
Features of the meeting will be two speeches by Wakeline McNeel, former Wisconsin State 4-H Club agent, now retired. He will discuss "Helping Youth in These Confused Times," and "Victories in Other Lives."

Other speakers will be Mylo Downey, Maryland State Boys 4-H Club agent, and Miss Dorothy Emerson, State Girls 4-H Club agent.

Frankfort Assault Trial Today

The trial of City Police probationary officer Carl W. Frankfort on charges of assault preferred by William Shumaker is scheduled for today at 10 a. m. in Trial Magistrates Court.

The warrant, issued by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew, alleges that Frankfort assaulted Shumaker with a blackjack near Midway Inn, January 28.



Red Cross Trains Home Nurse Instructors

A group of local trainees have begun a 30-hour course in home nursing under the supervision of the American Red Cross at Allegany Hospital. The program is scheduled to coincide with national Red Cross civil defense plan to have a corps of instructors available to teach 700,000 persons home nursing so that there will be at least one person in every home familiar with the rudiments of nursing in the event of national or local disaster. Left to right, standing, are Miss Joan Broeseker, Mrs. Bartlett, Mrs. Greta Beeman, Miss Betty Engle, Mrs. Lona Daum, Miss Thelma Seiforth, Miss Dottie Kerr, Miss Evelyn Kinsinger, Miss Rose Gormer, Miss Vivienne Pough, Mrs. Jean Finley who is Nursing Arts Instructor at Allegany high school, Mrs. Harriet Boore, Miss Eleanor Keefe, Miss Fena Andersen, training instructor, and the patient, Mrs. Clara McGibbon.

Zero Weather, High Wind, Snow Hit Tri-State

Stadium Poles Blown Over At Fort Hill

Winter-weary residents of the Tri-State area got another jolt late yesterday when temperatures plunged from above freezing to around the zero level as high winds up to 60-miles-an-hour and snow in some portions added to the discomfort and danger.

One of the most spectacular events locally was the collapse of two 60-foot poles, each carrying 24 lights, at the Fort Hill High School Stadium.

In Ridgeley, W. Va., the top and hood of a 1934-model automobile parked at Morgan's Trade School blew off.

Snow Blowing

State Police at the LaVale barracks reported that Garrett county was blanketed with about three inches of snow by about 10:30 o'clock last night and it still was falling. The high winds blew the snow so that motorists had virtually no visability. Throughout that county drivers were advised to stay off the roads.

In Allegany county the snow was concentrated in the area around Frostburg and just east of Cumberland. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad reported snow along Orleans Road near Little Orleans, east of Cumberland.

In the West Virginia area southwest of Cumberland snow and below zero thermometer readings were given. At Thomas, W. Va., the Western Maryland Railroad reported about four inches of snow and a temperature of two degrees below zero at 10:30 o'clock. The B & O said snow was falling in the Hardman, W. Va. area, not far from Grafton.

Zero Temperatures

Other low temperatures in the area by 10:30 o'clock last night were at Deal, Pa., zero and three inches of snow; Altamont, four degrees and high winds; Terra Alta, W. Va., zero and high winds.

At Constitution Park here in Cumberland yesterday's high reading was 39 degrees and at 10 p. m., it was 12 degrees, the day's low to that point, but still falling.

Frostburg had its coldest evening so far this year yesterday as the thermometer plunged down to five above zero at 8:50 p. m.

Amer Suder, official weather observer, said the thermometer has been down as far as five below this winter, but in the early morning hours.

Travel Hazardous

The Weather Bureau in Baltimore issued this special bulletin at 8:30 o'clock last night:

"Most roads and highways in Maryland tonight are dangerous and slippery. Travel should be avoided where possible during tonight and early Thursday. Where travel is necessary extreme caution should be exercised. Temperatures by early Thursday are expected to lower to zero to eight degrees in extreme Western Maryland and 10 to 15 elsewhere across northern Maryland. Continued high winds will prevail through tonight and Thursday."

Turnpike Bus Crash Takes Two Lives

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Feb. 7 (AP) — Two persons were killed and at least four others were critically injured tonight when a Greyhound bus crashed on the Pennsylvania Turnpike near Willow Hill.

Cpl. Joseph Vent, State Police, said original estimates of at least four persons dead were revised after a check.

He said State Police were unable to identify the two dead persons and there was no accurate estimate of the injured because they were taken to three various hospitals.

Vent said the bus, driven by Donald MacDock, 27, of Pittsburgh, was traveling east from Pittsburgh to Harrisburg. It skidded on the icy highway, Vent added, and struck a guard rail.

The bus then careened across the medial strip of the highway and crashed into two tractor trailers.

Vent said MacDock was seriously injured.

Mechanic Burned When Gas Ignites

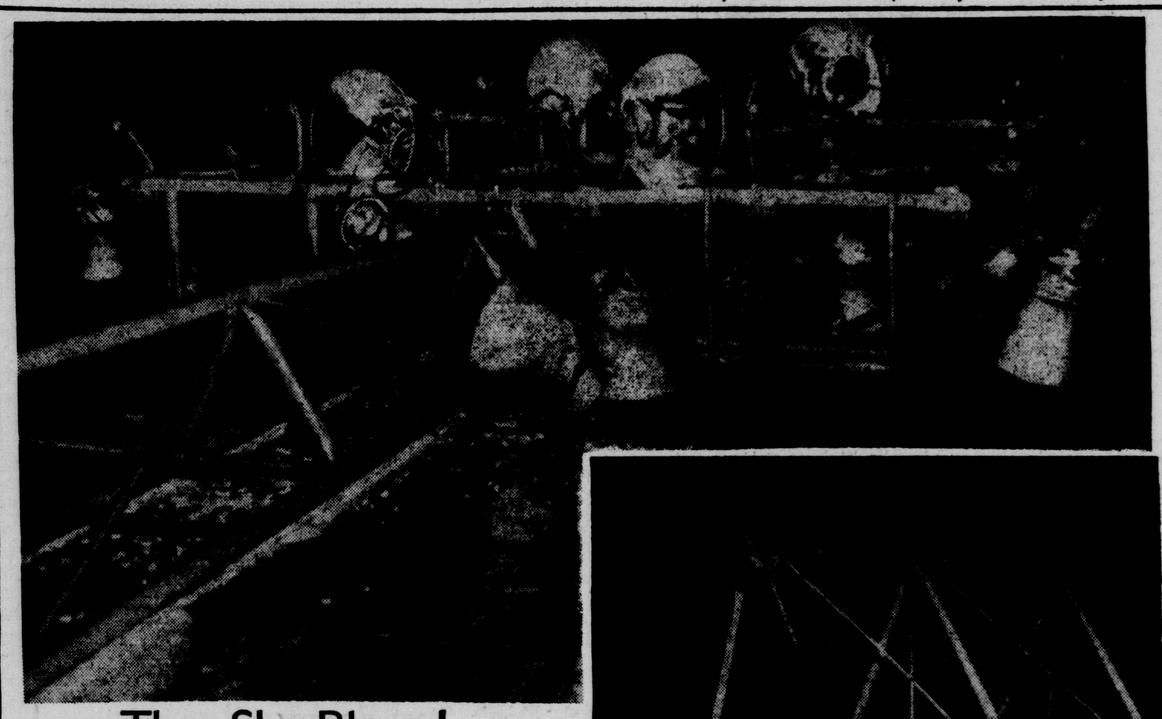
A local man was slightly injured yesterday afternoon when gasoline he was using to clean parts of an electric mangle ignited.

Central Fire Company said George Vannoy, Spring Gap, mechanic for the Stein Funeral Home, 117 Frederick Street, suffered minor burns on the hand when a defective electric cord ignited the gasoline.

Slight damage was caused in the basement of the funeral home, firemen said.

Central firemen were called twice to the Central Lunch, 71 Centre Street, early last evening after a wooden grill near a hot plate became overheated and ignited.

West Side Fire Company was called to the home of D. W. Johnson, 647 Sedgwick Street, yesterday at 4:55 p. m. after a flue became overheated.



Thar She Blows!

Two light towers, each 60 feet high and carrying 24 candles or flood lights, were blown down in Fort Hill High School stadium last evening as the worst gale and coldest weather of this winter struck the area. The flood lights are used as part of a system to floodlight the field for night games. The lights had been erected less than six months ago.

Three Injured When Cars Crash On Icy Highway

Frostburg Celanese Workers Are Hurt

Three Celanese workers were injured, one of them seriously, late yesterday afternoon in a three-car collision on Route 40 at the west end of Eckhart.

Most seriously injured was James Bennett, 62, of 65 East Main Street, Frostburg, who was taken to Memorial Hospital in a State Police ambulance.

He was suffering from possible broken back but was reported in good condition. X-rays will be taken today to determine the extent of injuries.

Treated at Miners Hospital, Frostburg, were:

Bernard Wade, 42, of 68 Bowery Street, Frostburg, for lacerations and possible fractures.

John Blake, 62, of Bowery Street, Frostburg, for shock and possible fractured ribs.

Trooper Donald Wade, who investigated, said all of the injured men, including his brother, were riding in a car driven by Irwin P. Kyle, 58, of 164 East College Avenue, Frostburg, who was examined at Miners Hospital for possible injuries.

Kyle's car, State Police said, skidded on the ice covered highway about 4:50 p. m., and turned completely around, colliding with an eastbound car driven by William Kerr, Frostburg. Just as the two cars collided, a third car, driven by Matthew Adams, Brooklyn, N. Y., hit the rear of Kerr's car.

Constitutional Convention Is Urged By JC

Send Telegrams To County Delegation

The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce voted last night at its meeting at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club to send a telegram to the Allegany county delegation in Annapolis requesting that this county's representatives stand by the "mandate" to hold a Constituional Convention in Maryland.

In another action, the membership voted to accept the Miss Cumberland contract and sponsor a Miss Cumberland pageant again this year. This occurred after Donald Coomber reported that the Maryland Junior Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the state contest and the Baltimore Jaycees will sponsor the contest in that city.

Edwin Rinner informed the Jaycees that Governor McKeldin has proclaimed the week beginning Monday as Americanism Week in cooperation with the Jaycees "Voice of Democracy" program in which Rinner is state chairman.

Principal speaker last night was L. Leslie Helmer, superintendent of personnel at the Celanese plant here, who talked on "A Peek Behind the Iron Curtain." Some time ago Helmer was among a group of business men who met in New York City and heard a group of fugitives from Soviet Russia contrast conditions there with those in the United States.

Miss Susan Strong, representative of the Barter Theatre of Virginia, informed the Jaycees about "Glass Menagerie," the Barter production which will be presented at the Allegany High School next Wednesday.

The Jaycee telegram to the Allegany county delegation:

"We respectfully request the implimentation of the Constitutional Convention. Both party platforms backed it and its passage by a four-to-one vote in the State and by a two-to-one vote in this county constitute a mandate to the representatives to stand behind it."

Women Protest Youth's Spitting Activities Here

Residents of the Decatur Street area have registered bitter complaints against the activities of a man who has spit into the faces of about a dozen women in that section.

Police, contacted last night, said that complaints have been received and orders have been issued to put a halt to the man's depredations.

Some 10 women, three of them wives of city and state policemen, are among the victims who have reported the "spitting" attacks.

An Allegany Hospital nurse and several housewives are included in the victims who live on Decatur and Bedford Streets and Baltimore Avenue.

The women said the man walked up to them as if about to speak and then spat full in their faces.

One of the victims said the spitting occurred by daylight but most reported the action during early night.

The man was described as about five feet, seven inches tall, about 18 years old and was wearing crepe soled shoes and a jacket.

Local Mail Shipments To Increase

Local postal authorities expect the movement of mail throughout the eastern part of the country to be nearly normal this week according to Thomas B. Cummisky, Jr., assistant postmaster here.

Notification has been received that the partial lifting of the embargo against bulk mail will result in Cumberland offices being able to accept air mail up to 70 pounds. The original order limited air mail packages to two pounds.

The Post Office Department order, issued late yesterday, partially relaxed the tight embargo on handling bulk mail, and reestablished normal service over wide areas as a result of the partial restoration of train service. However, several midwestern states, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan were continued under a full embargo against everything except first class mail under eight ounces, daily newspapers, medical and surgical supplies, and money shipments from banks.

William R. Thayer, superintendent of mails, reported an increase in third class mail yesterday and said that incoming parcel post was almost back to normal. He declined to say whether this was the result of the order or not.

Reject Wage Offer

Drivers and Warehousemen of area wholesale grocery firms have rejected a $2 a week wage offer, C. E. Stutzman, business manager of Local 453, Teamsters Union, said. Negotations will continue, he added.

Railroads Get Good Marks On Smoke Control

Partial Violations Held To 9 Per Cent

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Western Maryland Railway received good marks Tuesday at a Cumberland Terminal Meeting.

Reports presented at the meeting showed both railroads had partial violations in about nine per cent of the observations made.

Less than 10 per cent is a good record, George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, reported.

Joseph M. Miller, superintendent of the Elkins division of the Western Maryland Railway, officiated at the meeting held in City Hall.

No Bad Violations

The Western Maryland Railway's 34 observations showed three partial violations but no bad.

Platt said that Fort Hill High School is the only one in the county which now has such a parents' group.

DIES IN KOREA — Mr. and Mrs. John B. Shannon, 170 McCulloh Street, Frostburg, have just received word that their son, Pfc. Joseph Michael Shannon, above, has been officially listed as dead. Previously, the Shannons had been informed August 10 that their son had been missing in action in the Korean War since July 25. Another son, Corp. Robert E. Shannon, has been reported missing in action since December 6.

School Conducts Choral Reading Demonstrations

Centre Street Scene Of Two Programs

A choral reading demonstration, similar to one presented yesterday afternoon at Centre Street School, will be offered again this afternoon at the Cumberland school.

About 50 teachers from Cumberland, LaVale, Frostburg, Corriganville, Eckhart and Ellerslie watched the demonstration yesterday by pupils in the second, fourth, fifth and sixth grades at Centre Street School.

Miss Agnes Lauder, school principal, and her teachers conducted the demonstration from about 2:15 until 3:30 p. m. Choral reading is reading in unison in which meaning, mood and rhythm are emphasized.

Miss Winifred Green, elementary school supervisor, officiated at the discussion which followed the demonstration. A leader in the discussion was Miss Loretta McGeady, former principal at Centre Street School and now principal at Johnson Heights School, who was a pioneer in the choral reading program. Among others who attended were School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp, Miss Mildred Willison and Miss Jane Botsford, elementary supervisors, and Miss Mary Walsh, librarian of the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Another group of teachers will attend this afternoon's demonstration and Miss Willison will lead this discussion.

Progress Noted In Sanitation

Corrective measures are being taken in connection with 186 sanitation complaints made in January, Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, said yesterday.

Highlights of the month were the razing of five condemned dwellings, improvement in sewage nuisance conditions and the opening of a drive to curb roadside dumping.

J. B. Dowling, state sanitarian, said a complicated sewage condition on several highways, where raw sewage was seeping upon the highway and freezing, is being corrected.

Plans for water and sewage disposal disposal systems in the county are going forward satisfactorily, Dowling said.

Members of the department made some 344 field trips during the month, including a number of conferences with home owners on septic tank installations.

Classes of student nurses from Memorial Hopital were conducted on tours by the sanitation department as part of their training.

Continuing efforts are being made, in cooperation with the State Roads Commission, to correct unsanitary and unsightly nuisances caused by roadside dumping.

Deadline Is Today

Area artists were reminded yesterday that today is the deadline for submitting entries in the Tri-State Art Exhibit, which will begin Monday in the auditorium of the Cumberland Free Public Library and will run until March 16.

Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, said that many artists have submitted entries. Two are permitted for each entrant.

Births Announced

Memorial Hospital announces the following bitrhs:

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Somerville, 209 Fayette Street a son yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Vincent, Dawson, a daughter yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Shoemaker, RFD No. 1, Oldtown, a daughter yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Walburn, 212 Elder Street, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Miller, Hyndman, Pa., a son Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Culbertson, Plainfield, N. J. a son February 2 in Muhlenberg Hospital there. Mrs. Culbertson is the former Betty Love Macfarlane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Grant Macfarlane, 328 Fayette Street.

Delegation Gives Approval For Local Measures

Poetry Day Bill Revived In Senate

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday issued favorable reports on five bills, including one which would set up fees for candidates in Cumberland elections.

The first, HB64, requires that candidates for mayor of Cumberland pay a $40 filing fee with $25 fees for council candidates, and abolishes present petition requirements. It was passed by the Delegation and will receive its third hearing in the House soon.

HB 163, by the Delegation, received a favorable report yesterday and is slated for its third reading soon.

The measure would allow the Board of Allegany County Commissioners to spend amounts up to $3,500 without a bidding but requires advertising and bidding on expenditures greater than that amount.

Approve Lonaconing Bill

HB 149, introduced by Delegate Noel Speir Cook, providing slight increases in pay for the mayor and council of Lonaconing, received a favorable report.

HB 182, by Cook, to speed up revision of land plats of this county, was reported out favorably. It authorized the county to spend $2,000 yearly, instead of $1,000, but does not increase allocations for the work.

HB 12, sponsored by Delegate See, (Allegany), and Delegate Virts (Frederick) requesting the Employment Commission to set up an examination and create the job of dictaphone typist, received a favorable delegation report.

The work is now classed as stenographic. With the change in classification, and a new type of examination, blind people could qualify for the work.

Poetry Day Revived

A legal "Poetry Day" in Maryland got a new lease on life yesterday.

A bill to designate Oct. 15 as annual Poetry Day had been given an unfavorable report by the Senate Judiciary Committee recently. But the committee and the Senate was prevailed to take it back for more consideration.

After listening to its sponsor, Delegate See (R-Allegany), the Senate committee changed its attitude and voted approval today. Senator Crothers (D-Cecil), committee Chairman, said 40 other states now have a statutory "Poetry Day" and there is no reason Maryland shouldn't.

The reconsideration of the bill yesterday came after Senator Robert B. Kimble, Senate minority leader, asked that the former action be reconsidered.

Both Delegate See and Mrs. See appeared before the committee, urging the passage of the measure.

Seek QM Laboratory

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday introduced a House resolution requesting General Marshall to locate a proposed Army Quartermaster Corps laboratory in Cumberland.

The resolution was referred to the House Ways and Means committee and is expected to receive a favorable report today.

Heads House Group

Delegate Fred B. Driscoll, Cumberland, yesterday was appointed chairman of a House Minority committee named to re-distribute Maryland in order to name a seventh congressman.

The state is entitled to name one additional congressman as the result of the 1950 census figures.

Safety Department Proposed

Delegates See and Reed yesterday introduced a bill to set up a separate state Department of Safety.

The department is now part of the Workmen's Compensation Department.

The measure would divorce the unit from its present department but would not increase the cost to the taxpayers since present personnel, a director, five inspectors and one stenographer would comprise the staff.

4-H Adult Leaders To Attend Meeting

About 100 adult 4-H Club leaders from Allegany and Garrett counties will atend a district leaders meeting at LaVale Fire Hall from 10 a. m. until 3:30 p. m. Saturday.

Features of the meeting will be two speeches by Wakeline McNeel, former Wisconsin State 4-H Club agent, now retired. He will discuss "Helping Youth in These Confused Times," and "Victories in Other Lives."

Other speakers will be Mylo Downey, Maryland State Boys 4-H Club agent, and Miss Dorothy Emerson, State Girls 4-H Club agent.

Frankfort Assault Trial Today

The trial of City Police probationary officer Carl W. Frankfort on charges of assault preferred by William Shumaker is scheduled for today at 10 a. m. in Trial Magistrates Court.

The warrant, issued by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew, alleges that Frankfort assaulted Shumaker with a blackjack near Midway Inn, January 28.

Red Cross Trains Home Nurse Instructors

A group of local trainees have begun a 30-hour course in home nursing under the supervision of the American Red Cross at Allegany Hospital. The program is scheduled to coincide with national Red Cross civil defense plan to have a corps of instructors available to teach 700,000 persons home nursing so that there will be at least one person in every home familiar with the rudiments of nursing in the event of national or local disaster. Left to right, standing, are Miss Joan Broeseker, Mrs. Bartlett, Mrs. Greta Beeman, Miss Betty Engle, Mrs. Lona Daum, Miss Thelma Seiforth, Miss Dottie Kerr, Miss Evelyn Kinsinger, Miss Rose Gormer, Miss Vivienne Pough, Mrs. Jean Finley who is Nursing Arts Instructor at Allegany high school, Mrs. Harriet Boore, Miss Eleanor Keefe, Miss Fena Andersen, training instructor, and the patient, Mrs. Clara McGibbon.

End Of Switchmen's Walkout In Sight

Back-To-Work Movement Hits St. Louis Area

Embargo On Bulk Mail Is Relaxed

[By The Associated Press]

Striking switchmen drifted back to work in scattered rail yards in increasing numbers Wednesday amid indications that their numbers would swell Thursday.

At St. Louis, a union official said idle switchmen in the St. Louis area would resume work midnight Wednesday. E. W. Boggs, international vice president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said some 2,000 switchmen would be back at work in the area "within two days."

This was the first back-to-work movement reported in the St. Louis area since the walkout began more than a week ago.

A similar report came from Toledo, where Richard J. Jones, president of union Local 152, said he was confident operations would return to normal in the Toledo area "within two or three days." He said at least 75 per cent of the striking switchmen would report for work at the first trick Thursday.

Mail Embargo Relaxed

The Pennsylvania Railroad said normal freight operations have been restored and the New York Central said it was back to 30 per cent of normal in the Toledo area.

Reports of a back to work trend came after a federal judge in Chicago urged the Army to "get some soldiers" to see that the roads operate. The judge is hearing contempt charges against the striking switchmen.

New mediation efforts were resumed in Washington, meanwhile, and W. P. Kennedy, head of the striking switchmen, said "things look good" for settlement.

The Postoffice Department partially relaxed its tight embargo on the handling of bulk mail. The new order permits normal service within the eastern and western halves of the nation but not between them.

The full emargo remains in force for St. Louis and its nearby postoffices and the states of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan, except for the upper peninsula.

However, the two-pound limit on air parcel post mailings was set

Air View Of Train Wreck Scene

This diagrammed air view shows how a commuter train switched off from the main tracks at Woodbridge, N. J., Tuesday night for a short run over a temporary wooden overpass which ended in disaster and death for at least 83. Switch connecting main and detour tracks has been removed since accident.

Wrecked Train Traveling Twice Authorized Limit

Death Toll Reaches 83; Probes Launched

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., Feb. 7 (AP) — High speed of a death-dealing commuter train was cited by authorities today as they opened a many-armed probe into one of the nation's worst rail disasters.

At least 83 died and 500 were injured in the roaring, steel-rending crackup last night.

An army of federal, state and local officials joined in the sweeping investigation, as emergency workers still toiled to clear the twisted, smashed ruins of the 11-car express train.

Assistant Middlesex County Prosecutor Alex Eber said that the crowded Pennsylvania Railroad train, "The Broker," was traveling twice its authorized speed when it hurtled off the tracks.

No Caution Signals

On the basis of preliminary findings, he said, "there are clear indications that speed was involved in the derailment."

He also said there were no caution signals in the immediate vicinity of a newly-built trestle where the train wobbled dizzily, then plunged off the side of a 20-foot embankment.

Eber's statement came after bedside interviews with the train's shaken, injured engineer, Joseph Fitzsimmons, and its injured conductor, John Bishop.

Fitzsimmons, veteran of 33 accident-free years on the rails, was quoted as saying he was traveling 50 miles an hour, although the railroad had fixed a 25-mile speed limit over the temporary overpass. It was his first run over the new spur, officials said.

Sabotage Possibility Checked

He had slowed the train from 60 miles per hour, his statement said, but had not further retarded his speed because he found no caution signal on the curving approach to the trestle.

The engineer admitted he knew about the special speed limit, Eber said.

"When we have compiled all the facts," the prosecutor added, "we then will determine whether there

Hoover Agrees To Serve As Advisor In Truman's Food-For-India Campaign

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Herbert Hoover, frequently a sharp critic of administration policy, joined today in President Truman's drive to put through a vast program for feeding famished India.

The Republican former President gave his advice on the proposal at a White House meeting with Mr. Truman and his top aides. Expressing support for at least the fundamental aim of the program, Hoover told a news conference:

"This has nothing to do with politics, but our fundamental Christian faith. x x x The United States has never in its history failed to be helpful to a famine-stricken people. x x x It will require some sacrifices from all of us."

May Make Grain Available

Hoover indicated he will be available for future advisory work on the relief project.

He refrained from approving specific details of a proposal advanced in some quarters for providing 2,000,000 tons of American grain at a cost of some $200,000,000 to relieve hunger in India resulting from drought, locusts and other troubles.

He made it plain that he expects a large share of the food to come out of this country's stocks but said plans must be worked out also for use of surplus foods from countries much nearer India where the transportation problem will be less.

Nehru Irks Legislators

Cooperation from the former President was sought by the administration in part for its effect on a Congress which does not feel unanmously generous toward India. A good many of the lawmakers disapprove of Prime Minister Nehru's attitude toward Communist China, and are irked over Indian opposition to the United Nations move to brand the Peiping regime as an aggressor in Korea.

The next step, to which today's session appeared to be in part a buildup, will be a conference Friday between Mr. Truman and the chairmen and the ranking Republicans of the Senate and House Foreign Committees.

New Cold Front Moves Into East

[By The Associated Press]

A wave of frigid air swept east from the icy midwest Wednesday. The cold front, reaching from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, moved rapidly toward the Atlantic seaboard.

But forecasters said the weather is not expected to be as severe in the south and east as it was during last week's destructive cold wave.

The Weather Bureau in Chicago predicted temperatures would start to rise in the nation's midsection Thursday.

Wednesday, however, was another wintry day in the Midwest.

Singer Bill Lawrence Enters Army Feb. 14

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP) — Bill Lawrence, popular young radio and television vocalist who got his start through "Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts" program in 1948, is going into the Army.

He is scheduled to report for induction at Mauch Chunk, Pa., Feb. 14.

House Inserts 4 Restrictions Into Trade Bill

Extension Measure Is Sent To Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—With Republicans calling the shots, the House overrode the administration today and wrote four restrictions into the reciprocal trade program. Then it passed, by voice vote, a bill extending the program three years.

Under the program, which dates back to Franklin D. Roosevelt days, the government cuts tariffs in return for trade concessions from foreign nations. The extension bill now goes to the Senate, where administration men are expected to fight to kill the restrictions.

Republicans, backed by some Democrats, succeeded in rewriting the bill to insert these curbs:

"Escape" Clause Inserted

1. An "escape' clause to protect American products. The tariff commission would study the effect of trade agreements. If it found American business is being hurt by imports, the President could, but would not have to, modify the agreement. This was approved by a standing vote of 191 to 89.

2. A "peril point" clause. The Tariff Commission would determine a peril point below which it would be dangerous to reduce a tariff. If the President cut below that point, he would have to explain fully to Congress. Approved 198 to 107 on a standing vote.

3. A provision forbidding tariff cuts on foreign farm goods competing with American products unless the imports sell at a price higher than the U. S. support price. Approved 174 to 110, standing vote.

No Concessions To Russia

4. Bar Russia and its satellites from any tariff concession, directly or indirectly, under future trade agreements. Approved by unanimous voice vote.

An original GOP plan to cut the extension period to two years from June 12, instead of three, was abandoned.

Advocates of the restrictive amendments argued that they were necessary to prevent harm to American business and a lowering of the living standards of American workers.

U. S. Asks Russia To Return Ships

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The United States today formally demanded that Russia immediately return 672 lend-lease naval and merchant ships sent to her aid in World War II.

The State Department disclosed a note demanding this was handed to Soviet Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin at today's stalmated lend-lease talks.

At the same time, the State Department confirmed it is asking the Soviet Union to pay $800,000,000 to settle up Russia's overdue lend-lease account of $10,800,000,000. Russia reportedly has countered with a "final offer" of $240,000,000.

Russia representatives have refused to discuss return of the 672 ships, officials said. The Soviets insist Russia wants to buy the vessels, which include 87 merchant ships.

But the U. S. government flatly refuses to sell them to Moscow unless the Rusians settle up their overall lend-lease account.

Navy Expansion OK'd

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP) — A $2,740,092,000 program for building up the Navy's fighting power won the unanimous approval today of a Senate Armed Services Subcommittee.

Remington Is Found Guilty

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—Former Government economist William W. Remington tonight was convicted of perjury by a federal court jury that ruled he lied when he denied he ever was a Communist.

Remington took the verdict wordlessly, but a heavy frown furrowed his brow. He had shown little emotion during the trial.

WILLIAM REMINGTON—Convicted of perjury.

The jury of seven women and five men deliberated four hours and 32 minutes.

Remington was accused during the trial of using his government post to transmit secrets to Elizabeth Bentley, a self-described former courier for a Communist spy ring.

Faces Prison And Fine

The perjury charge was the same one on which Alger Hiss was convicted. He, too, was accused of betraying government office to aid Soviet spies. Hiss is appealing a five-year prison term.

Remington, blond and handsome 33-year-old economist, formerly held a $10,000 a year post with the Commerce Department.

He faces a maximum term of five years in prison and a $2,000 fine as a result of the jury's verdict.

Witnesses testified Remington was a Communist since his youth. His former wife was one of those who testified against him during his 32-day trial.

After the jury announced its verdict, it was polled at the request of the defense. Each juror was asked:

"Is that your verdict?"

Each juror answered:

"Yes."

Jury Has Case Six Hours

There was a dead silence elsewhere in the courtroom as the muted voices of the jurors answered the clerk's poll.

When they finished, Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan turned toward the jury and told them:

"I want to extend to each member of the jury the thanks of the court for the consideration you have given the testimony in the course of the trial.

"I believe the verdict you have arrived at is a fair one."

The jury got the case at 4:10 p. m. (EST) After a series of interruptions the jury returned to the courtroom with the verdict at 10:10 p. m.

Judge Noonan revoked Remington's $5,000 bail and set sentencing for 2 p. m. tomorrow.

New Steps Loom As Cost Of Living Continues Climb

Johnston Expects Halt By Midsummer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The nation's top economic officials, worried over food prices, today prepared new steps to slow the continuing rise in the cost of living.

Despite the present price "freeze," Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston said the cost of living will probably rise for "a few months." But he said it can be halted by midsummer, after which it can be held level only by stricter credit controls, high taxes and greater production.

Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson was described by an aide as "very concerned" over rises in some food prices. And he was reported planning to suggest some changes in the Defense Production Act — changes that would allow tighter curbs on food prices.

Truman Message Anticipated

There is a growing expectation that President Truman himself will send such a message to Congress about Feb. 15. This could be the signal for a major battle.

Under the Defense Production Act, the Office of Price Stabilization cannot at present put rigid ceiling prices on most farm products—meat being the most important exception.

Leading restaurant men complained to the OPS today that they are being squeezed by the continuing rise in food costs. OPS officials heard the complaint and announced that they are considering a propoeal to enable restaurants to boost prices to the extent of their direct cost increases since the Jan. 25 freeze data.

Wool Products Exempted

The OPS postponed for a day or two its expected order regulating slaughterers. This is designated to prevent black markets in meats.

Late today the agency exempted from its price freeze virtually all wool products earmarked for national defense, including woolen and worsted yarns and textiles. The purpose: To make it easier for the government to buy those things.

Members of Congress from farm states were ready to resist any attempt to tighten up on farm prices. And cotton dealers, with powerful backing from southern senators, are seeking to wipe out price controls from raw cotton at the gin level and on the cotton exchanges.

Laborites Win Commons Test

LONDON, Feb. 7 (AP) — Britain's Labor government turned back by a 10-vote margin tonight an attempt by Conservative Leader Winston Churchill to force a new general election over the government's plans to take control of the steel industry.

The outcome means the 92 major firms in the British iron and steel business will pass into the hands of a government holding company, the British Iron and Steel Corporation, Feb. 15.

The Laborites mustered 308 votes in the House of Commons to 298 for the opposition and rejected a motion by Churchill stating that nationalization of steel "is not in the public interest and should be reversed."

While the motion did not contain the words "no confidence," sources close to Prime Minister Attlee said before the vote they were certain that, if the motion passed, he would ask King George VI to dissolve Parliament and call a new election.

Gasoline Fire Checked

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 7 (AP)—A big storage tank fire destroyed more than 1,000,000 gallons of gasoline and threatened a section along the Houston ship channel before weary firemen controlled it today. Some 20 firemen were injured.

Reds Backed Against River Before Capital

ON WESTERN KOREAN FRONT, Thursday, Feb. 8 (AP)—U. S. tanks shelled Seoul today.

Tanks of an American task force thrust within four miles of the Red-held South Korean capital and began firing into the city.

The task force approached Seoul from a position north of Anyang.

TOKYO, Thursday, Feb. 8 (AP)—The Allied offensive today swept close to Seoul and U. S. tanks and artillery hammered at Chinese Red troops backed against the thawing Han River.

Artillery wheeled up within easy firing range of the smashed and almost deserted city, where typhus was reported raging. The Reds rolled ahead along this western front in gains of up to two miles. One column drove to within four miles of the Han, which flows past Seoul.

The Eighth Army announced that the two other armored raider columns struck heavy resistance eight to 10 miles southwest of Seoul. An increasing number of Russian-made mines slowed the advance on this 15th day of the limited United Nations offensive.

Ice On Han Breaking Up

The Chinese Communist 50th Army Corps retreated five and one-half miles over a two-day period to new positions less than six miles south of the Han.

Ice which had formed a hard surface over the river wore thin in an early thaw and began to crack.

Log bridges were being thrown across the Han by Communist engineers who feared a sudden thaw would leave them with no escape route to the north.

As menacing as the thaw were the flashing bayonets of U. S. troops as they fought forward with their Turkish allies.

One spectacular American bayonet charge drove Chinese from a vital hill three miles west of Anyang, a small town eight and one-half miles south of Seoul.

Associated Press War Correspondent Jim Becker reported the advancing soldiers were held up by 100 Chinese Reds, who hurled hand grenades down on them from the summit.

40 Reds Bayoneted To Death

Capt. Lewis Millett of South Dartmouth, Mass., gave his company the order to fix bayonets, then crisply added:

"We're going to drive those bastards off that hill."

The Reds fled in confusion at the sight of gleaming American steel, but 40 Chinese were bayoneted to death before they could escape. Another 50 were shot as they fled down the slopes.

American bayonets flashed a second time Wednesday north of

Church Says Reds Can't Push UN Out

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The man who commanded the 24th Division throughout the heaviest fighting so far in Korea says it simply isn't in the Chinese Communists to build up force enough to drive United Nations armies off the peninsula.

The U. N. forces chew up the Red masses too fast for that, Maj. Gen. John H. Church told a news conference today.

He said there is a "possibility" that the U. N. will drive on north of the 38th parallel. However, he was talking only about possible ability to do that if it is desired, explaining that the decision depends on directives from the U. N.

There have been reports the U. N. forces would stop short of the old dividing line between North and South Korea. One idea behind that suggestion is that it might keep the way open for a diplomatic settlement.

Russian Charges Rejected By U. N.

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 7 (AP)—The United Nations Political Committee buried under landslide votes today the last two Russian charges against the United States still hanging in the U. N. General Assembly. The committee agreed with the United States that the Russian accusations were "baseless."

A Soviet charge that the U. S. committed aggression against Formosa was beaten down, 49 to 5. The Soviet bloc voted alone for it while Yugoslavia, Burma and Indonesia abstained.

The second Soviet defeat was on a resolution asking the General Assembly to condemn the U. S. for bombing Red Chinese territory in Manchuria. The vote was 50 to 5. The Soviet bloc again voted alone for the charges. Afghanistan and Yugoslavia abstained.

As the committee voted, Lester B. Pearson, Canadian foreign minister, said in Ottawa he had declined a place on the three-man Good Offices Committee. That group is being organized at the Assembly's orders by Nashrollah Entezam, Assembly president, in an effort to bring peace in Korea.

9 Die As Marine Transport Plane Crashes In Virginia

EASTVILLE, Va., Feb. 7 (AP)—A Marine transport plane crashed in a rain and windstorm near this Virginia eastern shore community today, killing all nine men aboard.

The two-engined craft, en route from Cherry point, N. C., to Floyd Bennett Field, N. Y., spun out of control in the heavy rain, a witness said, and cracked up on the edge of a creek.

Five bodies had been removed from the wreckage at 9 p. m., said a spokesman at the nearby Chincoteague Naval Air Station, and four bodies remained in the plane.

The Chincoteague spokesman said he was told by a naval officer at the scene of the crash that at least two of the bodies would not be removed until tomorrow. He said officials were uncertain whether they would be able to remove any more of the men tonight.

At the time the plane crashed, a nearby farmer—who could not be identified—said the craft appeared to be "out of control" in very high winds, the Chincoteague spokesman said.

The big ship, an R4Q Fairchild tactical transport, shattered into two large pieces when it hit. The nose came to rest on the bank on Hungar's Creek. The fuselage settled slowly into the waters of the stream.

Legislation To Call State Constitutional Convention Killed

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 7 (AP) — Legislation to call a state constitutional convention was dealt its death blow today.

The House of Delegates voted 64-56 to uphold an unfavorable report on the bill by its Ways and Means Committee.

Even leading backers of the measure to call a convention to revise Maryland's 84-year-old constitution conceded after the decisive vote that it has no chance of revival, and were making no plans to try again.

The bill drew its support from Baltimore City and some of the larger counties. The smaller counties teamed up against it.

It was evident from the 70 minutes of debate preceding the balloting that many small county delegates wanted to make sure that the city, through a convention, would not get a chance to increase its representation in the General Assembly.

Thirty-three of the votes for a convention came from city Democrats. Seven Democrats from the counties voted for it, as did 16 Republicans, including the lone Baltimore Republican.

Speaking for the bill, Delegate Hopkins (R-Balto 3rd) noted that the electorate voted nearly 4 to 1 for a convention call in a referendum last November, and considered it a mandate.

On the other hand, Delegate Reed (R-Allegany) said he felt that, although his county voted in favor of a convention at the referendum, "I feel it my bounden duty x x x to vigorously oppose enactment," of the measure.

"If children of a family want something that a parent conceived to be detrimental to the welfare of the children, it would be a wise parent" who would refuse them that something, he said.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6 (AP)—A House committee has a sweet tooth but looked sourly today on a bill to exempt candy from the sales tax.

Even while it still was eating exhibits by candy manufacturers who supported the bill yesterday, the Ways and Means Committee gave the bill an unfavorable report.

"It showed we can't be bribed," said one committeeman.

Nevada Blasts Shed Light On Atom Missiles Problem

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP) — America's know-how on atomic artillery shells and guided missiles was greatly increased by the five earth-shaking nuclear blasts set off recently in Nevada, a source in position to know said today.

That source has access to atomic data but may not be more closely identified.

There was no word on whether any of the explosions which lighted the mountains and deserts for hundreds of miles were actually those of atomic warheads on shells or guided missiles. It does now appear certain, however, that the tests pushed forward the research on how to make and fire weapons other than atomic bombs.

Development of guided missiles or shells would vastly expand the war usefulness of nuclear blast power.

The bombs of the past are by their nature limited weapons. They must be planted in place as in the first test at Alamogordo, N. M., or dropped from vast heights by big airplanes as was done over Hiroshima and Nazasaki, the two place actually subject to A-blast in war.

Acheson Blames Tension On Arms Buildup By Reds

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today blamed world tension on the massive buildup of Soviet and satellite armed forces and forecast that the West will insist on talking about this at any Big Four meeting.

He charged Russia with following a familiar Moscow propaganda technique in accusing the West of aggressive intent while pressing for a foreign ministers conference to deal chiefly with the rearming of Western Germany.

The Secretary said Moscow, in its latest note, moved somewhat grudgingly in the direction of an agreement on the issues to be taken up at the proposed conference. He also increased the prospects that the meeting will eventually be arranged by saying that the U. S., Britain and France will respond with an early reply.

Without giving figures, Acheson at this news conference declared Eastern European Soviet bloc countries are building up very great armies. He reaffirmed the western contention that in the case of Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary this was in violation of peace treaty limits.

Two-Year-Old Has Variety Breakfast

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7 (AP)—Janice Murphy, 2, had a different sort of breakfast today. It included:

A half-bottle of aspirin tablets.

A quarter-bottle of mercurochrome.

A half pint of honey and almond cream.

Shot In Thigh, Dies With Bullet Near Heart

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 7 (AP)—A high school youth who was accidentally shot in the right thigh died last night with the bullet lodged near his heart.

Doctors said it worked its way there through his veins. They added that the circumstances were rare but that the case was not the first of its kind.

The victim was Joseph Rothman, 17. He died while undergoing surgery for removal of the .22 caliber slug.

aside for all sections of the country.

The Railway Express Agency also announced a second modification of its embargo, effective at midnight. This permitted express shipments between New York City and these areas—Alabama, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and the cities of Baltimore and Washington.

The agency's Chicago office later announced that it was lifting its embargo on rail express shipments to all states west of the Mississippi River and to Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Wisconsin and Tennessee. The announcement added, however, that such express may be "subject to delay."

Four Children Die After Blast And Fire

EMMITSBURG, Md., Feb. 7 (AP)—Four young children of the Springer family were dead today after a fire and explosion in the kitchen of their mountain home near here.

Three other youngsters of the family and their mother were burned.

Alice Louise, 6; Donald, 10, and John, 7, died of burns last night at Annie Warner Hospital at Gettysburg, Pa. Gary Allen, 3, died today.

Mrs. Charles Springer, who was treated and released along with her other two children, told police how the accident happened.

She said she had started to pour some kerosene on the fire in the kitchen stove when the flames exploded the kerosene can and set the childrens' clothing afire.

Missing Mother, Children Found

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP) — A socially-prominent Michigan mother said today she skipped a $100-a-day hotel suite with her four children and went into hiding "to get away from my husband."

The woman, Mrs. Barbara Mercier Shuell Saunders, 30—missing since Sunday — was found in a Times Square hotel shortly after midnight.

She said she wanted a divorce from her husband, Navy Lt. Frank Saunders, owner of a heavy machinery company in Detroit. However, Mrs. Saunders did not discuss her marital difficulties in any detail.

Saunders told a news conference yesterday that his return to duty with the Navy led his wife to complain and may have had a bearing on her disappearance.

Mrs. Saunders left her maid and luggage in her expensive Hotel Biltmore suite when she disappeared with the four children.

Her husband asked police help in locating her and a search was begun yesterday.

The young matron was traced when a jeweler tipped police she sold him a $2,000 diamond wedding ring — a present from her husband three weeks ago — for $500.

Jolson Monument

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7 (AP) — A monument to Al Jolson's memory—to cost $84,000—was approved today in Superior Court.

Expenditure of the sum from the singer's $4,000,000 estate was authorized on request of his widow, Erle Galbraith Jolson.

McKeldin Will Ask More Taxes

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 7 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin said tonight he definitely will ask for more taxes.

The Governor said he will have a "revenue" bill to submit to the Legislature, perhaps within two weeks.

His announcement came just one day after Senate Democrats declared it was up to the Governor to ask for any new taxes and they intend to keep "hands off."

Gov. McKeldin said it hadn't been determined yet what the new taxes might be imposed on. It definitely won't include reinstatement of sales taxes removed from some items at a special session late last year, he added.

The Governor discussed the state's need for more revenue at a caucus with Republican members of the House and Senate. It was decided to set up steering committees in both chambers to try to win necessary Democratic support for passage of new revenue requests.

The Governor's tax program will be influenced a great deal, he indicated, by what he learns from the Board of Revenue Estimates at a conference Monday.

It's reported, McKeldin said, "that revenue from present tax rates "may be much higher than expected." If this is found to be true, the Governor's program for necessary funds would be lightened.

The House Republicans already have named two committees to study possible cuts in the budget to be introduced tomorrow and to draw up possible new sources of taxation.

GOP Women Protest High Price Freeze

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Republican women from 35 states today protested the freeze on prices at the highest levels in history and called on President Truman to reduce prices "of every-day necessities of life."

They said the Truman administration "utterly failed to curb inflation. Its most tragic error was its failure, because of procrastination and indecision, to freeze prices until Jan. 25."

The advisory board of the Republican National Federation of Women's Clubs, with about 50 members present, expressed these views in resolutions adopted at the windup of a two-day session.

Car Dives In River; Woman Feared Dead

CLARKSVILLE, Md., Feb. 7 (AP)—State police suspect a woman may have drowned in the rushing, rain-swollen Middle Patuxent River today while trying to escape frpm a car which plunged into the stream

State Trooper Hugh Hart reported that three persons escaped from the vehicle. He said the driver, identified as Earl S. Seal, 27, Glenwood, was trying to help the woman out of the car when she was swept downstream.

The woman and the two other passengers were not yet identified. Police reported difficulty in checking the accident because many telephone lines were put out of service by the storm.

Liz Taylor Awarded Harvard "Roscoe"

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 7 (AP)—The Harvard Lampoon, undergraduate humor magazine, today awarded Actress Elizabeth Taylor a "Roscoe" as the "most objectionable ingenue" in motion pictures in 1950.

The Lampoon tagged Miss Taylor with the "worst female performance of the year" for her work in "The Conspirators" and hung a similar label around the neck of Clifton Webb among male actors for his performance in "Cheaper By The Dozen."

Central Faculty Wins Comedy Game

LONACONING — Central High School faculty captured a comedy basketball game from the High School Amazons by a 65-21 score at the Lonaconing school.

Highlights of the game included boys dressed as girl cheerleaders, wheel barrows used to carry off supposedly injured players, a dozen balls in play at once, and a picnic lunch held by the faculty during play.

Harry Bowden scored 22 points for the winners while Mary Lou Dawson and Leona Stafford made six each for the Amazons.

In a preliminary tilt the Central JV's tripped Frostburg State Teachers Fraternity Five, 32-21.

Filchock Named Edmonston Coach

EDMONTON, Feb. 7 (AP) — The Edmonton Eskimos have signed Frankie Filchock, former New York Giants backfield star, to a one-year contract as backfield coach.

Filchock was banished by the National Football League in the United States in 1946 after figuring in a reported attempt to "fix" the Chicago Bears-New York Giants championship playoff game. The ban since has been lifted. He played briefly with the Baltimore Colts at the end of last season.

Sales Of Dangerous Sex Hormones Give U. S. Inspectors Headaches

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sales of sex hormones, garbage, diluted fruit juices and dreamed-up medicines gave federal inspectors major headaches last year, the Food and Drug Administration said today.

But the greatest concern, the agency said, has been the sale of dangerous drugs without prescriptions.

In his annual report to Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing, Food and Drug Commissioner Paul B. Dunbar said that in 1950 there was a marked increase in criminal actions against the promiscuous sales of dangerous drugs, despite more strict observance of the law on the part of pharmacists in general.

Dunbar said these violations "are causing more deaths, injuries, broken homes, human derelicts and other tragedies than all the other violations of the Food and Drug Act put together."

Dunbar added that increased action against offenders are having a desirable effect.

"Many addicts deprived of illegal supplies have discontinued the use of barbiturates," he said.

Dunbar added that the National Association of Druggists is seeking a better federal law to meet the problem of unauthorized refilling of prescriptions.

The report told of seizures during the year of potent and potientially dangerous sex hormones, sold directly to consumers, chiefly by mail order.

"Some of these preparations are capable of accelerating malignant tumors," the report said.

Dunbar said inspectors reported numerous attempts by irresponsible persons to salvage condemned foods from garbage.

He told of the owner of a hog farm who received a shipment of rancid fruitcakes with an original retail value of more than $100,000, and offered the cakes to grocers at reduced prices.

"The owner could see no reason for the seizure that followed, since his employes had found the fruit cakes edible," Dunbar said.

"He said he always gave his employes and friends priority above his pigs when pig feed was delivered to his farm."

Dunbar said some firms have been trying to cash in on the popularity of frozen orange juices by selling diluted and artificially colored and flavored frozen products containing only a small percentage of orange juice.

"This is a threat not only to the consumer's pocketbook but to his health," the report said.

"Orangeade is not a vitamin-rich breakfast item, but many mothers have been deceived into serving it for its vitamin C value, thus impairing the health of small children."

Inspectors reported seizing a worthless "cancer cure" shipped by the director of a so-called cancer clinic, and a cancer serum from a Canadian "research foundation." Eight persons who used the serum died of cancer, Dunbar said.

"Among ignorant distributors of nostrums were partners who each claimed to have formulated their drug in a dream, and to have mixed the oil ingredients by interpreting a section of Exodus," he said.

Income Tax Primer

Don't Overlook Local Taxes, Interest As Money-Savers

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP) — Many taxpayers can reduce their income taxes by deducting certain interest and tax payments.

Remember, every taxpayer has a choice of two methods of taking deductions. One is to take a standard deduction allowance amounting to 10 per cent of your income. The other is to itemize your allowable deductions and take the total amount.

If allowable deductions add up to more than 10 per cent of your income, you save by itemizing them.

The law allows deduction of most kinds of local taxes and interest payments.

You can deduct interest payments on a home mortgage, on a personal loan or on installment purchases of an auto, television set, furniture and other articles.

You can deduct state income taxes, most state or local retail sales taxes, most property taxes and auto license taxes or fees. You can deduct state gasoline taxes except in California, Florida, Louisiana, North Dakota, Utah, Wyoming and Hawaii.

You are allowed to deduct state or local retail sales taxes if under the laws of your state they are imposed directly upon the consumer, or if they are imposed upon the retailer and the amount of the tax is separately stated in your bill.

You are not allowed to deduct federal income tax or federal taxes on liquor, cigarets, autos, gasoline, tires, radio, television, jewelry, furs, toilet preparations and the like.

You cannot deduct taxes for local benefits such as assessments for streets, sidewalks and the like which tend to increase the value of your property. Social Security taxes can be deducted by an employer but not by an employe.

You are not allowed to deduct telephone, telegraph and transportation taxes unless they are incurred in carrying on a business. In that case such deductions are listed on separate schedule C, which is filed with form 1040.

In this article, however, we are interested mainly in the so-called non-business deductions. These deductions are listed on page 3 of form 1040 if you choose to itemize them instead of taking the 10 per cent deduction allowance.

You can deduct contributions to religious, charitable and educational organizations if they are non-profit. You cannot deduct gifts to individuals such as money to a relative or a needy person.

The law allows you to deduct property as well as cash contributions to allowable organizations. You can deduct the fair market value of property contributions, including the cost of gasoline and oil used in performing free services for a charity.

Sanctions Against China?

Although the U. S. delegation to the UN General Assembly at Lake Success is supposed to recommend economic and political punitive measures against Communist China, there is little reason to believe that any large number of the UN member nations would go along with the U. S. in imposing them. Indeed, the Canadian and British delegations are said to have voted, reluctantly, for the resolution branding Communist China as an aggressor in Korea only after private assurances that the U. S. would not really go to bat for sanctions.

The U. S. accepted an amendment to the resolution offered by Lebanon whereby even a report on collective sanctions is postponed until the three-man "Good Offices Committee" exhausts all avenues to peaceful settlement of the war in Korea. The General Assembly's president, Entezam of Iran, has had difficulty in getting two other members to serve with him on that committee.

Once set up, the Good Offices Committee could stall a report by the 14-member Collective Measures Committee indefinitely by reporting "satisfactory progress." Moreover, some nations have asserted unwillingness to serve on the latter committee. This, too, has yet to be appointed.

Failure of the UN to apply sanctions against Communist China would furnish ammunition to those who see UN already going the ineffectual way of the League of Nations. These critics admit that UN was quick to vote for military action against a small aggressor, North Korea, and has provided collective action averting or halting hostilities in Iran, Palestine, Indonesia and Kashmir. But these critics will argue that effective action against big power aggression is paralyzing UN, just as it paralyzed the League of Nations. The League was afraid that any attempt to apply sanctions with teeth in them would break up the League, all the more as the U. S., not a League member, would not be bound by the League's action.

In 1920, the League washed its hands of Polish aggression in Russia and Lithuania. In 1923 the League tried to pass the problem of Lithuanian seizure of Memel over to the Council of Ambassadors, ended by letting the Lithuanians keep the city. When Italy occupied the island of Corfu in the same year, Mussolini denied the jurisdiction of the League, accepted that of the Council of Ambassadors. The League left the issue to the Council, which ordered Italian evacuation but assessed 50,000,000 lire punitive damages against Greece for the murder of four Italians that had precipitated the dispute.

After Japan invaded Manchuria in 1931, the League shelved the question of sanctions on the ground that neither belligerent had declared war. Finally, in 1933, the League adopted recommendations of the Lytton fact-finding commission affirming Chinese sovereignty in Manchuria. A month later Japan gave notice of withdrawal from the League.

For almost nine months in 1935-36 most members of the League and one non-member, Egypt, went along with partial economic sanctions against Italy for Mussolini's invasion of Ethiopia. No League members imposed against Italy the oil embargo that Mussolini said would precipitate war. Great Britain left the Suez Canal open to Italian ships.

The League took no action against Italy for invading and absorbing Albania in April, 1939. In December, 1939, the League did expel Russia for invading Finland, but by that time World War II had started.

Article 41 of the UN Charter gives the Security Council the power to "decide what measures not involving the use of armed force are to be employed to give effect to its decisions." Russia would surely veto any Council move to apply sanctions against Communist China. But recent changes in powers of the General Assembly give it a voice in the question of sanctions.

How can another terrible war be averted? One way would be to reverse history 18 years and decide not to build up Russia.

Scrap Drives Ahead?

As more and more strategic materials are withheld from civilian production to meet military needs, more suggestions can be expected for appeals to the public to turn in unwanted articles containing such materials. Remember the scrap metal drives during World War II?

The public was asked particularly to turn in articles containing aluminum. These often remained for sometime piled up in vacant lots. The sorting took time and experience, because much of the aluminum donated was in the form of alloys that had to be reserved for lower grade uses. Few competent sorters and graders were available.

The scrap metal drives of World War II were conducted among industries as well as private citizens. The search for old steel was so successful that steel scrap remained in fair supply. Old trolley and railroad lines were broken up, as were old bridges, vacant buildings, obsolete ships, unusable cars and trucks from automobile "graveyards." Old tires were collected for use in retreading and in synthetic rubber.

The tin cans and tubes of various metals received from housewives were helpful to the war effort. So were the fats turned in for cash and/or for additional food rationing coupons. Collections of wastepaper and of silk and near-silk stockings did their bit. And some of the standardization of parts that helped to prevent waste during the war was continued after the war; today it is helping in the most effective use of the nation's metal resources.

The seed and garden catalogues in the mail remind us that the calendar on the wall flips its pages at its own pace.

Intent Not Enough

Good intentions, it is well known, are not enough. Dr. Ralph Bunche, former mediator in Palestine for the United Nations, has this to say:

"In this dread atomic age, if we fail to achieve peace, the responsibility must be borne by all of us. The fortunate, or unfortunate survivors of a third world war would gain little solace from being able to point an accusing finger. If the peace is lost through our complacency, our lack of awareness and determined effort, the blame would be shared by all of us, by peoples and governments whose intentions were sincerely peaceful as well as by those whose aggressive actions provoked war."

Monday is always a tough time to go to work. Many of us don't feel like getting up that early.

Flatfoot Correction

PAIN in the feet generally is due to a local disturbance such as flat feet, poor circulation, or infection. This is readily understandable but now and then distress stems from a more distant source such as the rectum, bladder, prostate, or uterus. Pain in such conditions is referred, which explains why the physician may want to do a more thorough examination when a local cause cannot be found.

Flatfoot is a common defect and a study of 3,600 young men in the Canadian army revealed that 8 per cent were disabled on this account. But there are many forms and some cause more incapacity than others. One type is not painful and leads to no difficulty at all. It consists of a simple flattening of the longitudinal arch. All of us have seen such cases on the beach or wherever persons walk barefoot, and have marveled at the ease with which they get about. It happens to be an individual characteristic and is comparable to the shape of the head, the length of the arms, or the size of the ears. It often is an inherited tendency. The arch is not too stiff or relaxed; it is not affected in the least by walking, jumping, or skipping rope.

Relaxed flatfoot probably produces more trouble than any other variety. It is caused by relaxation of the supporting ligaments with shortening of certain muscles and tendons. Fatigue and strain also play a role. This leads to flattening of the arch, with twisting or outward rotation of the foot. The victim walks like Charlie Chaplain, bearing his weight on the inner aspect of the foot.

Pain is caused by excessive strain on the ligaments and is most marked after being up and about for several hours. The distress is felt usually in the sole and is reflected up the limb and occasionally as high as the hip. The longitudinal arch should be supported with pads made of metal, cork, sponge rubber, felt, leather, or other materials. To be effective it must be the right size and placed in the correct position. If the pad is a quarter of an inch off, it may not have the desired result. This is one reason why an individual "fitting" is essential. Meanwhile, proper shoes are obtained. This means straight lasts and sufficient width to prevent constriction of the toes. Stiff shanked soles with felt pads may be needed if the job requires standing for long periods.

• — • — •

Rigid flatfoot differs in that it is a congenital defect produced by a coalition, or union of, two or more of the tarsal bones. The structures either have grown together or are joined by fibrous or cartilaginous tissues. This, too, encourages flattening of the longitudinal arch. X-ray is most helpful in making the diagnosis and surgery often is necessary to obtain relief.

Flatfoot usually is more troublesome in adolescence than in later life. Relief occurs not because the condition improves spontaneously but because many sufferers accept the defect and modify their existence as they go into their 20s and 30s.

STOMACH ACID

B. N. writes: Does no acid in the stomach, as determined by tests, always mean pernicious anemia?

REPLY

No. All patients with pernicious anemia have a deficiency of hydrochloric acid but the reverse is not true. Many elderly persons have a reduced amount and this shortage may lead to indigestion.

TOE JOINTS

K. P. writes: Can arthritis affect the toes?

REPLY

Yes, and it frequently does. In gouty arthritis, for example, a high percentage of sufferers have inflammation of the large toes. In rheumatoid arthritis, the small joints generally are involved, including those of the toes.

Labor Leaders Flare Up Over Manpower Program; Defense Mobilizer Wilson Refuses To Consult With Labor On Policy; Communist Prestige Goes Down

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Five of the nation's top labor spokesmen, led by Phil Murray of the CIO, had it hot and heavy with Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson last week over the government's manpower program.

The ill feeling which flared between them looked like a curtain-raiser for more trouble on the labor front, and raised one of the most difficult problems of any defense or war program.

Purpose of the labor leaders' call on Wilson was to keep the nation's civilian manpower program under the Labor Department. This has been the subject of a bitter backstage battle for some time, with Wilson and Gen. Lucius Clay wanting to take manpower away from Secretary of Labor Tobin and Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna Rosenberg, and with the latter two threatening to resign if the labor problem is taken out of their hands.

Labor leaders have good reason to fear General Clay and any manpower commission which he organized. They recall that during the recent war and before he went to Germany as military governor, Clay demanded of FDR that there be compulsory allocation of labor under a labor draft.

That was one reason why the five leaders went to see Mobilization Czar Charlie Wilson last week to try to keep civilian manpower under the Labor Department. They got nowhere. Wilson's attitude during the bitter meeting was "I'm running things—we'll do it my way," though he didn't put it quite so bluntly.

He didn't have to. On the way to the meeting the labor group had read a news story telling of Wilson's and General Clay's plan to set up their own manpower commission under Civil Service Commissioner Arthur Flemming—with Clay, however, as the real boss. Wilson did not deny the story. Nor did he seem concerned when the labor leaders reminded him that he was setting up a board to control labor without consulting labor.

Ample Authority

When reminded that labor was consulted equally with management during World War II, and that labor had a co-chairman on the Office of Production Management, Wilson made it plain that he did not plan to follow this precedent.

"I have authority from the President," he said, "and I am going to use that authority. I haven't as yet asked Arthur Flemming to head up this manpower commission, but I intend to do so. And if he doesn't accept, I may head it up myself."

"Well, we don't like a proposition like that," spoke up CIO President Phil Murray. "We represent the men and women who are engaged in war production work and we think we should at least have an equal voice in the government's manpower policies."

Murray added that if Wilson became manpower chief in addition to his top job as mobilization boss, it would be the same as a man "taking advice from himself."

NOTE—Other labor leaders attending the meeting were: Dan Tracy, president of the AFL Electrical Workers; Al Hayes, president of the International Association of Machinists; George Leighty, chairman of the Railroad Labor Executives Association; and James Carey, CIO secretary-treasurer.

INSIDE THE COMMUNISTS—There was something funny about the way Farrar, Straus & Co. suddenly junked Hede Massing's new book on life inside the Communist party. She's the ex-wife of Gerhart Eisler, and the book won't do Stalin any good. . . . The manuscript was immediately snapped up by Duell, Sloan and Pearce. . . . Communist party membership has taken a terrific beating in Europe in the wake of the Marshall Plan, the Tide of Toys, the Friendship Train and other friendship projects to Europe. In the Dutch Parliament, Communist seats have dropped from 56 to 27. In the Soviet zone of Austria, Communists lost 10 of their 11 parliamentary seats. In Belgium, they lost five out of 12 seats in the lower house and two out of five in the senate. . . . In Denmark they dropped from 76 elective posts to only 24. . . . The Dutch Communist newspaper is now down from 400,000 circulation to around 100,000, while the Communist press of France has taken similar losses. . . . Most amazing development, however, is in Italy, where two top Communist senators have resigned from the party and are starting an independent party similar to Tito's.

MILITARY SCUTTLEBUTT — The Air Force is probing complaints of kickbacks and shortages at the Bolling Field Officers Club outside Washington. Maj. Dan H. Rogers, officer-in-charge, has resigned. . . . Army Chief of Staff General Collins told the Senate Armed Services Committee behind closed doors that there are now 950,000 Communist troops in Korea. MacArthur's intelligence at the same time reported only 276,000. . . . Here are the results of a check on reports that Col. James Lemarest has been made special consultant to the Quartermaster General at the behest of ex-Assistant Secretary of Defense Paul Griffith. (The Quartermaster, of course, hands out some of the juiciest contracts in government.) Colonel Demarest draws $40 a day whenever consulted, was appointed January 22, and is associated in public relations with Paul Griffith, according to the Quartermaster Corps. It was denied, however, that Griffith recommended Demarest for the job. . . . Griffith, when queried, denied everything — even that he was associated with Demarest in public relations work. But when told that the Quartermaster stated just the opposite, Griffith admitted he had discussed a public relations set-up with Demarest. (Wonder how a public relations man could be worth $40 a day for advising the Army on war contracts?). . . . The Munitions Board's failure to stockpile wool has forced the Army to bid against the Russians on the Australian wool market—with the price going up every day.

UNHAPPY GOOD NEIGHBORS—Latin Americans have a bone to pick with debonair Eric Johnston, the new economic stabilizer. Johnston's name is signed to the Chapultepec Treaty by which the U.S.A. agrees to consult with its good neighbors before freezing prices. However, Johnston didn't consult. Latin-American ambassadors were merely called in at the last minute and told. There was no consultation. . . . The American public doesn't realize it, but the Latinos get hit harder than anyone else by price freezes. They sell us coffee, for instance, at frozen prices, but can't buy back autos, scarce machinery, minerals, etc., because we don't have them to spare. Then, after war, the prices of these scarce articles go up. . . . Look out for trouble in Venezuela. When college students and faculty in Caracas petitioned President Suarez Flamerich to release political prisoners, the Army proceeded to throw students and faculty into jail too. President Flamerich, out of sympathy with the Army, presented his resignation, but the Army refused to accept it. He remains in office with a pistol at his back.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Unfreezing The Asset

WASHINGTON

THE second decisive event of the present grim phase of world affairs seems to be taking shape at last behind the scenes. The first, of course, was the beginning of the all-out effort to re-arm the West, stimulated by the aggression in Korea. And now, in order to deter the Kremlin from forestalling this great but time consuming rearmament effort, consideration is being given to unfreezing the West's only existing military asset, the atomic stockpile.

Here the immediate stimulus is the obvious preparation for an attack on Yugoslavia by the Kremlin's Hungarian, Bulgarian and Romanian satellites. Besides destroying the Yugoslav Army and giving the Kremlin a vital position there, the unopposed conquest of Yugoslavia would neutralize the Turkish Army. It would create conditions for rapid Soviet absorption of the Middle East. And it would probably cause the formation of "neutralist" governments in Italy and France.

In sum, this simple flank attack, which perhaps can be made by the satellites alone, would effectively break the Western alliance. Thus the Kremlin would gain all the fruits of a gigantic victory with none of the trouble of a major war.

The atomic stockpile must be regarded as a frozen asset today, for the very simple reason that on the face of the existing situation, Yugoslavia can in fact be attacked by the surrounding satellites without precipitating a general war. "Unfreezing" the asset in turn simply means convincing the Kremlin that an attack on Yugoslavia is not as safe as it now looks—that the immediate price of this operation or any others like it will be the destruction of Russia's vital centers, and that this will still be true even if satellite forces alone are overtly employed.

Parallels Pre-Korea Situation

In considering so grave a step, there are three other points to weigh besides Yugoslavia's immense political and strategic importance. First, there is the resemblance of the present situation to the situation pre-Korea. Last June, American disarmament, plus the established and proclaimed American policy not to intervene in Korea, actually invited aggression there. Korea was attacked because it looked perfectly safe to do so.

Today, there has been no public change in the earlier American policy decision to limit assistance to Marshal Tito to "aid short of war." London's attitude has been rendered doubtful by recent high-level expressions there. The Kremlin's temptation to take advantage of American disarmament has been replaced by the active compulsion to strike before the West is re-armed, and the whole Soviet imperialist program is thus defeated. In short, the seeming invitation to attack Yugoslavia is even stronger, if anything, than was the seeming invitation to attack Korea.

Second, there is the attitude of the Yugoslavs themselves. Marshal Tito told a recent visitor that he and his colleagues had carefully reviewed the case of Czechoslovakia, and had decided that the great mistake of Benes was not to reject the Munich settlement and resist Hitler single-handed. France and Britain he explained, would then have been drawn into the resulting war. The parallel is exact. If the Yugoslavs resist, as they have firmly informed London and Washington they mean to do if attacked, a war there probably cannot be contained in any case.

Two Problems To Answer

Third, and most important of all, there is the fact that a firm, clear warning to the Kremlin would probably produce the desired result of deterring an attack. In the last six months, all the known data about our power to destroy the Soviet vital centers with atomic weapons, and about the Soviet defenses, have finally been gathered together and carefully re-examined. The conclusion has been reached that, as of today, our power is decisive. If the masters of the Kremlin did not fear this power of ours, they would now be preparing a

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—Senator Benton of Connecticut, Democrat, is absolutely right in his attempt to bring about the separation of the "Voice of America" from the Department of State, thus making it an independent agency responsible directly to the President.

That was the way the information branch of the government functioned during World War I and World War II, respectively, and the crisis today on the psychological warfare side is no less important than it was during both those war periods.

The significance of the separation which Senator Benton and many others in Congress are advocating is that the "Voice of America" tends to become a subordinate bureau which cannot function in a large sense on policy questions. It has efficient personnel in its management but their freedom to do a good job is impaired.

Acheson's Conception Narrow

The conception which Secretary of State Acheson has of the "Voice of America" is rather narrow. He thinks of it as merely the mouthpiece of the Department of State and as an instrument of "support to current foreign policy decisions." Any information agency which has that mission is doomed from the start because of the inhibitions upon its freedom of expression.

In a recent exchange of letters betwen Secretary Acheson and Senator Benton, the former insisted that "the expanded information program has in fact become the vital part of our national strategy you and others have always believed it should be." Senator Benton, when he was Assistant Secretary of State, had charge of the "Voice of America" program and spent many a weary hour before congressional committees trying to get appropriations for it, so he has definite ideas about what ought to be done with the whole operation. In his reply to Secretary Acheson, the Connecticut Senator says in part:

"Your letter of January 24th still leaves a chasm between us . . . I earnestly hope that you do not mean that we are now meeting fully the challenge and the opportunity in this field. The tragic fact is that our information program hasn't even begun to be 'the vital part of our national strategy' it should be. Evidence for this abounds everywhere."

The evidence, to be sure, comes from many persons who are experts in the field and who shake their heads in discouragement as they think what a whale of a job could be done by a really inspired organization that has as its main task a daily appeal to the peoples behind the "iron curtain."

The hope of preventing war lies not merely in a cautious diplomacy backed by armament, but in bringing persuasively to the attention of peoples everywhere that peace is really attainable if truth is utilized to the maximum in applying moral force.

Acheson Still Stubborn

Secretary Acheson's letter appears to be that of a technician who has examined a blueprint and finds that the functions are properly classified in a government department. If there were no crisis, it wouldn't matter in what department the "Voice of America" was placed. But there is a crisis, and it takes the imaginative counsel of men who cannot allow themselves to think as bureaucrats if they are really to do an effective piece of psychological warfare.

Senator Benton has this rather significant point in his latest letter to Secretary Acheson, given to the press on February 3rd:

"I hope you will not disapprove of a speech that I am now planning, and may deliver in the next week or two in which I am going to . . . follow a 'counsel of moderation,' and ask for a special investigation by the Senate into this problem."

This can only mean more trouble for Secretary Acheson. One wonders why he stubbornly refuses to take advice on the proper scope of a public relations program and opens the door wide to irrelevant inquires by the Senate into the functioning of the entire Department of State.

The problems of the "Voice of America" are not ones to be determined by a single Cabinet officer. They affect the whole government. Only by a legalistic twist of thought can it be assumed that the program is merely the voice of the State Department designed to defend or argue the merits of its policies. The real mission of the "Voice of America" is to reflect the spirit and the will of the American people—and such a task should be entrusted to an office that can function independently and report only to the President and, through him, to the Congress of the United States.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

More On Red-Baiters

IN A MOMENT of wild adventure, I wrote a piece listing the most active names in anti-communism in this country before 1940. I did not pretend that Dr. J. B. Matthews, Ben Stolberg or I could remember all the names, but we were hopeful that we would surely remember those among our personal friends who were active in Red-baiting, which was then denounced and is now a vogue.

That I forgot Fulton Oursler is astonishing. When other editors of magazines were playing about as great liberals, associating themselves with Communists and giving pro-Russians and fellow travelers preferred space, Oursler kept the pages of "Liberty" open to the truth. Perhaps I forgot him out of a subconscious modesty, unusual among writers, for I should have to say that when these so-called liberal editors closed their publications to me, Oursler purchased articles from me. My face was red, indeed, when I looked at the list and found his name not on it. It so often happens to a writer that when he reads what he has written, it only then occurs to him how it should have been written.

Then there is Patrick Scanlan of the Brooklyn "Tablet," who waged and continues to wage a fiery war against the "Red" brethren. The omission of Scanlan is difficult to explain, as are such names as Ayn Rand and Rose Wilder Lane, novelists, who dared to portray the truth when not to fall in line with Stalin's stooges meant unfavorable book reviews and possible even rejection by publishers.

In the Hollywood group should be Jack Moffitt, who did so much to bring on the investigation of the infiltration in Hollywood and has since been blacklisted.

Most surprising to me is that, while I have received an enormous mail on this particular article, few additional names have been suggested for candidates for the hall of fame of Red baiters prior to 1940. The largest mail demanded to know why I omitted Father Charles Coughlin, Monsignor Fulton Sheen, and Father Edward Lodge Curran.

Although in my original list, I did mention two Catholic priests, it occurred to me that all Catholic priests are anti-Communist by their creed. However, these three certainly should have been given special mention as they devoted themselves extraordinarily to this cause.

Omitted from the original list, and well-deserving of the highest gratitude of the American people, because he sacrificed not only a career but his life in this fight, is Dr. William A. Wirt, educator of Gary, Indiana, who told the story of the infiltration of Communists into government as early as 1934, when the Harold Ware cell was first organized. He was ridiculed and pilloried.

Similarly, John J. O'Connor, representative in Congress, friend of Franklin D. Roosevelt and brother

OUR FELLOWSHIP WITH GOD

Except ye turn, and become as little children, ye shall in no wise enter into the kingdom of heaven. Matthew 18:3. Read Mark 10:13-31.

Francis Thompson, in his essay on Shelley, says: "Know you what it is to be a child? It is to be something very different from the man of today. It is to have a spirit yet streaming from the waters of baptism; it is to believe in love, to believe in loveliness, to believe in belief; it is to be so little that the elves can reach to whisper in your ear; it is to turn pumpkins into coaches, and mice into horses, lowness into loftiness, and nothing into everything; for each child has its fairy godmother in its own soul; it is to live in a nutshell and to count yourself the king of infinite space; it is

"To see a World in a grain of sand,
And a Heaven in a wild flower,
Hold Infinity in the palm of your hand,
And Eternity in an hour."

How easy for a child to know God and His glory! He just wonders and adores. But we, when we grow older, lose the sensitiveness, the faith, the wonder of the child mind, and in our folly we deem ourselves wise, forgetting that great things are revealed unto babes.

Let Us Pray: O divine Master, give us a childlike spirit, lest we lose the way to the Father's house and miss the fellowship of his presence. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

National Arts Director Still Seeking Missing Manuscripts

Learns Some Were Stolen By Russians

Russian soldiers came to a Benedictine Monastery in Poland last year and removed some of the world's most famous music manuscripts.

Confirmation of this fact was received by Carleton Smith, music writer and director of the National Arts Foundation, Sunday night while he was spending a short time here in Cumberland prepartory to speaking at a general assembly at Frostburg State Teachers College.

A cablegram was sent to Smith's New York address Sunday from P. Schmidt, who was abbott of a Benedictine Monastery in Grussau, Poland, where the manuscripts had been stored for safekeeping by the Nazis. Now exiled from Poland, Abbott Schmidt lives at Badwimpfer Western Germany. It was from here that he sent the cablegram which was forwarded from New York to the Fort Cumberland Hotel, where Smith spent Sunday night.

Included Ninth Smyphony

"These priceless manuscripts included Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, Mozart's "Magic Flute" opera and Mendelsohn's "Elijah," an oratorio," Smith said when he came to the newsroom of The Cumberland News to report his latest information.

"Last October when I went to the Monastery at Grussau I found that the manuscripts had been taken, but no one seemed to know anything about them," the foundation director asserted. "All the monks had fled from the Monastery Nations, he had tried unsuccessfully and they knew nothing about the works of the great masters. Abbott Schmidt no longer was there."

Smith stated that through Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, he had tried unscuuessfully to learn the whereabouts of the musical masterpieces. Neither Poland nor Russia answered his appeal.

Moved To The East

Finally, the cablegram came with its assurance that the manuscripts had ben stolen from the Monastery. The abbott said in his cablegram only that the Russian soldiers had taken the manuscripts "to the East."

"I hope that the Russians have not harmed those manuscripts," Smith said, "It was the wish of our foundation to make photostatic copies of the manuscripts so that many people could enjoy them. That Beethoven manuscript was most valuable of all. It showed that Beethoven had crossed out more measures than he had allowed to remain in the symphony. There also were marks which indicated that he had jabbed his pencil into the paper in irritation over the imperfection of his work."

Smith had examined the manuscript before World War II when it was displayed in the Prussian National Library in Berlin. When the war came, the Nazis moved these valuable manuscripts to less vulnerable places. That is how they arrived at the Benedictine Monastery.

Visited 17 Countries

While visiting the newsroom here, Smith also said that over 10,000 displayed music manuscripts from Germany, Austria and Italy never have been recovered.

It was in search of these displaced manuscripts that Smith visited 17 countries in Europe in 1949 and 1950. Among these countries were Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary and East Germany behind Russia's Iron Curtain.

A native of Bement, Ill., Smith has had a colorful and varied career. As an 18-year-old boy he received his masters degree in 1928 from the University of Maryland, where he was a roommate of Galo Plaza Lasso, now president of the Republic of Ecuador.

In pre-World War II days he had interviews with Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini. He also visited such composers as Sibelius, Strauss, Shostakovich, Ravel, Elgar, Delius, deFalla, Vaughan Williams and others.

Since 1946 he has headed the National Arts Foundation, 60 Broadway, New Yory City, a non-profit organization for increasing enjoyment and understanding of the arts.

ANOTHER CHAPTER in the hectic adventures of William J. Newton, Jr., of Temple City, Calif., was written when he boarded a Japan-bound plane near Suwon and was taken off at Pusan as a "stowaway." Recently he staged a 12,000-mile hitch-hike to Korean warfront to prove he was anti-Communist. Failing to pass a physical test, he was ordered home. (International)

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

GENERAL Eisenhower's report to Congress regarding military assistance to the Atlantic Pact nations contained no new information since it was general in tone. It was heartening in that the emphasis was on war material rather than large contingents of men and that he found signs of better will to resist Communist aggression. He recognized that Europe will have to pull its weight. Much consideration should be given to this since gains in West Europe's production has risen from 77 per cent in 1946 to 126 per cent in 1950. As for defense costs, the United States with a population of 152,300,000 is spending at present 25 billion dollars this year for that purpose while England with a 50,600,000 population is spending $2,380,000,000 and France with a population of 41,600,000 is spending $1,640,000,000. According to those figures the expenditures per capital is $164 for the United States; $47 for the United Kingdom; and $39 for France.

President Truman, in a special message to Congress Friday, again demanded taxes be raised to bring in an additional $16½ billion in Federal revenues during the coming year. He asked that approximately $10 billion of this amount be raised through an immediate tax increase, with the additional $6½ billion to come through new taxes to be voted later. To raise the $10 billion he wants immediately, he proposed: (1) A $4 billion boost in individual income taxes through a four-point increase in rates in each tax bracket; with no reduction in the present $600 exemption; (2) an increase in the corporate tax rate from the present 47 per cent to 55 per cent, to produce an additional $3 billion; (3) increasing present excise taxes and levying new ones, to raise another $2 billion, and: (4) closing loop-holes in the present tax laws, taxing mutual savings banks, and levying a withholding tax on dividends, to bring in another $1 billion annually. All of this in addition to the $7.7 billion federal tax increase voted last September, the full effect of which will not hit the average taxpayer until this year.

Many members of Congress, including your humble reporter, agree we should balance the budget if possible, even though tax increases will be necessary, but first want to see all the "fat" cut out of the President's $71.6 billion budget. The budget contains requests for $9.4 billion for the purely civilian activities of Government, exclusive of funds needed to meet the costs of national defense, past wars, care of veterans, interest on the public debt, etc., in comparison to the $3.4 billion asked by Roosevelt for the same purposes in the closing days of World War Two. Senator Byrd of Virginia has presented detailed proposals for cutting Mr. Truman's over-all budget by $9.1 billion. He recommends cuts of $4,817 million in the domestic-civilian portion of the budget; a $3,500 million cut in the inflated foreign aid request section; $500 million in the military section, and $200 million in the veterans' program.

It appears Secretary of National Defense Marshall and his manpower assistant, Anna Rosenberg, have not convinced the Armed Services Committees of the House and Senate of the necessity of drafting 18-year-olds at this time. Instead both committees are expected to demand a re-screening of deferments and a recheck of manpower resources in the 19 to 26 year age brackets.

UNDER THE DOME

Residents of the Town Creek Section contacted me relative to an improvement in their mail service. I have gotten in touch with the Postmaster General asking that an investigation be made with the view of giving these patrons better service.

I am very much interested in the proposed Harpers Ferry Memorial project. Part of this project would be in Washington County—recommendations have been made by the Department of the Interior and the West Virginia State Legislature has introduced the necessary legislation to acquire the land. The Washington County Historical Society is very actively engaged in furthering the project and is now working with the members of the Maryland State Legislature relative to necessary legislation to acquire the land in Maryland. I have assured this group of my wholehearted cooperation in this matter.

There are more physicians in Washington, D.C., in proportion to its area and population, than in any other American city.

Family Night To Be Held March 4

The Woman's Association of the First Presbyterian Church formulated plans for a "Family Night" and for each circle to sponsor a boy in service at the meeting Tuesday evening in the lecture hall. Mrs. Lester Martin presided.

"Family Night" will be held March 4 in the church, at which time Robert Myers, director of McKim Center and McKim Boys Haven, Baltimore, will be the speaker. Mr. Myers is to tell of his work with boys in Baltimore. The Association will be hostess for a covered dish dinner preceding the program, with the Heacox-Pierce Circle in charge.

A special program is being arranged for young children. It will be in the church house simultaneously with the "Family Night."

The prelude was played by Mrs. John R. Conley and prayer offered by Mrs. Martin. Following the group singing of a hymn, routine reports were given, and the 1951 budget accepted. It was decided that the "Family Night" will take the place of the March meeting.

A missionary program was given and Mrs. P. G. Ervin portrayed a Lebanese, introduced a moving picture entitled, "South of the Clouds."

Concluding the evening a social hour was held with the Diuguid-Athey Circle as hostess.

CPL. AND MRS. DEAN McCLUNG

Marlene Bennett Becomes Bride Of Cpl. Dean McClung

Bride Is Senior At Fort Hill High

Miss Marlene Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Enos Bennett, 447 Baltimore Avenue, became the bride of Cpl. Dean McClung, son of Rev. and Mrs. Elmer McClung, Locust Grove, Okla., on February 3.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized at 7:30 p. m., in the Assembly of God Church with Rev. Frank Fratto officiating. Mr. and Mrs. John Hilleary, Corriganville, were their attendants.

Mrs. Donald Horner sang, "Because" and "I Love You Truly," accompanied at the piano by John Markwood, who also played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride was attired in a white suit, with which she wore a large blue hat and accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Her matron of honor wore a lilac colored suit, with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roesbuds.

Mrs. Bennett chose a black costume for her daughter's wedding, with which she wore a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Locust Grove, Ill., High School, class of 1948 and is serving in the Army, at Arlington Hall Station, Arlington, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett entertained with a weding reception in honor of their daughter, at the Bowling Green Fire Hall, following the ceremony. The bridal motif was carried out in the table appointments and the tiered wedding cake adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom. After which Cpl. McClung and his bride left for a wedding trip through Virginia to Luray. For the present Mrs. McClung is residing at the home of her parents.

Marriage Announced

The marriage of Miss Alice Mable Smith to Glenn Burton Louke, Baltimore, has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Smith, 313 Cecelia Street, parents of the bride. The ceremony was performed in the Evangelical UB Church, Ellerslie, January 22 with Rev. C. W. Raley officiating. Sally and Janet Pfeiffer and their father, Charles Pfeiffer, were the attendants.

The bride attended Fort Hill High School and is employed by Montgomery Ward in Baltimore. The bridegroom is employed by the Crown Cork and Seal Company, Baltimore.

East Side PTA Has Party

The East Side School PTA held a birthday party and bake sale Tuesday eevning at the school. The birthday motif was carried out by having tables decorated to represent each month of the year. Guests were seated at the table representing their birth month, and contributed money to the amount equivalent to their ages.

Mrs. Louise Kiifner presided and announced the program. A moving picture on conservation and fire prevention was shown and a musical program followed. Robert Moreland sang, "The Voice of the Sea," and "Drifting On." He was accompanied at the piano by his wife. Mrs. Elizabeth Hammond played two numgers, "Love's Greetings,' and "Mary," on the solovox. Both Mrs. Hammond and Mr. Moreland are graduates of East Side School. Edward Sherwood played several old time violin interpretations with his son at the piano.

A bake sale was conducted and refreshments served following the program. During the social hour Mrs. Hammond and Harold Sherwood played the solovox and piano.

Cumberland Alumnae Chapter, Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority will meet tonight at the home of Mrs. Beulah Montesant, 29 Frost Avenue, Frostburg.

A Nominating committee will be named at the meeting of the Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club at 8 tonight at the Girl Scout House. Bridge and Canasta are to be played after the meeting.

A card party will be held at the Bedford Road Fire Hall at 8 tonight.

Cumberland Lodge 63 BPOElks will resume the weekly dances tonight at the home. The Blue Notes Trio will play, beginning at 9:30.

The Ladies Aid Society of Potomac Park EUB Church will meet at 7:30 tonight at the church.

The Woman's Guild of St. Matthews Church, Bowling Green, will hold a chili sale at 11 this morning in the church social room. Patrons are asked to bring containers.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Foam rubber is a long-dryer, so it's advisable to cover pillows of this material with a zippered removable ticking that may be quickly and easily laundered in hot soapsuds.

Duplicate Club To Hold 4th Session

The fourth session of the Mid-Winter series of the Cumberland Duplicate Bridge Club will be played at 8 tonight in the ballroom of the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Tonight's session is very important, Albert Heacox, president, said last night, explaining that it is necessary to play in four of the six sessions, from January 18 to February 22 inclusive, to qualify for the Extra Master Points as well as the special prize.

The Executive Tournament committee, the Reception committee as well as committees for all events for the two day session of the Western Maryland Sectional Tournament will be named during February.

A New York tournament director will be in charge of the tournament, which is being held at the Cumberland Country Club, April 14 and 15. Trophies will be awarded for prizes.

Master Points will be awarded for all events, under the Master Point Plan of the American Contract Bridge League, and is based on the attendance.

Players from Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and all surrounding towns are arranging to participate.

Anyone who wants to play and met some of America's finest bridge players, can do so by phoning either Russ Minter, 1236; Albert Heacox, 4808 or Mrs. Norman Taylor, 6859.

Arrangements are being made also to take care of any kabitzer who wants to watch.

Circle Receives 7 Members

The Catherine Eye Circle of Melvin Methodist Church received seven new members and brought Christmas cards for the Elks Hospitals, at the meeting recently at the home of Norma Shreeves.

Donna Northcraft presided. New members are Arlene Hardinger, Nancy Curry, Jeanette McDonald, Barbara Dick, Donna Strumbaugh, Gale Conner, and Donna Willison. The group sang, "A Charge to Keep, I Have," "Are Ye Able, Said the Master," and "Give Of Your Best To the Master." The theme of the devotions was "With Healing in It's Wing," and the meditation was read by Edith Streett on the 23rd. psalm, after which all members recited the psalm.

The group decided to help clean the church during the Winter. Plans were made for the next meeting to be held at 7:30 March 1 at the home of Shirley Arnold, 33 Weber Street, to which members are to wear blue Jeans. A white elephant sale will be held to raise funds for the March project.

Other members present were Mrs. Howard Zais, Olive Stewart, Sharon Day, Marjorie Hardinger Olive Zais, Shirley Arnold, Anna Zais, Joann Weaver, Mrs. Carl Smith, Louise Perdew and Betty Hudson.

Concluding the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess and her mother.

Society Has Program On American Indians

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Ellerslie Methodist Church had a program on "The Health of the American Indian," at its meeting recently, in the church hall. Mrs. Anna M. Cook was leader. The National Anthem was sung by the group.

Members present were Rev. and Mrs. L. J. Moore, Miss Lillian Cook, Miss Clara Critchfield, Mrs. Marie Simpkins, Mrs. Lydis Porter, Mrs. Jennie Diehl, Mrs. Grace Troutman, Mrs. Myrtle Stevenson, Mrs. Helen See, Mrs. Ethel Bogley, Mrs. Erma Burkett, Mrs. Anna Lowery, Mrs. Myrtle Stevenson, and Mrs. Norma J. Porter.

Hostesses were Mrs. Mae Beals, Mrs. Isabel Chatain and Mrs. Cornelia Wolfe.

CELEBRATE SILVER ANNIVERSARY—Mr. and Mrs. Francis Michaels, 502 Franklin Street, observed their 25th wedding anniversary February 3 and entertained with a reception at Minke's Cottage Inn. The miniature bride and bridegroom, which adorned the anniversary cake, was the same one which they had for their wedding cake. The former Miss Mary A. Donahue, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hilleary Donahue, Beans Cove, Pa., was married to Mr. Michaels, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Michaels, Eckhart, February 3, 1926. Rev. Cuppert, O.F.M.Cap., officiated at the ceremony in SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church. Mr. and Mrs. Michaels are the parents of seven children, Mrs. Bernice Growden, Pfc. Francis Michaels, Camp Lejeune, N. C., Wanda, Leo, Leona, Victor and Faye, at home.

Shrove Tues. Party Has Large Crowd

Others assisting were Mrs. James Lynch, Mrs. Carroll Shriver, Mrs. Joseph Minke, Mrs. George Miller, Mrs. Edward Dressman, Mrs. A. J. Dressman, Mrs. Virginia Smith, Mrs. Walter Drumm, Mrs. DeSales Keifer, Mrs. James MiltenBerger, Mrs. Mack Patterson, Mrs. Arthur Young, Mrs. Joseph Wood, Mrs. Richard Coffman, Mrs. Mullaney and Mrs. Robert Murray.

Committee To Be Named

A Nominating committee will be named at the meeting of the Centre Street WSCS to be held at 12:45 today in the social hall. Mrs. E. L. Daugherty will preside.

A retreat service is to be conducted with various members taking part. Mrs. William Buchholtz is vocalist and Mrs. Herbert Platt, accompanist.

Twiggtown Club To Have Reports

The Twiggtown Homemakers Club will meet at 1:30 Saturday at the home of Mrs. Marvin Hinkle, Hinkle Road, at which time a white elephant sale is to be held also.

Mrs. Hinkle, Clothing chairman, will report on the Clothing demonstration which was held at the home of Mrs. Theresa Coleman, Fayette Street, January 25; and Mrs. Austin Twigg, Jr., Art chairman, is to give an article on "Birds."

Country Club Ends Tourney

Mr. and Mrs. William Carscaden won first honors in bridge and Mrs. Gordon Bowie and Mrs. Somerville Nicholson, in canasta at the final session of the Cumberland Country Club Bridge and Canasta Tournament held Tuesday night at the club.

Runnersup in the three week session were Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Keight, in bridge and Mr. and Mrs. G. William Bibby, canasta.

High score for the final session went to Mrs. Morton Peskin and Mrs. Nat Guggenheimer for bridge; and Mr. and Mrs. John Moberly, canasta.

LaVale Auxiliary To Meet

The Ladies Auxiliary of the LaVale Fire Company will meet at 8 tomorrow night.

Plans will be completed for a rummage sale and bake sale to be held February 13 and 14th at 9 Frederick Street. Clothing will be collected at the fire hall.

NATURALNESS IS THE KEY TO BEING GLAMOROUS—SKIP THE ARTIFICIAL AND SETTLE DOWN TO BE YOURSELF

BY BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

If you want to be a glamor girl in 1951, just skip the glamor, be yourself, and there you have it.

Glamor is a highly overrated word. It conjures different pictures in our mind. To some it means a girl who sparkles with jewels. Others picture a glamorous creature who is perfectly made up—with artificial props, of course. Others see her as a girl who can captivate any male.

Actually, the so-called glamor for which you strive should be more concrete. It should encompass beauty, brains, character and sweetness. The dictionary's version is that it is a sort of magic and charm. If you concentrate on that instead of some artificial veneer, you can achieve it easily. Let's see how you should look in 1951 to please your own vanity:

HAIR . . . Beauty experts advise that you wear your hair as you please, providing the coiffure suits your type. One famous model agent suggests you forget about current hair styles, wear what becomes you most. But don't get any false notions, even if you wear a hair piece. He admonishes that your hair is not becoming if it trails down your back a la Alice in Wonderland or Dancehall Susie. Select a ladylike hairdo, but keep to the length you like best.

FIGURE . . . If you are the voluptuous type, do not strive to be skinny as your favorite fashion model. Perhaps you look better with just a few extra pounds. Let your glamor model starve herself into a skeleton pattern, if she likes. She'll have to pay the piper, eventually. If you are too thin, then be systematic about your weight building program. You'll succeed if you stick to it.

EYES . . . If you come naturally by long, luxurious lashes, you have no problem. The girl who has a fair complexion, fair hair and blonde eyelashes especially needs to wield the mascara brush occasionally. Use a midnight shade of mascara, which is not too overpowering or too deep black, use it sparingly and on special occasions. Mascara doesn't belong in a business office, or for that matter as makeup enhancement for a casual date. The sloe-eyed, doe-eyed look is modified this year and your goal in eye-makeup should not be so oriental or affected.

MAKEUP . . . Use it sparingly and strive for the natural look. More rouge is being worn—and that always is an indication, strangely enough, of a trend away from the made-up look. Whenever you wear rouge it is to achieve a natural outdoorsy complexion.

When there's something you wish to remember, get a double impression. Use both your eyes and ears!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

WITH obvious awe and admiration, a friend of mine told me about a college professor who could remember the names of every one of a class of fifty, after the introductions on the first day.

A good memory is an asset in every walk of life and important to anyone who seeks to achieve charm. How can you hope to be a success in business or social life if you are always in a hazy, mental fog? With a poor memory you are living in a limbo where you never can be sure of anything, and some speedy training is necessary if you are to get back into the world of people with whom you want to associate.

Keys To Remembering

There are three natural laws of remembering. Practice them and you'll be amazed to discover how great your memory capacity is!

1. Impression. The stronger the impression any object, point or person makes on you, the greater your memory of it will be. You can increase the depth of any impression by concentration. Abraham Lincoln read his newspaper aloud so he could get two impressions, both the visual and the auditory. When you want to remember something, try to see it in your mind. A mental picture leaves a clearer, more lasting impression.

2. Repetition: A frequent reminder is better than one long session of repetition. If you sit down and try in one hour to memorize a list of names or dates by constant repetition, you may succeed. But if you repeat that list three times now, drop it, and then go back to it an hour later, you will retain it more accurately and more easily.

Make Connections

3. Association. Association of ideas is one of the best keys to remembering. Try to associate everything to be remembered with a fact already in your mind. To remember any name, ask questions about it. Most people are flattered by interest in their names. Observe the appearance of the stranger closely; then try to associate the name with the appearance.

Go over three points. Put them to work. They'll save you from many an embarrassing stumble over something you should have remembered. . . and make you feel mighty superior when you hear others resorting to that dull admission of vagueness, "It sounds familiar,—but. . . ."

WASHINGTON

A DROP here . . . A drop there . . . First thing you know you have a whole river of news . . . Here's some Potomac spray:

Louis Bromfield, the tousled-haired Ohio farm boy, who is prouder of making good at farming than of his best sellers, back in the Mayflower Lounge just for oldtimes sake . . . After the reception in his honor at the Congressional Club, given by Rep. and Mrs. J. Harry McGregor, Bromfield headed for the Mayflower and the same table where he held court so many afternoons during the war on his trips to the Capital.

He spoke before the Ohio State Society, hopped a plane for Newark, before going home, and then to Cleveland, and then to Ottawa, Toronto, Montreal, New York and back to the good earth in Ohio.

One of his many irons in various fires: The musical comedy he is preparing for production on Broadway . . . Called "Helen in Memphis," the witty satire tells what happened when Helen of Troy ran off with the shepherd boy Paris and let her husband Menelaus worry about getting her home as best he could . . . In Bromfield's version she's an ageing beauty out for a fling . . . Helen acts a lot like Eva Peron and Menelaus is president of the Rotary Club in Troy.

Sens. Aiken and Flanders of Vermont banding together in righteous indignation against a Virginia grocery store which sold syrup labeled 100 per cent pure maple . . . Flanders said it wasn't 100 per cent pure . . . Had a sample taken to colleague Aiken who agreed with him . . . They are requesting that the Pure Food and Drug Administration and the Federal Trade Commission investigate.

While they are battling for purity in syrup, new Sen. Welker of Idaho and veteran Sen. Brewster of Maine are pressuring government agencies to step up sales of Maine and Idaho potatoes . . . They want industrial alcohol manufacturers to use more potatoes in their production.

New Hampshire Rep. Norris Cotton saying the letters from home are getting savage . . . One begins: "I am a vet. You are a chump." . . . And Cotton says he's tempted sometimes to remind these critics of the old barroom sign not to shoot the piano player, he's doing the best he can.

But then he realizes the voters are entitled to a better answer than that, and, besides, the piano player is in the White House.

Don't be HALF-SAFE

by VALDA SHERMAN

Many mysterious changes take place in your body as you mature. Now, the glands under your arms begin to secrete daily a new type of perspiration containing substances which will—if they reach your dress—cause ugly stains and clinging odor

You'll face this problem throughout womanhood. It's not enough merely to stop the odor of this perspiration. You must now use a deodorant that stops the perspiration itself before it reaches—and ruins—your clothes.

As doctors know, not all deodorants stop both perspiration and odor. But Arrid does! It's been proved that the new cream deodorant Arrid stops underarm perspiration 1 to 3 days safely—keeps underarms dry and sweet.

Remember this, too. Arrid's antiseptic action kills odor on contact—prevents formation of odor up to 48 hours and keeps you "shower-bath" fresh. And it's safe for skin—safe for fabrics.

So, don't be half-safe. Don't risk your happiness with half-safe deodorants. Be Arrid-safe! Use Arrid to be sure. Arrid with Creamogen will not dry out, and it's so pleasant and easy to apply. Get Arrid today—only 39¢ plus tax.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Can ideas "make you sick"?

Answer: No, but the emotions they arouse can—very literally. Psychologists now say that a baby begins by dividing everything in the outside world into what should be swallowed and what should be spat out. Nausea thus embodies the most primitive and profound reaction of rejecting something which is repugnant to you. And a similar reaction later comes to follow finding yourself in a situation to which fear or guilt is attached. I have known musicians who were nauseated before a concert and girls who became sick any time that a man tried to kiss them.

Should you let a child know you are angry?

Answer: You may frighten a child dangerously by flying into a rage and losing control of yourself, but to pretend that you are not at least annoyed when you punish him is I think both unwise and unnecessary. It is generally untrue, and in any case the child probably will not believe it since he cannot understand why you should hurt or punish him for any other reason. Finally, the fact that if he does certain kinds of things he will make other people angry is one which a child needs to realize as part of his preparation for life.

Can we measure alcohol's effect on driving?

Answer: Yes, say Drs. Kjell Bjerver and Leonard Goldberg in the Quarterly Journal of Studies in Alcohol. Tests of 37 expert drivers on a specially constructed obstacle course showed a failing off of 25 to 30% in driving ability after 3 or 4 bottles of beer or a corresponding amount of hard liquor. Driving skill begins to deteriorate when there is a concentration of from 0.35 to 0.40 percent of alcohol in the blood stream—which means incidentally that the less you weigh, the less you can safely drink if you are driving.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS) WHAT WORRIES you at the present time? What headline would you like to see in your newspaper tomorrow?

Those two questions were asked on the radio program named "Town Meeting Of The Air" late last month, and the bulk of the mail is in. It came from all 48 states. Cutting through the business of "mass behavior" and "depth psychology," terms used in the announcement of the results, this is what the people wrote:

In the regard to their worries, about 75 per cent of the letter writers indicated that they worried most about the lack of moral and ethical security, lack of leadership in Washington, and lack of a clear definition of national goals.

They were less concerned about their financial status.

Some 42 per cent stressed this worry: Imminence of war. Only 18 per cent of the letters brought in the question of economic security. Five per cent worried about being drafted, or having an 18-year-old son or other member of the family drafted.

Cancer and Communism concerned two per cent of the writers, and a shade under that percentage felt the country was losing its democratic principles.

There were such heads as "Russia Blasted Off The Face Of The World," and "Oppressed Russian People Overthrow The Soviet Regime." Other head-writers liked "Russia Becomes Christian," and some liked "Sanctions Applied Against Red China."

But about half the writers—the program attracted about 4,000 replies—composed headlines having to do with a new understanding among the nations and non-military solutions of world problems. Thirty per cent longed for one word, in very large type. The word was "PEACE!"

Fifteen per cent longed for violent solutions to today's menaces: "Stalin Assassinated"; and a slightly smaller percentage put it on the broader scale of "Russia Wiped Out." Nine per cent hoped for successful negotiations within the U. N., along such lines as "Russia Reconsiders, Drops Iron Curtain."

One guy liked "Stalin And His Aides Crash In Plane On Way To Attend Mao Tse-Tung's Funeral," and more than one wanted to read, "A-Bomb Dropped On Moscow." Another suggestion, along more passive lines: "Stalin Invites Msgr. Sheen To Moscow."

• — • — •

Speaking of polls, I recently printed a letter from Jimmy Young, former INS correspondent in the Far East and now of the Anderson (S. C.) Daily Mail, in which he suggested a poll on how the people feel about dropping some A-bombs on the core of Communism—Russia. C. W. Deininger, a Worcester, Mass., broker who read the letter in the Worcester Telegram, writes:

"I thought you might be interested in the conversation I had recently with a young naturalized Russian who came into this office to open a small account.

"The gist of what he said about Russia was that the U. S. was making a serious mistake in using kind words in respect to it, because Russians just do not understand that sort of thing. He also said that in spite of the fact that he still has relatives and many friends in Russia he believes the only way we can solve the problem of Russia is to use the A-bomb immediately.

"He further stated he didn't like to think what it would do to individuals but that it was the only over-all solution he had thought out as being practicaly.

"I didnt' lead him into these opinion. He volunteered them."

Production Of Soft Coal Shows Increase In 1950

Maryland, Virginias Produced 32 Per Cent

Mines of West Virginia, Virginia and Maryland produced 162.2 million tons of soft coal in 1950.

This was 32 per cent of the nation's total output, and the largest proportion of the national total ever produced by these three states, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported in the February issue of its Monthly Review.

The report also forecast an increase in the use of coal and a rise in employment during 1951.

The bank's publication this month is devoted to a review of the leading industries of the Fifth Federal Reserve District, which includes these three states and North Carolina, South Carolina, and the District of Columbia.

Of the district's total output, the report stated, West Virginia produced 89.1 per cent, Virginia 10.6 per cent, and Maryland 0.3 per cent.

The total national production of bituminous coal was 506.3 million tons, a gain of 68.4 million tons, or 15.6 per cent, over 1950. The Fifth District's 162.2 million tons in 1950 compared favorably with its 1949 output of 138.1 million.

Estimated domestic consumption of soft coal in 1950, the report said, totaled 451.7 million tons, a gain of 1.3 per cent over 1949.

Indications are that consumption will rise during 1951, said the report. Electric power utilities increased their bituminous coal consumption in 1950 by 8.9 per cent over 1949, it pointed out, and "the continued growth in kilowatt hour output will mean a sharply rising trend in use of coal by utilities".

Coal exports, also, the report said, are in a rising trend.

"The competitive situation with other sources of energy is not such an important consideration at the present time for the bituminous coal industry," the report added, "as all sources will probably be called on for greater volume of production.

The shortage in metal supplies, particularly steel, may also have an adverse effect on the construction of new diesel locomotives and thereby further delay diversion of railroads' utilization of coal and make it necessary to continue in operation many of the steam locomotives which have been retired from service".

The report also forecast a rise in employment in the industry.

"Employment," it said, "is moderately below a year ago, but with a rising demand it would seem probable that both hours of work and some increase in employment will 15.6 per cent, over 1950. The Fifth be witnessed during the year."

Pulpwood Production Book Published By Luke Paper Mill

LUKE, Md. — Tested methods of growing and harvesting pulpwood profitably are among the pointers included in a new West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company manual being distributed this week among landowners, wood producers, farmers, agriculture teachers and students, and others in this area interested in good forest practices.

A 72-page volume prepared by veteran forest experts of the paper company, the booklet tells how pulpwood can best be grown and cut to grow again in areas that supply the Appalachian mills of the company. It is entitled "Growing and Harvesting Tree Crops."

Among the subjects it covers, are an explanation of the markets available for pulpwood, future prospects of the market, cutting and hauling methods that have been found successful by experienced operators, the business side of cutting and selling pulpwood and the main principles to observe in managing woodlands for a long-term profit. The booklet is illustrated with photographs taken in the field and is fully indexed for handy reference.

"We have taken pains to make this booklet modern, clear, and practical," said C. A. Beck, manager of the Wood Department of the Luke Mill, who is supervising the distribution of the booklet in this area. "For people in the pulpwood producing business, we believe it will reveal new ways to handle their wood more expertly and profitably. For the general reader, including young people in the schools, we believe the booklet will shed new light on the growing importance of pulpwood, as a regular business, in the economic life of this region."

Mr. Beck pointed out that pulpwood production provides work opportunities for farmers and farm help between crops and seasons, and opportunities for creating income from land now idle; helps keep the paper industry, one of the area's major industries, healthy and competitive, by providing a steady flow of raw materials; and contributes to the protection and improvement of the woods by removing the right trees at the right ne, thus clearing the way for new growth.

A copy of the booklet may be obtained by writing to the Wood Department of the Luke, Md., Mill.

$25,000 Damage Suit Verdict Decided In Hagerstown Court

A Washington County Circuit Court jury deliberated in Hagerstown until midnight Tuesday and awarded a $25,000 verdict in favor of a LaVale widow.

Mrs. Virginia Law and her three minor children had sued on June 26 the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company for $60,000 in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Her husband, Timothy A. Law, 63, died after falling into a hole dug by the construction company while they were building a new bridge over Braddock Run near Cash Valley Road.

Arguments in the case that started Monday morning ended at 6 p. m. and the jury began its four-hour deliberation at 8 p. m.

The jury awarded Mrs. Law $10,000 as administratrix of the estate of her husband; $1,000 to Mrs. Law in the suit docketed through the State of Maryland to the use of the widow, and $4,500 to each of the three children Judith Ann, Carol Virginia and Randall Thomas Law.

Earl E. Manges and William H. Geppert had entered suit in Circuit Court here for $10,000 for the administratrix and $50,000 for Mrs. Law and the three children.

The suit charged that the Hazelwood Company had several deep ditches dug along Route 40 in LaVale during the construction of the Braddock Run bridge.

On October 25, 1949, Law was walking along the highway and fell into the ten-foot ditch.

The attorneys for the plaintiffs charged that injuries sustained in the fall resulted in Law's death three days later. They charged negligence in failing to properly cover the ditches and failing to mark them properly.

Manges and Geppert were assisted by Charles F. Waugaman, of Hagerstown. Representing the construction company were William C. Walsh, of this city, and Edward Cooey, of Hagerstown.

The case had been removed from Allegany county to Hagerstown.

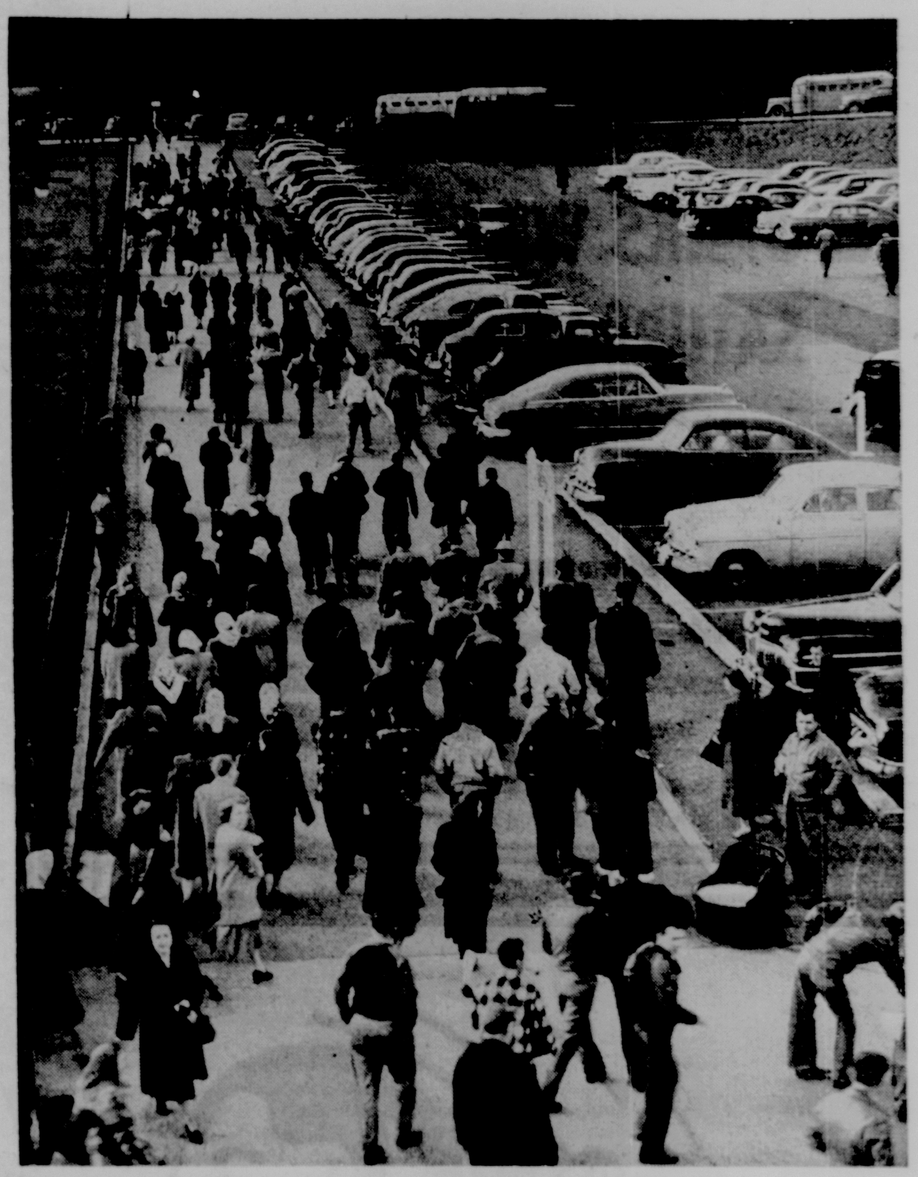
There's no such person as an "average" Amcelle employee



As producers, most Amcelle employees realize that a product must be made before it can be sold, and that the selling price is how much the customer is willing to pay for it. This means that if the "asking price" is too high, the product cannot be sold and production is soon stopped for lack of orders.

Today there are about 5300 people working at Celanese Corporation's big Amcelle plant.

Of this number some 4700 are in production departments. The rest are concerned with getting materials to the right places at the right time, keeping payroll and production records, seeking further progress through research and engineering, and handling other essential jobs such as quality control, safety, and employee benefit programs.

It's a smoothly working team, and the result of our work together is shown by the operating results of the past year.

But there's no such person as an "average" Amcelle employee. We could, of course, get together figures about how many employees own their own homes, how many are married or single, the number of children per family, and a lot of other statistics, but the management thinks it's more important to remember that the people who work at Amcelle are individuals with individual ambitions, individual responsibilities and individual opportunities.

Every employee at Amcelle plays at least three roles. In the plant he is a producer, adding value to raw materials and helping bring money to the Tri-State area. When he walks out of the gate he becomes a consumer of other producers' goods. He's also an investor, for 95 out of 100 Amcelle employees have money in insurance, in homes and automobiles, in stocks or in bonds.

And every Amcelle employee is a member of the community in which he makes his home, with all the opportunities and responsibilities of citizenship.

The Amcelle organization is a group of individuals working together toward a common objective, for we Americans have proved that this is the way to multiply the effectiveness of individual effort. There's no such person as an "average" Amcelle employee.

Amcelle employees use buildings, machines and equipment bought and paid for by people who own "shares" in Celanese Corporation of America, but there's no such person as an "average" shareholder, either. It is interesting to note that the shareholder group numbers some 35,000 investors, twice as many as the total number of employees in all plants of the Company.

Most of these owners of the business have bought their shares with money saved from their earnings. Among them are storekeepers, mechanics, doctors, nurses, salesmen, factory workers, farmers and teachers. Some are men, some are women. In America anyone can become a shareholder of nearly any company if he's willing to forego the present use of his money for a future return.

An increasing number of Cumberland area people, including Amcelle employees, have been investing their savings in Celanese stock. Teamwork between people who save their money and invest it in production machines and people with the skill to use these machines has helped American employees earn more and have more than any other people in history.

Pure Water Was Hinge That Turned Door For Big Hydrogen Bomb Plant

.. By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE ..

AUGUSTA, Ga.—(AP)—Lester S. Moody, secretary of the Augusta Chamber of Commerce, has a favorite proverb—heavy doors turn on small hinges.

For 25 years he has been working on this basis bringing enterprises to Augusta. And now the smallest and oldest hinges ever, some tiny particles in the Savannah River, have turned the biggest "door" of all time.

The door is the $600,000,000 hydrogen bomb plant starting construction across the river in an area 20 miles away in South Carolina. Here in Augusta the United States Atomic Energy Commission has established H-bomb area headquarters.

The little hinge starts with the duPont Company 20 years ago, in Moody's promotion to interest them in the Savannah River. The chemical firm then was planning a rayon and cellophane plant, and at Moody's suggestion sent men here to investigate water and other conditions.

The rayon market went weak and the Augusta idea was dropped. Moody, however, called at Wilmington, Del., nearly every time he went to New York. He often talked to the duPonts there about water. He was active in the Savannah River power project, now building the first of 11 power dams upriver from Augusta. The Savannah's main point, besides power, is purity.

Just before World War II, the duPonts again sent men here, looking for cold water—not over 45 degrees. Deep wells around Augusta did not produce this and they returned to Wilmington by auto. While passing through Waynesboro, Va., they noticed a bubbling spring. They took the water's temperature—42. The accidental stop located the rayon plant at Waynesboro.

Moody kept talking to them about the pure Savannah water. At that time he knew nothing about atomic reactors. DuPont men made more analyses, the last a little more than a year ago.

The analysis is on record here, a dozen minerals in the Savannah and their percentages. Those chemical elements are the hinge. Which are important and exactly why is not on record, and the duPonts have said nothing, not even whether the last analysis was made with the idea of the H-bomb reactor which they are to engineer, construct and operate here.

But the major explanations are in the official records that tell why the Columbia River area in the State of Washington was chosen for the reactors there which make plutonium for A-bombs. Pure water is used in a honeycomb of small pipes to keep the atomic reactors from getting hot enough to melt.

A few impurities in the cooling water will absorb the most precious stuff in the world, which is worth far more than its weight in diamonds. This substance is neutrons, the particles which make plutonium by transmutation.

The same neutrons will make the heavy H-bomb hydrogen, tritium, and Savannah River water will do the cooling. There are unofficial reports in Washington that the Savannah is the purest in the nation, from the point of view of neutrons. The Red River in Texas was considered. The Savannah won over all others, in part possibly because of the duPonts' numerous studies.

How big is the hinge in this river? Just a few molecules less of impurities in each million molecules of water swung the door for the Augusta Chamber of Commerce.

We see only one side of the moon because it circles the earth and the earth turns in unison with the moon.

Operation Halves Woman's Weight—From 600 To 300

BURNIPS, Mich.—(AP)—A 58-year-old Allegan County widow was recovering today at her farm home near here from an operation that reduced her weight by half—from 600 to 300 pounds.

Physicians said that Mrs. Gertrude Levandowski had been suffering for 10 years from an abdominal tumor which caused a secretion of liquid in her body tissue, thus creating the excess weight.

Although the illness is not considered rare, few persons have been able to survive its effects for so long a period, the physicians said.

Hopeful that she can eventually reduce to a mere 200 pounds, Mrs. Levandowski explained that until two weeks ago she had refused to permit the operation on the ground that she feared her heart would not be able to stand the shock.

"But I decided I couldn't go on much longer, and if I didn't make it, perhaps doctors would learn something that might help others in my condition," Mrs. Levandowski said.

Her weight had always been normal for her height of five feet eight inches, Mrs. Levandowski said, until about 10 years ago. Although she underwent treatment continuously, doctors had warned her that surgery was the only possible cure, she added.

Physicians, and attendants at Allegan Hospital where the operation was performed attested to the 600 pound weight.

The operation involved removal of the tumor and draining excess liquids from the tissue.

Mrs. Levandowski returned Saturday to her home where she lives with a 17-year-old son.

She said physicians have pronounced the operation a success and hold out hope that diet may enable her to reach her 200 pound goal.

AHS Trips Hawks; Neale Fired As Eagles Coach

Losers' Rally Falls Short In 57-55 Thriller

Hartman High Man With 28 Points; 7th Win For Allegany

A last ditch rally by Ridgeley's Blackhawks just fell short and Coach Walter L. "Bill" Bowers' Allegany High Campers scored a thrilling 57-55 victory over the visitors last night at Campobello.

The battle was nip and tuck throughout with never more than four or five points separating the two teams until the final period began.

Allegany led 39-36 opening the fourth quarter but the Hawks knotted the count at 45-45 with five minutes to play.

Ronnie Sisk broke the deadlock with a pair of fouls and added a fielder moments later to hike Allegany's advantage to 49-45. John Eversole connected with a twin-pointer and Carl Hartman and Ronnie Lease traded goals to make it 53-47. Don Decker potted a foul before Eversole and Lease again scored from the floor to give the Campers their largest margin at 57-48 with less than two minutes remaining.

Hartman then connected with a fielder and converted a free throw when fouled. Abe then scored to make it 57-53 with 20 seconds to play. Hartman then stole the ball and dropped home a set shot to round out the scoring as the Campers froze the ball the final seconds of the contest.

Sisk was the only player ejected on personals, leaving with two minutes remaining in the fourth period.

Sisk, Lease, Eversole and Frank Phares tallied 49 points among them for the winners while Hartman was the big gun once again for Ridgeley with 10 goals and 8 of 10 fouls for 28 markers.

The AHS Reserves turned back Ridgeley 56-24 in the preliminary game with Billy Cook pacing the victors with 14 points. The lineups:

How would you like to win a game after playing two overtime periods then be informed you were the loser when the first extra period ended?

It happened in Martinsburg (W. Va.) last Friday.

Martinsburg High's Jayvees were playing Fort Hill High's junior varsity quint and the regulation game ended in a 35-35 deadlock.

After a three-minute overtime period was completed the home team led by a single point, 37-36.

But the officials decided a two-point margin was necessary and then launched a sudden-death overtime period in which Coach Ray (Waynesburg) Hull's team came out on top, 39-37.

A hasty perusal of the rule book in the dressing room revealed the illogic of the referees' decision and the score reverted to 37-36 in favor of Martinsburg.

Presley W. "Red" Mauk who promoted amateur and professional boxing and wrestling shows here before tossing in the sponge last year is now employed by a Pittsburgh home insulation firm but manages to spend his week-ends here.

Mauk still follows boxing closely even though he is not promoting the sport.

From Oct. 28, 1946 through May 22, 1950, Mauk staged 13 amateur shows, two pro fistic shows and two programs featuring the grapplers.

"Red" also managed Jim Folk, the Meyersdale, Pa., lightweight, who has been out of circulation since he was knocked out by Jesse Keeler in seven rounds last May.

Altoona's Flyers of the All-American Pro Basketball League are cracking at the seams and Coach Eddie Artman has sent out an SOS for new players.

Carl Nordbloom, former Penn State player, is among the new faces to join the team. Now the Flyers who have lost seven of their last eight games are angling for the services of George McCrossin, formerly of Pitt.

Norvel Lee, the negro heavyweight who showed too much class for his opponents in two bouts here, had to hustle the other night to win in the Golden Gloves Tournament at Washington, D. C. He had his hands full decisioning Edgar Smith.

Robert "Red" Howard, the Washingtonian who was punched silly by Lew Kozarek and "Skeets" Starkey and waltzed to a win over Joe Niland in bouts here, was belted out in 1:22 of the first round by Aubrey Greenhow in the Washington tourney.

An oddity of the tourney came on opening night when Greenhow fouled Howard with a low punch and the latter was hurt so badly it was decided to give him a week's rest and another chance. Then Greenhow iced "Red" in 1:22.

Gary Moreland who reports Romney's home games for this paper really hit the jackpot in the student balloting.

He topped 'em all in nicest personality, most courteous (he gets our votes here) and he's regarded as the best dancer.

Where is Biertown?

This question has been asked quite often since a basketball team with that name has appeared in print.

The mystery was solved the other night when the manager of the Biertown team told us that the place is located near Rawlings and is a community with about 20 dwellings.

Will Finish 3-Year Pact With Team

To Hold Another Job, Club Says After Announcement

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7 (AP) — Earle (Greasy) Neale was dismissed today as head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles the Philadelphia Inquirer reported.

The Inquirer said the 59-year-old Neale confirmed he had been notified that he has been relieved of his coaching duties by James P. Clark, Eagles president ,in a telephone conversation with Neale at his Lakeland, Fla., home. Clark s one of a syndicate of Philadelphians who purchased the Eagles in 1949.

Neale led the Eagles to two National Football League championships, in 1948 and 1949.

The Inquirer quoted Neale as saying he had been advised he was relieved of his job as head coach and field director of the team, effective immediately. His contract with the club, Neale was quoted was adding, will be honored by the Eagles in another capacity.

Neale signed a three-year contract when the Clark group took over from Alexis Thompson. The contract runs through the 1951 season Reportedly, it calls for $15,000 annually.

Neale said that he had every intention of serving out his contract in a capacity mutually agree le to Clark and him, the Inquirer reported.

Clark was not availab's for comment immediately, but the Inquirer said "it was believed" Neale might be slated for a scouting job with the Eagles.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP) — Ray Famecheon, of France, third ranking featherweight, has been suspended indefinitely by the National Boxing Association.

The NBA said today it took the action at the request of the Ohio Association of Boxing Commissioners. Famecheon has had a virus infection, and the suspension will run until he fulfills his contract to fight Eddie Burgin in Cincinnati.

Louis Pounds Out Decision Over Agramonte

Ex-Champ Continues Comeback Attempt

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7 —(AP)— Joe Louis pounded out a unanimous ten-round decision over Omelio Agramonte of Cuba here tonight to clear another roadblock on the comeback trail toward another heavyweight championship fight.

The Brown bomber, favored to win in four rounds or less, failed to catch the dancing Cuban with a knockout blow, but Agramonte, bleeding from the mouth and left eye, was hanging on desperately as the bell ended the tenth round.

Agramonte's retreating tactics kept him out of trouble for seven rounds, but Joe opened a gash over the Cuban's eye in the eighth, pounded him hard in the ninth, and had him on the verge of a knockout all through the tenth.

Louis weighed 209 pounds, the lightest since he reigned as heavyweight king. Agramonte weighed 187.

Clingerman's, Ruth's Cop Shuffle Games

Clingerman's Restaurant and Ruth's Tavern copped 3-0 decisions over Woodmen of the World and Pocahontas last night in ladies shuffleboard games. In other matches Stadium Inn won two from the Moose and Cresap Tavern took a 2-1 decision from Frostburg American Legion.

High scorers were R. Gleason, Clingerman's, 21; B. McCloskey, WOW, 17; Olive Botorff, Ruth's 25; Evelyn Falford, Pocahontas, 14; Nell Porter, Stadium Inn, 28; Mary Humbertson, Moose, 30; Vi Gibson, Cresap Tavern, 25; Bertha Clink, Legion, 21.

Mont To Speak At Dapper Dan Dinner Feb. 25

Tommy Mont, former Allegany High School football and basketball star and now assistant backfield coach for the professional Washington Redskins football team, will be a guest speaker at the Dapper Dan's annual banquet February 25.

Majors Call Meeting To Select Head

Confab Set Mar. 12 To Settle Squabble

NEW YORK, Feb—(INS) Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler said today that a "showdown meeting" with major league club owners will be held at Miami Beach, Fla., March 12.

The meeting, called by league presidents Ford Frick and Will Harridge, on behalf of the club owners, was set up for the "primary purpose of electing a new commissioner."

"This will be a showdown meeting to settle my status once and for all," the commissioner declared.

Chandler said Miami Beach was chosen as the site of the meeting because most of the clubs will be going through spring training program in that area.

It was at the St. Petersburg, Fla., winter baseball meetings last December that the club owners voted not to renew Chandler's $65,000-a-year contract after it expires in April, 1952.

Since then an anti-Chandler faction, led by owners Fred Saigh of the St. Louis Cardinals and Del Webb of the New York Yankees, has sought to get the commissioner out of office before that time.

A four-man committee of club owners was appointed to screen possible candidates for the office.

Moorefield And Keyser To Clash In Crucial Game Tonight

Top Contenders In PVC Race To Clash In Keyser Tonight

Both Boast Lengthy Win Streaks; Potomac State On Road Trip

It's Moorefield High School vs. Keyser High School tonight at Keyser in the game that might decide the championship of the Potomac Valley Conference for the 1950-51 season.

Moorefield, coached by Jonathan (Johnny) Paugh, leads the 17-team race with a record of 14 wins and no losses, including a 53-37 decision over KHS at Moorefield. The Hardy countains have an overall record of 16 wins and one loss and have racked up 14 consecutive victories since their lone defeat at the hands of Fort Hill in Moorefield on December 19.

Keyser Wins Nine In Row

Keyser's conference record is nine wins and one loss and John Shelton's boys have bagged 13 wins while losing a pair to Moorefield and the Alumni. The Mineral Countains boast a winning streak of nine games since they lost to MHS on January 5.

Moorefield will practically sew up the championship if it wins tonight's game as it should take its last two from Petersburg and Mathias. The Jackets play a schedule of 17 PVC games. If Keyser wins it will be a battle down to the wire as the Sheltonites will have five games left to to play—Davis, Ridgeley and Parsons, away, and Piedmont and Davis at home. Keyser's schedule lists 16 PVC tilts.

Fisher Has 276 Points

Tonight's contest brings together two of leading scorers in the circuit in George Fisher, Yellow Jackets' center, who is the leader with 276 points in 14 games, or 43 ahead of Carl Hartman of Ridgeley with 233 to his credit, while Neil Porter of KHS has amassed 165 tallies in 10 contests.

The game billed for the Keyser High gym will get under way at 8 o'clock and should attract one of the season's largest crowds.

Potomac State embarks on a three-day jaunt within the State of West Virginia by playing Salem College tonight, Fairmont State's Falcons on Friday and West Virginia Wesleyan's Bobcats on Saturday night at Buckhannon. These are all conference games.

Coach Dana Lough's Catamounts are playing .500 ball in the conference, having won five games and lost five. The Keyserites hold an 80-63 decision over Salem but are playing Wesleyan and Fairmont only once this season. To date Potomac has engaged in 18 games, winning 10 and losing eight.

In another game billed for tonight, the Wardensville High Warriors play at Strasburg, Va.

Sports Sputterings

By WALTER L. JOHNS

SUGAR RAY ROBINSON, probably the best fighting man in the ring today, any weight considered, finally gets his chance at that middleweight crown on Valentine's Day in Chicago when he meets the Bull, Jacob LaMotta, the only guy to hold a decision over Sugar in his long fighting career.

Few fistic observers will be betting on LaMotta, you can be sure, for Sugar Ray is the best and he's already beaten the Bronx Bull four out of five times.

Ray, outgrowing the welter division, has been seeking a shot at the middleweight crown for years, but only now has he been given the chance.

Actually, the Sugar one already holds one middleweight crown, that being the Pennsylvania version, won last year in a fight with Robert Villemain.

And, it could be possible for Sugar to win the crown from LaMotta BEFORE he enters the ring in Chicago the night of Feb. 14.

Here's the setup, according to word from the Chicago boxing front. LaMotta must make the 160-pound limit by noon the day of the fight. If he doesn't make it, he forfeits the crown although the bout will go on.

LaMotta has been give an "extra" chance by the Illinois commission, that being permission to weigh in at 10 a. m. the day of the fight. If he doesn't make it then, he will be given the second chance at noon.

ROBINSON'S career is the more spectacular of the two fighters. He was undefeated as an amateur in New York and won both the feather and lightweight titles before he turned pro at the age of 20 in 1940. He has fought more than 100 bouts and suffered only that one loss, a 10-round decision LaMotta won over him in Detroit on February 3, 1943.

Sugar has been active in the ring, fighting six times in the U. S. last year and then making a European tour where he won five straight bouts.

• • • •

LaMOTTA came by his middleweight crown by accident, you might say. He was rated ninth among the contenders for the title held by Marcel Cerdan of France when he was given a shot at it.

The bout was fought in Detroit June 16, 1949, and Jake won it by a 10-round K. O. after Cerdan injured his shoulder early and fought most of the bout with one arm.

Cerdan was given a return shot at the Bull but on his way to New York for the fight, in October, 1949, he was killed in an airplane crash in the Azores.

LaMotta's record is a spotty one. He started fighting as a pro in 1941 and has been beaten by such ringmen as Jimmy Reeves, Nate Bolden, Jose Basora, Fritzie Zivic, Lloyd Marshall, Cecil Hudson, Robert Villemain and Laurent Dauthuille. He was kayoed by Billy Fox in four rounds.

The Bull's story is an unusual one. He began as a shoe shine boy on New York's lower east side, became a neighborhood hero because of his street fighting ability and then entered the amateurs where he knocked out 21 straight opponents.

Adding the unusual twist to his story is the matter of weight. He originally was a 185-pound heavyweight and trained down to light heavyweight and finally the middleweight class.

Jolisam Cops Nursery Stake At Hialeah

Daily Double Pays 82 Backers $771.20

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7 (AP) — In a mad scramble through the nursery course A. B. Christopher's Jolisam was returned the winner of the fourth running of the $7,500 Florida Breeders Stakes at Hialeah Park, today.

Running straight along the inner rail, the son of Sammie led home 16 other juveniles foaled in the Sunshine State and earned a purse of $7,875. Ridden by Jimmy Stout, he finished three lengths in front of Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's Brother March, which in turn was a length clear of J. J. Starling's Jones Brook, the even money favorite.

The race was roughly ran due to the unweildiness of the field, and the one that appeared to impede the chances of several horses was G. E. Woollward's Mama Na Wawae, which ducked in and out leaving the gate.

Jolisam, unplaced in his two previous races at the meeting, paid $11.30, $6.20 end $3.50. Brother March returned $14.70 and $6.50. Jones Brook, coupled with Game Lady, was $2.50 show.

This was the second year in a row that A. B. Christopher, of Miami, won the stake, having taken it last year with Mr. A. B. It was won by Mrs. J. G. Smith's Werwold in 1949 and by Mrs. T. Christopher's Rablim in 1948. The time today was 35 3-5, not bad considering the slow condition of the track.

The weather was clear and sunny, and a crowd of 16,489 watched the program.

General Staff, owned by Larry S. MacPhail, former executive of the New York Yankees, sharply boosted his status for the impending $50,000 Flamingo Stakes as he toyed with five other three-year-olds in the fourth race at Hialeah Park today. It was his second straight win over the track, and those who backed the big, good-looking son of Mahmoud got back only $2.70 for $2, shortest priced winner of the meeting.

Under topweight at 122, and ridden by Ira Hanford, General Staff led all the way in this seven-furlong race, covered in 1.28 4-5 in the slow footing. Rare Knave and Sun Tan Gal finished in a deadheat for the place, beaten 2½ lengths by MacPhail's ace. Fourth was Grass Fire.

MacPhail scratched General Staff from the Bahamas Handicap last Saturday because he had been assigned 122 pounds by racing Secretary Charles J. McLennan. However, the colt had no trouble handling that impost today.

The daily double paid $771.20, largest of the meeting. It was formed by Main Chance Farm's Graphic, $7.60, which won the opener for maiden three-year-olds, by a dozen lengths, and Al-Ja Stable's Jack Heather, which annexed the second, paying $192.80, $62.40 and $25.80. There were 82 tickets sold on this luscious combination.

Frostburg Will Up Water Rates Effective June 1

Three Bond Issues Also Planned

FROSTBURG—The Mayor and City Commissioners have decided to raise the water rates to local consumers for additional funds to meet the growing expenses of the city government.

City Attorney Edward J. Ryan was instructed Monday evening to prepare an ordinance providing for an increase in rates to become effective with the quarter beginning June 1. Council approved an advance in minimum meter rates from 40 cents to 50 cents per thousand gallons, and the minimum flat rate will be advances from $3 to $4.50 per quarter. There will be an additional 25 percent advance for home facilities and a minimum meter charge from $3 to $4.50 per quarter.

The city attorney was also instructed to prepare bills to be sent to the Maryland General Assembly as soon as possible.

The bills will provide for three bond issues, $50,000 and $25,000 for street improvement and $25,000 for sewer improvement.

The city's total bonded indebtedness at present totals $381,000. If the present new issues are authorized, the total bonded indebtedness will be $481,000.

The city total assessable basis is $6,708,246, according to record's in the office of the city clerk.

Tri-State Deaths

MRS. JANE W. P. STEWART

FROSTBURG — Mrs. Jane W. Price Stewart, 86, died yesterday afternoon at her home, 26 Washington Street, Eckhart, after being seriously ill since January 8, when she fractured her hip in a fall.

Born October 8, 1864 in Eckhart, she was the daughter of the late Edward and Ann Price and is the widow of James W. Stewart who died last April 24. They celebrated their sixty third wedding anniversary October 19, 1949.

Mrs. Stewart was the only surviving child of her parents. She is survived by one daughter, Miss Margaret Stewart, at home, and three sons, John Stewart, of here; Robert Stewart, Hagerstown; and Price Stewart, Baltimore.

Mrs. Stewart was a lifelong member of First English Baptist Church here. The body is at Hafer's Funeral Home.

ATKINSON FUNERAL

LONACONING—Services for Mrs. Margaret Muir Atkinson, 89, widow of H. H. Atkinson, who died Thursday, February 1st, were held Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas M. Holmes, Lonaconing.

George McAlpine of Jehovah's Witnesses officiated, and burial was in Hillcrest Burial Park, Cumberland.

Besides her daughter, Mrs. Holmes, she was survived by three other daughters, Mrs. P. R. Savage, Mrs. John Brodbeck, Mrs. James Richmond and one son, Hugh Atkinson, all of Lonaconing, one brother David Muir, Rock Springs, Wyoming, twelve grandchildren and twenty great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers were Dr. Walter E. Jeffries, Frostburg; Homer W. Spangler, Somerset, Pa.; J. O. Mello, Lowell M. Sowers, John Atkinson, Lonaconing; Marshall Martin, Midland, Md.

MRS. OLIVIA B. MITCHELL

OAKLAND — Mrs. Oliva B. Mitchell, 84, died early yesterday morning at the home of her daughter and son in law Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Naylor, here.

Widow of the late Edwin L. Mitchell, she was born March 2, 1867 in Annapolis. She was the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. E. J. M. Button of that city.

Mrs. Mitchell is survived by her daughter, three granddaughters, one great grandson, and one sister, Mrs. Edward H. Sincell, of here.

A funeral service will be conducted from the Naylor home Saturday at 2:30 by Dr. W. S. Patterson, Buchannon, W. Va., former pastor of Methodist Church here.

Burial will be in Oakland Cemetery.

ADAMS RITES

Final rites for Charles Price Adams were held yesterday morning at Oldtown Methodist Church with Rev. T. E. Richardson, pastor, officiating. Interment was in Fort Ashby Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Fern Wilson, Littlefield Nixon, John R. Louis, Leroy Allen, Elmo Alderton, and Ervin Schaidt.

Coketon Man Faces Charge In Shooting

Hill Being Held In Tucker Jail

PARSONS, W. Va.—Havin Hill, 44, Coketon, is being held in the Tucker county jail in Parsons on default of a $1,000 bond on a charge of attempted murder of William Cussins, 60, Bunker Hill, in Thomas.

Hill is charged with going to the home of Henry Green in Coketon Sunday with a .38 calibre pistol and there firing three times at Cussins, wounding him only once in the left hand. Following the shooting he returned to his home where he was arrested by Sheriff D. E. Crosten, Trooper G. H. Phillips and Constables Thomas Coleman and Luke Close. Sheriff Crosten said that Hill had been drinking at the time of the shooting and it was a result of a feud that had existed between the two men for some time. Hill was given a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace, O. B. Collins in Thomas Monday afternoon and is being held for the action of the grand jury.

Hoye White, about 45, Bunker Hill, posted a $500 bond for his appearance before the grand jury on a charge of brandishing a dangerous weapon with criminal intent. White is charged with threatening Jonas Nazelrod, about 65, also of Bunker Hill, with an ax. White is charged with chasing Nazelrod from the White home and knocking him down and threatening him but Nazelrod escaped unhurt. White was arrested by Sheriff Crosten and Trooper Phillips and was also given a preliminary hearing before Justice Collins Monday.

The officers also apprehended three juveniles from Pierce Monday and the boys confessed to the theft of $85 from the Pierce Grade school. Part of the money was returned. The boys are being taken by the officers to Keyser today where they will be given a hearing before Judge Ernest A. See.

Firemen Are Called To Mt. Savage

MT. SAVAGE—The Mt. Savage and Frostburg Volunteer Fire Companies were summoned early last night to the home of Irvin Geiger, near Mt. Savage.

No damage was reported from the flue fire.

Mrs. Geiger, unable to get on the party line, asked a neighbor to turn in an alarm after sparks flying from the chimney were being fanned by a high wind.

Apple Growers Receive Awards For 1950 Crops

West Virginia Producers Feted

Silver goblets were presented to Edward Miller of the Romney Orchards; Henry Miller, Consolidated Orchard, Inc., Paw Paw; Mrs. Morris Cather, for the Bett-Morr Orchard at Charles Town; E. C. McFadden of Martinsburg, Fred Matson of Martinsburg for the Sunrise Orchards at Romney, and Tom Byrd, operator of the orchards near Charles Town owned by his brother, the Virginia senator.

Along with the cups went a year's membership in the Appalachian Quality Apple Club.

The awards were presented by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and are based on quality points assigned by federal and state inspectors. Each entrant was judged on a carload lot of apples—500 bushels in baskets or boxes.

The apple growers received their prizes at a dinner session of the Horticulture Society's 58th convention, attended by about 40 orchardists from the apple belt which covers the Panhandle and nearby sections of Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

It is 2, 4, 5-trichlorophenoxypropionic acid.

It is the first substance found anywhere, he said, that gives really satisfactory results as a spray to keep apples from dropping off the trees before they can be harvested. It can be used within one to three weeks before the apples mature.

Dr. Thompson said that unfortunately it is not being made in large enough quantities to be generally available for the 1951 crop.

Keyser Council Studies Dispute

KEYSER, W. Va.—Keyser City Council has instructed City Attorney James H. Swadley, Jr. to suspend further action on the injunction suit against Horace Lewis to compel him to remove or permit the removal of a fence that is said to be obstructing Lincoln Street.

The suit was brought at the insistance of Frank Snider, of Keyser, and based on a surveyor's report that Lewis, as the owner of two lots on Lincoln Street, had fenced and enclosed a portion of Lincoln Street thus obstructing access to Snider's lot lying to the west of the Lewis property.

The city attorney advised council at that time that he had determined that the surveyor's report was in error as to the location of the fence and that the fence is located 30 feet from the Lewis property.

Lewis appeared before the mayor and council Tuesday and advised them that he has never refused to provide Snider access to his real estate. He believes council should not attempt to put a street through his property to accommodate Snider inasmuch as the city has never maintained a street at that point.

Garbage Fees Are Increased In Piedmont

Vandalism Reported At Filtration Plant

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—The rate for the collection of garbage for three months will be increased, effective April 1.

The change was ordered at the regular meeting of Mayor Harold Fredlock and the City Council recently making the price for the family card $1 for three months instead of 75 cents, the present rate. For business places, rates will be raised from $1.50 to $2.

Mayor Fredlock read a report submitted by Joseph Eger, operator of the filtration plant, for damage suffered by boys shooting air rifles around the filtration plant. Damage included 39 window panes, 5-100 watt globes and one light guard.

The council instructed James Harrison, chief of police, to round up as many of the boys as possible and notify their parents as to the cost of replacing the items damaged.

Miss Mazie Kitzmiller and Mrs. Carroll Patterson appeared relative to disorderly conduct and violations of the beer laws allegedly occuring at the place of business operated by Alvin Barnard and known as Park Place on Ashfield Street.

Miss Kitzmiller stated she had written the Commissioners in Charleston, W. Va. about it but had not received an answer and requested the city officials to take some action.

Christian Movie Planned At Church

WESTERNPORT — "For Good or Evil," a dramatic and true-to-life motion picture on the Christian use of money will bes hown at Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church Sunday at 7 p. m. Rev. Robert E. Cassell, pastor, states.

This is the first religious film made with dialogue sound completely on location. Rather than in a Hollywood studio, it was produced in an eastern rural town to give the story every possible bit of authentic flavor.

Nurse Addresses Moorefield Club

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — Miss Ruth Kessel, chairman of Public Welfare in the Moorefield Women's Club and public health nurse in Hardy county, told of the work done in this county in combatting disease as she presented the club's program this week.

Among other facts she reported that since she started to work in Hardy county in September, 1946, the Moorefield Lions Club has purchased glasses for 75 children.

Mrs. Francis Baker, president, called for reports on the Friendship Project and appointed Miss Ella Bergdoll captain in the place of Mrs. H. M. Maxwell, who is unable to attend meetings the rest of this year. The scrap book on American homes had been completed by Mrs. S. L. Dodd and her committee and sent to the state chairman.

Mrs. M. A. Bean, Miss Kessel and Mrs. E. G. Hamrick were appointed a committee to plan for the Moorefield club's participation in the new national contest, building freedom with youth.

Mrs. W. J. Teets and Mrs. Donald Baker were asked to meet with the president to plan a money making project.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 7—(INS)—At last the movies have snagged Frank Fay. Twentieth has signed the original star of "Harvey" to play Bill Lundigan's superior officer in "A WAC In His Life." I want to say right here that if Frank gets over on the screen one half the warmth and comedy he gets over on the stage, we've got another star on the rise in Hollywood.

There was a time when Frank was a little snarly about pictures. He made cracks about them in his night club and vaudeville routines which use to hurt Barbara Stanwyck, his wife at the time.

And there'ss more news about this film: Marilyn Monroe, who has been almost in retirement since the death of her agent and friend, Johnny Hyde, joins Jeanne Crain in the glamour lineup for the Jules Buck production.

• — • — •

Paulette Goddard and Burgess Meredith haven't yet signed that final property settlement—but if you think there's any hard feeling on either side, listen to this:

Paulette Goddard

Burgess may direct Paulette on the stage in "Let Me Hear The Melody" with Franchot Tone as her co-star! I'm not joking—that's the setup S. N. Behrman proposed to Paulette when he sent her his new play to read. With this setup of names an situations, I'd say Behrman is as good a publicity man as he is a playwright. And, Paulette, who also has an eye out for publicity values is a gal who would relish the attention sure to be caused by her emoting under the direction of her ex-husband.

• — • — •

I am greatly interested to hear that John Hodiak, whose speaking voice is one of the best on the screen, is making records of Shakespeare and other classics for children.

John is simplifying the texts so that the youngsters can understand, and I can say from my own experience that when I was a child I read Charles and Mary Lamb's "Tales of Shakespeare" so that by the time I was old enough to read Shakespeare I was already familiar with his plays.

I am heartily in favor of letting our children know the classics and to tell them to them in a way to stimulate their interest.

Chatter in Hollywood: Scotty Beckett, who yesterday was a child actor, is today old enough to be classified 1A. So it looks as if its's the Army for Scotty, who is under contract at Columbia.

Not only is Scotty's screen career to be postponed, but his marriage to Sunny Vickers, Columbia actress, will not take place until Scotty is out of the service.

• — • — •

While playing golf at the Riviera links John Agar was hit on the leg with a golf ball and was given first aid.

'Tis rumored that Errol Flynn plans to reopen his fight against Lili Damita and ask again that her allmony be reduced.

Something new in woo—Jackie Coogan and Lisa Ferraday at the Tallyho.

Stanley Donen flies to Palm Springs about three times a week to see Elizabeth Taylor, who is at the Palm Springs Biltmore Hotel.

Red Skelton, who hasn't hoofed since his old vaudeville days, does a tap routine with Ann Miller in "Texas Carnival" that's good enough to lift Fred Astaire's eyebrows.

Gloria Pinza, infant daughter of Doris and Ezio Pinza, who was born with two teeth, is being christened Sunday at All Saints Church. Her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leake, are the godparents.

The most surprising twosome of the week, Linda Darnell and Eddie Norris at a Valley restaurant.

Rita Quigley (Mrs. Arthur Goehner) has lost her sixth expected child. It was a little girl born prematurely, as were the other babies. Sympathy goes to her—she so wanted that baby and planned to name it after her sister, Juanita, who has entered a convent as a novice to become a nun.

Lou Nova in the King's with a beauty from Canada named Beverly White, telling everyone, "This is it!"

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Area Students May Vie For Scholarships

High school seniors of the Cumberland area are eligible to compete for scholarships of $400 to $2,500 which will be awarded to girls entering Wilson College next September, President Paul Swain Havens announced today.

Five Sarah Wilson scholarships of $2,500 each for the four college years will be assigned to the applicants with the highest standing in entrance examinations. A Wilson music scholarship with a maximum four-year value of $1,600 will go to a girl of marked musical talent and superior academic record.

To aid the daughters of educators and ministers eight special scholarships have been established. Yearly grants from this fund will range up to $500 each.

A number of general scholarships will be given. They will carry an annual stipend of $100 and $300 and a four-year value of $400 and $1,200 depending on the need of the student.

Financial need, character, general promise, and scholastic merit will be the chief factors in choosing recipients of the awards. Information and application forms may be obtained from the Director of Admissions, Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa.

Price Freeze Rules Available

Regulations covering the government's price freeze are available at the Chamber of Commerce and soon will be sent to banks for distribution to businessmen.

The Office of Price Stabilization in Baltimore yesterday urged the cooperation of the press in presenting the price program to the public.

Lou Zekial, information officer for the Baltimore OPS office, urged that any requests for information be channeled to his office. The address is: Lou Zekial, Information Officer, Office Of Price Stabilization, 103 South Gay Street, Room 210, Baltimore, 2, Md. His phone number is Plaza 8460, Extension 465.

Meanwhile, the Mayor and Council has pledged cooperation in setting up a volunteer committee to assist in stabilizing prices in Cumberland.

The proposal met the full approval of the council last night after Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz asserted: "We want no black market here."

Mayor Thomas S. Post said Tueday that the city would be glad to cooperate in the program. Earlier, Michael V. DiSalle, price director, said he would ask mayors of cities of 10,000 population or more to set up these volunteer committees to encourage "general public knowledge and observance of regulations adopted in the interest of sound national economy."

Liquor Appeal Case Has Been Postponed

The appeal case of Edward J. Belfoure and the Hi-Dee Club, 36 North Mechanic Street, from a conviction on a sale of intoxicants to minors charge in Police Court, scheduled yesterday morning in Circuit Court, has been postponed.

Associate Judge George Henderson said the trial was delayed after Edward J. Ryan, Belfoure's counsel, was called to try a case in the Court of Appeals in Annapolis.

Belfoure was fined $150 in Police Court on the charge.

Typewriter Purchased By Parent-Teachers

Violin numbers played by Wilton H. Sykes, accompanied by Mrs. Samuel T. Weatherholt, were "Schon," Kreisler; "Romance," Wieniawski; "Csardas," Monti; and "Perpetuo Mobile," Bohm.

Mrs. A. J. Mirkin was commentator during the showing of a movie, "Preface to a Life," and was chairman for a discussion period which followed.

Mrs. George Stein and Mrs. Richard Cook were in charge of home room mothers serving refreshments. Assisting were Mesdames Lydia Burke, Bertrum Lazarus, Cantrill Campbell, Arnold Ballard, William Brown, Henry Christman, Charles Long, and Harold Kirk.

IN A MEDITATIVE POSE, James Hatwig, 6, is back at his lessons after he ran away from his Chicago home in rebellion against school and an early-to-bed routine. Jimmy packed a bundle of clothes, took 94 cents from his piggy bank and headed for "Missouri." He was going the wrong way when he confided in a policewoman. She returned the young adventurer to his worried parents. (International)

Tickets For Fort Hill Play Available Saturday Feb. 10

Tickets for the Fort Hill High School production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "H.M.S. Pinafore" will be available to the public on Saturday at Rosenbaum's and Dailey's Cumberland Electric Company.

The price of tickets for this light opera, which will be presented Thursday, February 15, at 8 p. m., is seventy-five cents.

These ticket booths are being sponsored by members of the Penn. Ave.-Fort Hill Alumni Association. Misses Dorothy McCoy and Jean McCoy will be in charge of the Rosenbaum booth.

Misses Doris Brown, Lois Davis, and Elva Jean Taylor will be in charge of the booth at Dailey's.

Tickets may also be obtained from Fort Hill High School students.

The cast for the light opera, sponsored by the Choir and Glee Clubs consists of: the Right Honorable Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., first Lord of the Admiralty, played by Bruce Ambrose; Captain Corcoran, Commander of H. M. S. Pinafore, Warfield Wilson; Ralph Rackstraw, Able Seaman, Bill Burkhart; Dick Deadeye, Able Seaman, Mike Smith; Bill Bobstay, Boatswain's Mate, Eddie Smith and Carl Robertson (this role has been divided between the two boys.)

Bob Becket, Carpenter's Mate, Kermit Combs; Josephine, the captain's daughter, Adalee Brant; Cousin Hebe, Sir Joseph's first cousin, Shirley Brinkman; Little Buttercup, a Portsmouth bumboat woman, Betty Clapp, and a chorus of the First Lord of the Admiralty's sisters, his cousins, his aunts, sailors, marines, etc., made up of members of the A Capella Choir and Glee Clubs.

The proceeds of this project will be used to help pay for the organ which has been purchased by the school.

Burglary In Local Tavern Cleared Up

Charles Edward Swandol, 20, this city, signed a statement Tuesday in the State's Attorney's office admitting that he burglarized Virgie's Tavern, 1614 Ford Avenue.

Detective Thomas J. See said Swandol confessed to stealing a small radio, three pen and pencil sets, six cartons of cigarets and about $4 in cash January 25.

Swandol told authorities he gained entrance through a side door. However, evidence showed the tavern was entered through a window. He is being held in Allegany County Jail pending disposition of the case.

Miss Blonskey Honored By Penn Ave. PTA

The Parent Teacher Association of Pennsylvania Avenue School Tuesday night paid honor to Miss Lula Blonskey who has completed 30 years as an educator in Allegany county schools, all but one of them at the South End institution.

More than 200 persons joined in the celebration and the PTA presented Miss Blonskey with a life membership in the Parent Teachers Association of Maryland.

Miss Blonskey came to Pennsylvania Avenue School in 1920 as teacher.

A Column for Men

STAG LINES

By BERT BACHARACH

Autry Sets Style

Western Sportswear

FASHION: More and more men are adopting western apparel for leisure and sportswear, even though they do not get within hundreds of miles of a ranch. Gene Autry's cattleman outfit (at left) is an example of modified western garb.

Gadgets: There's a new dial-type thermometer that registers lowest, highest, and present temperature for any given period. . . . An 11½-inch bacon fork that lets you keep out of spattering range while puttering around the stove. . . . Have you a dust allergy? Take precautions around the house—spray rugs, draperies, etc., with Dust-Seal.

Dress Tip: If a dusty streak encircles your wrist or shirt cuff each night, it's time to wash your watch strap. If it's of leather or plastic, use a cloth dampened with warm soapsuds—then rinse and dry. If it's metal, it can be dipped in warm suds, scrubbed and dried.

Advice on Ties: John Cameron Swayze, who qualifies as an expert on them, says: "The shape of a man's face should dictate the choice of pattern. Polka dots and circular patterns complement the long, thin face—while diagonal or vertical stripes lengthen the round face."

Wrong

Right

Fit of Socks: It isn't only the foot-size that matters, it's the length of the tops as well. A too-short anklet, or elastic-top sock, shows an expanse of leg when trousers are hiked up. For good grooming, you should select hose with high-enough tops.

Handyman: You can get that last penny's worth from tubes of toothpaste, shaving cream, etc., by rolling them around a wooden clothespin. Slip pin over tube and use like a key. . . . Allow aluminum pans to cool before washing. Cool water on a hot pan may cause warping.

Odd Items: Jackie (Homer) Kelk never wore a hat till his sinusitis forced him into one—and now he likes 'em! . . . A few department stores made signs of this column's suggestion that men keep hats on in elevators—for everybody's convenience—and displayed the notices in all their lifts. . . . Wallachs stores for men, N. Y., spend money advertising for you to come in and have spots removed, buttons sewed on, etc.—without feeling obligated to buy anything! . . . This week it's "Pass the Perfume"—instead of our usual custom of passing cigars—to Margaret Truman who, whether she's a good singer or not, has proved herself a fine trouper and a great sport.

Hear Annual Report

Fire losses and the number of alarms answered during 1950 were reported at a meeting of the Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Department Monday.

In his annual report, Chief Robert Adams said 45 volunteers were called out to five property fires, including two in Bedford Valley. Eighty-nine firemen responded to seven grass and forest fires.

One truck fire was reported and ten volunteers answered the call. Fifty-four firemen participated in five fire drills. Damage was minor in all cases.

Chief Adams said firemen arrived at the scenes within minutes after the alarms were sounded, "accounting for practically no property damage."

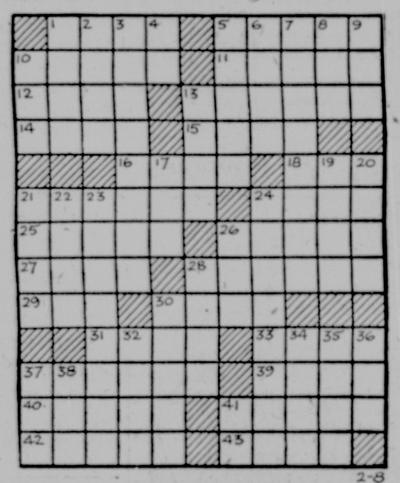
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy extended us in the death of our beloved father, Mr. Julian Laurent. We especially want to thank the ministers, Rev. C. N. Hutchenson and Rev. C. R. Welsh, pallbearers, those who donated the use of their cars and sent flowers.
The Laurent Family

In Memoriam

In memory of our husband and father, Herman Carroll, who passed away February 8, 1947.
YOUR MEMORY IS AS FRESH TODAY AS IN THE HOUR YOU PASSED AWAY.
Sadly missed by his Family.

In loving memory of our Father, Henry A. Schad, Sr., who passed away twelve years ago today, February 8, 1939.
Father, though the world forgets,
We hold you ever dear,
As long as life and memory
Go on year after year.
Mrs. Dora Pittman, Mrs. Clara Fehlman, Henry A. Schad, Jr.

YOU CAN SURVIVE THE ATOM BOMB

SIX SURVIVAL SECRETS FOR ATOMIC ATTACKS

ALWAYS Put First Things First

1. Try to Get Shielded

If you have time, get down in a basement or subway. Should you unexpectedly be caught out-of-doors, seek shelter alongside a building, or jump in any handy ditch or gutter.

2. Drop Flat On the Ground or Floor

To keep from being tossed about and to lessen the chances of being struck by falling and flying objects, flatten out at the base of a wall, or at the bottom of a bank.

3. Bury Your Face in Your Arms

When you drop flat, hide your eyes in the crook of your elbow. That will protect your face from flash burns, prevent temporary blindness and keep flying objects out of your eyes.

NEVER Lose Your Head

4. Don't Rush Outside Right After a Bombing

After an air burst, wait a few minutes then go help to fight fires. After other kinds of bursts wait a least 1 hour to give lingering radiation some chance to die down.

5. Don't Take Chances With Food or Water in Open Containers

To prevent radioactive poisoning or disease, select your food and water with care. When there is reason to believe they may be contaminated, stick to canned and bottled things if possible.

6. Don't Start Rumors

In the confusion that follows a bombing, a single rumor might touch off a panic that could cost your life.

REMOVE THIS SHEET AND KEEP IT WITH YOU UNTIL YOU HAVE MEMORIZED IT.

KILL THE MYTHS

Atomic Weapons Will Not Destroy the Earth

ATOMIC BOMBS hold more death and destruction than man ever before has wrapped up in a single package, but their over-all power still has very definite limits. Not even hydrogen bombs will blow the earth apart or kill us all by radioactivity.

Doubling Bomb Power Does Not Double Destruction

Modern A-bombs can cause heavy damage 2 miles away, but doubling their power would extend that range only to 2½ miles. To stretch the damage range from 2 to 4 miles would require a weapon more than 8 TIMES the rated power of present models.

Radioactivity is Not the Bomb's Greatest Threat

In most atom raids, blast and heat are by far the greatest dangers that people must face. Radioactivity alone would account for only a small percentage of all human deaths and injuries, except in underground or underwater explosions.

Radiation Sickness is Not Always Fatal

In small amounts, radioactivity seldom is harmful. Even when serious radiation sickness follows a heavy dosage, there is still a good chance for recovery.

Reprinted from the official U. S. government report.

Five Keys to Household Safety

1. Strive for "Fireproof Housekeeping"

Don't let trash pile up, and keep waste paper in covered containers. When an alert sounds, do all you can to eliminate sparks by shutting off the oil burner and covering all open flames.

2. Know Your Own Home

Know which is the safest part of your cellar, learn how to turn off your oil burner and what to do about utilities.

3. Have Emergency Equipment and Supplies Handy

4. Close All Windows and Doors and Draw the Blinds

If you have time when an alert sounds, close the house up tight in order to keep out fire sparks and radioactive dusts and to lessen the chances of being cut by flying glass. Keep the house closed until all danger is past.

5. Use the Telephone Only for True Emergencies

Minus Signs Predominate As Market Trading Shrinks

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—There was a cautious marking down of prices today in the stock market together with a display of strength in selected individual issues.

Almost every major group was irregular, but the minus signs predominated in the list as a whole.

Chicago Corp. was the most active issue of the day up ⅛ at 15⅞, and American Power & Light was second up ¾ at 20 ⅛.

General Motors, the third most active, was off ¼ at 51, and Anaconda was fourth with a gain of 1⅛ at 42 ⅜.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 40 cents at $96.30. The industrial component of the average was off 70 cents, and rails and utilities each fell 10 cents.

The volume of trading contracted 2,020,000 shares, the smallest in two weeks. Yesterday volume game to 2,360,000 shares.

RKO Theatre was fifth most active issue of the day up ⅛ at 5 ⅛. Loew's sank to the losing side and closed off ⅛ at 18 ⅛. Paramount, however, ended ahead 1 ⅛ at 24 ⅜.

Other stocks moving up included Seaboard Air Line up 2 at 57, Chesapeake & Ohio 1 ¼ at 38, Nickel Plate preferred 1 ⅞ at 153, American Woolen ¾ at 46 ⅛, Philip Morris 1 ⅝ at 54 ½, U. S. Rubber 1 ¾ at 57 ⅞, Boeing ¾ at 45 ¼, and Hiram Walker 2 at 55 ½.

of his law partner, Basil O'Connor, was purged and his political career wrecked because he told the truth. To his name should be added that of John McNaboe, New York State legislator, and of Judge Clare Gerald Fenerty, both of whom joined the fight so early that their names somehow passed me by.

No one could write a complete list, no matter how much he tried or whatever definitions he set up. However, as I read my mail, I was astonished at the repetition of the names I am noting, and how few others were offered.

Also, I must note that John Maass, advertising designer of Los Angeles, comments concerning my list that I have selected persons with criminal records. He says: "Most others in the list are fools or knaves, a few honest people are also included." He adds:

"Here is a piquant sidelight: I believe you are a Jew or at least of Jewish descent. Your list includes a number of professional anti-Semites who advocate the extermination of all Jews. If they were in power, you would be dispatched to the nearest gas chamber. Not even your record as an 'anti-Communist since 1917' would help you."

His letter is indeed a sad commentary on the continuance of a vile propaganda against many who love America and despise Stalin. Besides, the matter under discussion is Red-baiting before 1940 to show that some Americans recognized and understood a malignant disease. Mr. Maass's strictures are therefore irrelevant.

frontal assault on Western Germany, rather than a flank attack in Yugoslavia. Let them know that the certainty of reprisal is as absolute in both cases, so the argument runs, and they will quickly alter their plans.

Two problems must be solved before the needed warning can be conveyed to Moscow. It must be decided what form the warning is to take. And we must somehow be assured of the cooperation of our allies, and especially of the British, who would have to join us in the ensuing war if our warning were ignored.

It is terrible, indeed, to be discussing such problems in this cold-blooded manner. Yet it is much more terrible—it is the quickest way to betray the future—to be weak, to muddle along, to blunder toward Munich-like situations, to let war just happen because our intentions are unclear. The bad time has now come which was foretold last year to one of these reporters by a very great Englishman, who said, "We'll just have to get through it on nerve and the atomic bomb." He added, "We'll get through it nicely, in my judgment, if our nerves do not fail."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

MINIMIZE YOUR HAZARD IN THE PLAY for a large percentage of all contracts, bid to the limit of sound height, there is some possibility of defeat regardless of the plan followed. But, among several principles to be considered by a thorough declarer, an important one is how much he risks. If either of two alternate courses promises about as good a chance of success as the other, then he must weigh what will occur if the chosen method fails. In that case, if one could cost him a set of two or more tricks and the other only a set of one trick, it should not be hard for him to make his decision.

Pass	1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	2 ♠	Pass	3 ♣
Pass	4 ♥

At the two tables of a team game, with the bidding almost identical, the defenders scored two tricks in diamonds and South ruffed the third. One, who did that with the 7, promptly scored his four high trumps to clear the suit, then worked on the clubs, following the K with a finesse of the J. When East won that with the Q, his return to the spade A enabled West to beat the contract three tricks with two more diamonds, as South had no more trumps.

The other declarer used his heart A to ruff the third diamond so as to have the 7 for a lead to the dummy's 10. Not bothering with clubs, he led the spade 10 and, when East played low, sent it through to the A. West saw that the dummy could now ruff a diamond while South discarded, so chose the heart 3 for his return. South won this with the K, removed hostile trumps with the Q and J, then led to the club A.

He brought the spade 9 through, underplaying the 8 when East played low, next finessed the spade J and finished the hand with the two black kings.

If you will analyze the situation, this method took a reasonable risk of defeat only in case West happened to hold the spade Q. If that had been so, the contract stood to be beaten one trick, not three. South was fortunate to find the Q with East as one more example of the saying that "the better players seem to be luckier."

Zero Weather, High Wind, Snow Hit Tri-State

Stadium Poles Blown Over At Fort Hill

Winter-weary residents of the Tri-State area got another jolt late yesterday when temperatures plunged from above freezing to around the zero level as high winds up to 60-miles-an-hour and snow in some portions added to the discomfort and danger.

One of the most spectacular events locally was the collapse of two 60-foot poles, each carrying 24 lights, at the Fort Hill High School Stadium.

In Ridgeley, W. Va., the top and hood of a 1934-model automobile parked at Morgan's Trade School blew off.

Snow Blowing

State Police at the LaVale barracks reported that Garrett county was blanketed with about three inches of snow by about 10:30 o'clock last night and it still was falling. The high winds blew the snow so that motorists had virtually no visability. Throughout that county drivers were advised to stay off the roads.

In Allegany county the snow was concentrated in the area around Frostburg and just east of Cumberland. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad reported snow along Orleans Road near Little Orleans, east of Cumberland.

In the West Virginia area southwest of Cumberland snow and below zero thermometer readings were given. At Thomas, W. Va., the Western Maryland Railroad reported about four inches of snow and a temperature of two degrees below zero at 10:30 o'clock. The B & O said snow was falling in the Hardman, W. Va. area, not far from Grafton.

Zero Temperatures

Other low temperatures in the area by 10:30 o'clock last night were at Deal, Pa., zero and three inches of snow; Altamont, four degrees and high winds; Terra Alta, W. Va., zero and high winds.

At Constitution Park here in Cumberland yesterday's high reading was 39 degrees and at 10 p. m., it was 12 degrees, the day's low to that point, but still falling.

Frostburg had its coldest evening so far this year yesterday as the thermometer plunged down to five above zero at 8:50 p. m.

Amer Suder, official weather observer, said the thermometer has been down as far as five below this winter, but in the early morning hours.

Travel Hazardous

The Weather Bureau in Baltimore issued this special bulletin at 8:30 o'clock last night:

"Most roads and highways in Maryland tonight are dangerous and slippery. Travel should be avoided where possible during tonight and early Thursday. Where travel is necessary extreme caution should be exercised. Temperatures by early Thursday are expected to lower to zero to eight degrees in extreme Western Maryland and 10 to 15 elsewhere across northern Maryland. Continued high winds will prevail through tonight and Thursday."

Turnpike Bus Crash Takes Two Lives

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Feb. 7 (AP) — Two persons were killed and at least four others were critically injured tonight when a Greyhound bus crashed on the Pennsylvania Turnpike near Willow Hill.

Cpl. Joseph Vent, State Police, said original estimates of at least four persons dead were revised after a check.

He said State Police were unable to identify the two dead persons and there was no accurate estimate of the injured because they were taken to three various hospitals.

Vent said the bus, driven by Donald MacDock, 27, of Pittsburgh, was traveling east from Pittsburgh to Harrisburg. It skidded on the icy highway, Vent added, and struck a guard rail.

The bus then careened across the medial strip of the highway and crashed into two tractor trailers.

Vent said MacDock was seriously injured.

Mechanic Burned When Gas Ignites

A local man was slightly injured yesterday afternoon when gasoline he was using to clean parts of an electric mangle ignited.

Central Fire Company said George Vannoy, Spring Gap, mechanic for the Stein Funeral Home, 117 Frederick Street, suffered minor burns on the hand when a defective electric cord ignited the gasoline.

Slight damage was caused in the basement of the funeral home, firemen said.

Central firemen were called twice to the Central Lunch, 71 Centre Street, early last evening after a wooden grill near a hot plate became overheated and ignited.

West Side Fire Company was called to the home of D. W. Johnson, 647 Sedgwick Street, yesterday at 4:55 p. m. after a flue became overheated.

Thar She Blows!

Two light towers, each 60 feet high and carrying 24 candles or flood lights, were blown down in Fort Hill High School stadium last evening as the worst gale and coldest weather of this winter struck the area. The flood lights are used as part of a system to floodlight the field for night games. The lights had been erected less than six months ago.

Three Injured When Cars Crash On Icy Highway

Frostburg Celanese Workers Are Hurt

Three Celanese workers were injured, one of them seriously, late yesterday afternoon in a three-car collision on Route 40 at the west end of Eckhart.

Most seriously injured was James Bennett, 62, of 65 East Main Street, Frostburg, who was taken to Memorial Hospital in a State Police ambulance.

He was suffering from possible broken back but was reported in good condition. X-rays will be taken today to determine the extent of injuries.

Treated at Miners Hospital, Frostburg, were:

Bernard Wade, 42, of 68 Bowery Street, Frostburg, for lacerations and possible fractures.

John Blake, 62, of Bowery Street, Frostburg, for shock and possible fractured ribs.

Trooper Donald Wade, who investigated, said all of the injured men, including his brother, were riding in a car driven by Irwin P. Kyle, 58, of 164 East College Avenue, Frostburg, who was examined at Miners Hospital for possible injuries.

Kyle's car, State Police said, skidded on the ice covered highway about 4:50 p. m., and turned completely around, colliding with an eastbound car driven by William Kerr, Frostburg. Just as the two cars collided, a third car, driven by Matthew Adams, Brooklyn, N. Y., hit the rear of Kerr's car.

Constitutional Convention Is Urged By JC

Send Telegrams To County Delegation

The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce voted last night at its meeting at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club to send a telegram to the Allegany county delegation in Annapolis requesting that this county's representatives stand by the "mandate" to hold a Constituional Convention in Maryland.

In another action, the membership voted to accept the Miss Cumberland contract and sponsor a Miss Cumberland pageant again this year. This occurred after Donald Coomber reported that the Maryland Junior Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the state contest and the Baltimore Jaycees will sponsor the contest in that city.

Edwin Rinner informed the Jaycees that Governor McKeldin has proclaimed the week beginning Monday as Americanism Week in cooperation with the Jaycees "Voice of Democracy" program in which Rinner is state chairman.

Principal speaker last night was L. Leslie Helmer, superintendent of personnel at the Celanese plant here, who talked on "A Peek Behind the Iron Curtain." Some time ago Helmer was among a group of business men who met in New York City and heard a group of fugitives from Soviet Russia contrast conditions there with those in the United States.

Miss Susan Strong, representative of the Barter Theatre of Virginia, informed the Jaycees about "Glass Menagerie," the Barter production which will be presented at the Allegany High School next Wednesday.

The Jaycee telegram to the Allegany county delegation:

"We respectfully request the implimentation of the Constitutional Convention. Both party platforms backed it and its passage by a four-to-one vote in the State and by a two-to-one vote in this county constitute a mandate to the representatives to stand behind it."

Women Protest Youth's Spitting Activities Here

Residents of the Decatur Street area have registered bitter complaints against the activities of a man who has spit into the faces of about a dozen women in that section.

Police, contacted last night, said that complaints have been received and orders have been issued to put a halt to the man's depredations.

Some 10 women, three of them wives of city and state policemen, are among the victims who have reported the "spitting" attacks.

An Allegany Hospital nurse and several housewives are included in the victims who live on Decatur and Bedford Streets and Baltimore Avenue.

The women said the man walked up to them as if about to speak and then spat full in their faces.

One of the victims said the spitting occurred by daylight but most reported the action during early night.

The man was described as about five feet, seven inches tall, about 18 years old and was wearing crepe soled shoes and a jacket.

Local Mail Shipments To Increase

Local postal authorities expect the movement of mail throughout the eastern part of the country to be nearly normal this week according to Thomas B. Cummisky, Jr., assistant postmaster here.

Notification has been received that the partial lifting of the embargo against bulk mail will result in Cumberland offices being able to accept air mail up to 70 pounds. The original order limited air mail packages to two pounds.

The Post Office Department order, issued late yesterday, partially relaxed the tight embargo on handling bulk mail, and reestablished normal service over wide areas as a result of the partial restoration of train service. However, several midwestern states, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan were continued under a full embargo against everything except first class mail under eight ounces, daily newspapers, medical and surgical supplies, and money shipments from banks.

William R. Thayer, superintendent of mails, reported an increase in third class mail yesterday and said that incoming parcel post was almost back to normal. He declined to say whether this was the result of the order or not.

Reject Wage Offer

Drivers and Warehousemen of area wholesale grocery firms have rejected a $2 a week wage offer, C. E. Stutzman, business manager of Local 453, Teamsters Union, said. Negotations will continue, he added.

Railroads Get Good Marks On Smoke Control

Partial Violations Held To 9 Per Cent

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Western Maryland Railway received good marks Tuesday at a Cumberland Terminal Meeting.

Reports presented at the meeting showed both railroads had partial violations in about nine per cent of the observations made.

Less than 10 per cent is a good record, George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, reported.

Joseph M. Miller, superintendent of the Elkins division of the Western Maryland Railway, officiated at the meeting held in City Hall.

No Bad Violations

The Western Maryland Railway's 34 observations showed three partial violations but no bad.

Officials pointed out that both of the "bad" violations noted for B. and O. locomotives were on engines based at other terminals.

In one case, the fireman responsible was furloughed shortly after the violation. In the second case, which showed only one clear stack in four observations, mechanical trouble is suspected, as it was operated by three different crews when the observations were made.

Officials credited crews on B. and O. engines 623, 1159, 1160 and 696 with a fine job during the month. Nine observations showed nine clear stacks.

On the Western Maryland, two engines are still giving trouble, Nos. 209 and 1107, and officials promised steps would be taken to remedy the situation.

Attend Meeting

Representing the B. and O. were F. A. Murphy, road foreman of engines; Robert Raikes, fuel conservationist; C. E. Gaiser, fuel conservationist, and A. E. Beckman, master mechanic.

The Western Maryland representatives were Miller; Harry Dixon, road foreman of engines; H. W. Holsberry, assistant road foreman of engines, and G. R. Lyming, master mechanic.

City Smoke Abatement officials were Hitchcock; Charles F. Owens, deputy smoke inspector, and Ruth Morgan, secretary.

Equity Case Filed

Weather

Cumberlanders' hope for a respite from the subfreezing temperatures dropped with the mercury yesterday afternoon as they braced themselves for another cold snap. The weatherman predicts mostly fair and very cold for today. High for the 24 hour period at Constitution Park weather station was 39; low was 12. Precipitation was .40 inches for the day.

City Officials To Ask SRC Aid On Flood Phase

Seek Approval On Bridge Plan Here

City officials will go to Baltimore this morning to request State Roads Commission cooperation in the third phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control Project.

Mayor Thomas S. Post, City Attorney W. Earle Cobey and Albert S. Paye, coordinator for the project, will represent the city at the conference set for 11 a. m. in the SRC offices.

Mayor Post said the third phase of the project will chiefly consist of the construction of bridges.

A part of the work will consist of the relocation of the present dam near the Ridgeley-Cumberland bridge.

Tentative plans call for the relocation of the dam, with that structure providing the foundation of a new bridge to replace the Blue Bridge.

William Darr Begins 90-Day Jail Sentence

William R. Darr, 43-year-old Rawlings lumber mill operator, walked into the county sheriff's office about 4:15 p. m. yesterday to begin his 90-day jail sentence for manslaughter.

The Rawlings man was convicted January 17 in Allegany County Circuit Court by a jury in the traffic death December 20 of his wife, Mrs. Mary Catherine Darr, 40. Associate Judge George Henderson sentenced him January 31, but gave his seven days to settle his business affairs.

Ridgeley Man Struck By Mace Remains In Daze

Arrested Last Week On Disorderly Charge

Herman Brant, 43, Ridgeley, remains in a dazed condition in Memorial Hospital following his arrest Tuesday evening January 30, by Officer George Pfeiffer on Virginia Avenue. An eyewitness and members of the family state that Brant was struck over the left eye with a mace.

Brant was arrested about 11:45 p. m. after he boarded a bus on Virginia Avenue near Laing. According to police, Brant was booked at 12:40 a. m. Wednesday on drunk and disorderly charges and for resisting an officer. He remained in jail in a dazed condition until medical authorities were called in to examine him after he was unable to appear for his hearing, Wednesday morning, police said.

An attending physician last night said he examined Brant and had him removed to the Memorial Hospital for observation. An X-ray proved that no fracture was caused by the blow. Since Brant remained in a semi-conscious condition throughout the week and did not respond to treatment a spinal puncture will be done today.

The physician said that Brant's condition was due to a combination of things.

Taken To Jail on Stretcher

The eye witness to the incident claims that Brant was standing in front of Reinhart Furniture Store awaiting a bus when the officer approached him and told him to move along. Brant is said to have caused no commotion but merely commented he was leaving for Ridgeley when the next bus arrived. As the bus pulled in, Brant got aboard, sat down in the front seat and leaned his head on his arm next to the window.

Officer Pfeiffer is said by the witness to have boarded the bus, hit Brant over the left temple and due to the blow was compelled to get the assistance of the driver and remove him to a nearby restaurant until the patrol wagon arrived. Later Brant was taken to the jail on a stretcher in a semi-conscious condition. His condition the following morning necessitated his being removed to Memorial Hospital.

The driver of the bus, Roscoe L. Snoeberger, was not available for questioning last night due to his being in Baltimore, for a medical checkup.

Injured At Work

Brant has been living with his mother, Mrs. Daisy McKenzie, in Ridgeley for the past two months. He was employed in Baltimore but was injured in the hand when an automobile fell on him in an auto body repair shop. He had returned to this area until his injury cleared up sufficiently for him to return to work. He was un-employed at the time of the arrest.

It was determined that Brant had spent most of Tuesday in a club on Virginia Avenue. The bartender said he had had a few drinks while playing cards during the afternoon. About 7 p. m. he laid down on a bench and slept until 11:15 p. m. when he got up and said "I have to catch a bus to Ridgeley."

He immediately left and the bartender said he was not intoxicated upon departing from the club.

Brant's family said that he was subject to epileptic attacks on various occasions.

Beall Parents To Boost Band

Plans for organization of a parents group to boost the Beall High School band in Frostburg are being advanced by some of the parents and interested townspeople, Jack Platt, supervisor of music in Allegany county schools, said yesterday.

Formative arrangements were made Monday night at the Frostburg school at a covered dish supper attended by some 125 students, parents and townspeople, Platt said.

Darrell Zeller, director of the Arion band in Frostburg, suggested that the band parents organize. A committee, appointed Monday night, will meet next Monday to advance the plans.

Platt said that Fort Hill High School is the only one in the county which now has such a parents' group.

DIES IN KOREA — Mr. and Mrs. John B. Shannon, 170 McCulloh Street, Frostburg, have just received word that their son, Pfc. Joseph Michael Shannon, above, has been officially listed as dead. Previously, the Shannons had been informed August 10 that their son had been missing in action in the Korean War since July 25. Another son, Corp. Robert E. Shannon, has been reported missing in action since December 6.

School Conducts Choral Reading Demonstrations

Centre Street Scene Of Two Programs

A choral reading demonstration, similar to one presented yesterday afternoon at Centre Street School, will be offered again this afternoon at the Cumberland school.

About 50 teachers from Cumberland, LaVale, Frostburg, Corriganville, Eckhart and Ellerslie watched the demonstration yesterday by pupils in the second, fourth, fifth and sixth grades at Centre Street School.

Miss Agnes Lauder, school principal, and her teachers conducted the demonstration from about 2:15 until 3:30 p. m. Choral reading is reading in unison in which meaning, mood and rhythm are emphasized.

Miss Winifred Green, elementary school supervisor, officiated at the discussion which followed the demonstration. A leader in the discussion was Miss Loretta McGeady, former principal at Centre Street School and now principal at Johnson Heights School, who was a pioneer in the choral reading program. Among others who attended were School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp, Miss Mildred Willison and Miss Jane Botsford, elementary supervisors, and Miss Mary Walsh, librarian of the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Another group of teachers will attend this afternoon's demonstration and Miss Willison will lead this discussion.

Progress Noted In Sanitation

Corrective measures are being taken in connection with 186 sanitation complaints made in January, Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, said yesterday.

Highlights of the month were the razing of five condemned dwellings, improvement in sewage nuisance conditions and the opening of a drive to curb roadside dumping.

J. B. Dowling, state sanitarian, said a complicated sewage condition on several highways, where raw sewage was seeping upon the highway and freezing, is being corrected.

Plans for water and sewage disposal disposal systems in the county are going forward satisfactorily, Dowling said.

Members of the department made some 344 field trips during the month, including a number of conferences with home owners on septic tank installations.

Classes of student nurses from Memorial Hopital were conducted on tours by the sanitation department as part of their training.

Continuing efforts are being made, in cooperation with the State Roads Commission, to correct unsanitary and unsightly nuisances caused by roadside dumping.

Deadline Is Today

Area artists were reminded yesterday that today is the deadline for submitting entries in the Tri-State Art Exhibit, which will begin Monday in the auditorium of the Cumberland Free Public Library and will run until March 16.

Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, said that many artists have submitted entries. Two are permitted for each entrant.

Delegation Gives Approval For Local Measures

Poetry Day Bill Revived In Senate

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday issued favorable reports on five bills, including one which would set up fees for candidates in Cumberland elections.

The first, HB64, requires that candidates for mayor of Cumberland pay a $40 filing fee with $25 fees for council candidates, and abolishes present petition requirements. It was passed by the Delegation and will receive its third hearing in the House soon.

HB 163, by the Delegation, received a favorable report yesterday and is slated for its third reading soon.

The measure would allow the Board of Allegany County Commissioners to spend amounts up to $3,500 without a bidding but requires advertising and bidding on expenditures greater than that amount.

Approve Lonaconing Bill

HB 149, introduced by Delegate Noel Speir Cook, providing slight increases in pay for the mayor and council of Lonaconing, received a favorable report.

HB 182, by Cook, to speed up revision of land plats of this county, was reported out favorably. It authorized the county to spend $2,000 yearly, instead of $1,000, but does not increase allocations for the work.

HB 12, sponsored by Delegate See, (Allegany), and Delegate Virts (Frederick) requesting the Employment Commission to set up an examination and create the job of dictaphone typist, received a favorable delegation report.

The work is now classed as stenographic. With the change in classification, and a new type of examination, blind people could qualify for the work.

Poetry Day Revived

A legal "Poetry Day" in Maryland got a new lease on life yesterday.

A bill to designate Oct. 15 as annual Poetry Day had been given an unfavorable report by the Senate Judiciary Committee recently. But the committee and the Senate was prevailed to take it back for more consideration.

After listening to its sponsor, Delegate See (R-Allegany), the Senate committee changed its attitude and voted approval today. Senator Crothers (D-Cecil), committee Chairman, said 40 other states now have a statutory "Poetry Day" and there is no reason Maryland shouldn't.

The reconsideration of the bill yesterday came after Senator Robert B. Kimble, Senate minority leader, asked that the former action be reconsidered.

Both Delegate See and Mrs. See appeared before the committee, urging the passage of the measure.

Seek QM Laboratory

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday introduced a House resolution requesting General Marshall to locate a proposed Army Quartermaster Corps laboratory in Cumberland.

The resolution was referred to the House Ways and Means committee and is expected to receive a favorable report today.

Heads House Group

Delegate Fred B. Driscoll, Cumberland, yesterday was appointed chairman of a House Minority committee named to re-distribute Maryland in order to name a seventh congressman.

The state is entitled to name one additional congressman as the result of the 1950 census figures.

Safety Department Proposed

Delegates See and Reed yesterday introduced a bill to set up a separate state Department of Safety.

The department is now part of the Workmen's Compensation Department.

The measure would divorce the unit from its present department but would not increase the cost to the taxpayers since present personnel, a director, five inspectors and one stenographer would comprise the staff.

4-H Adult Leaders To Attend Meeting

About 100 adult 4-H Club leaders from Allegany and Garrett counties will atend a district leaders meeting at LaVale Fire Hall from 10 a. m. until 3:30 p. m. Saturday.

Features of the meeting will be two speeches by Wakeline McNeel, former Wisconsin State 4-H Club agent, now retired. He will discuss "Helping Youth in These Confused Times," and "Victories in Other Lives."

Other speakers will be Mylo Downey, Maryland State Boys 4-H Club agent, and Miss Dorothy Emerson, State Girls 4-H Club agent.

Frankfort Assault Trial Today

The trial of City Police probationary officer Carl W. Frankfort on charges of assault preferred by William Shumaker is scheduled for today at 10 a. m. in Trial Magistrates Court.

The warrant, issued by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew, alleges that Frankfort assaulted Shumaker with a blackjack near Midway Inn, January 28.

Red Cross Trains Home Nurse Instructors

A group of local trainees have begun a 30-hour course in home nursing under the supervision of the American Red Cross at Allegany Hospital. The program is scheduled to coincide with national Red Cross civil defense plan to have a corps of instructors available to teach 700,000 persons home nursing so that there will be at least one person in every home familiar with the rudiments of nursing in the event of national or local disaster. Left to right, standing, are Miss Joan Broeseker, Mrs. Bartlett, Mrs. Greta Beeman, Miss Betty Engle, Mrs. Lona Daum, Miss Thelma Seiforth, Miss Dottie Kerr, Miss Evelyn Kinsinger, Miss Rose Gormer, Miss Vivienne Pough, Mrs. Jean Finley who is Nursing Arts Instructor at Allegany high school, Mrs. Harriet Boore, Miss Eleanor Keefe, Miss Fena Andersen, training instructor, and the patient, Mrs. Clara McGibbon.
